BURGLARS AT WYOMING.

Enter the Methodist Parsonage, but Through Heroism of Pastor's Daughter They Were Frightened Away.

Wilkes-Barre, June 9 .- The Times says: Burglars entered the Methodist parsonage at Wyoming early this morning, but through the prompt and parsonage heroic action of Miss Triebel, a daughter of the minister, they were fright-ened away, but not before terrifying the household.

The pastor of the Methodist Episco-pal church is Rev. William Triebel. Mrs. Triebel was ill last night and slept in a room on the lower floor. Rev. Mr. Triebel, his son and daughter, occupled rooms on the second floor. Some time after midnight the minister was awakened by a suspicious noise, and partly rose and called to his wife. At that moment he saw the form of a man standing near his bed and inquired what he wanted. The stranger, with a glistening revolver in his hand, said in an undertone: "The best thing you can do, old man is to sneak down under those bed clothes and remain as quist as you can, for there are others in the house with me and it won't be well for you if you make a noise." course the minister could not help complying with a request so modestly made, and he slid without further add right down under the quilts.

DAUGHTER'S BRAVERY.

Miss Triebel had heard her father call and got up intending to go to his room and inquire what the trouble was, but, hearing a noise near her door she hurri-d into the darkest correr of her room and had hardly reached it when a man dressed in dark clothing entered. He struck a match and glanced at the bed, and seeing it was unoccupied, turned and left the apartments without discovering the presence of Miss Triebel. The latter was on the heels of the burglar at ence and tip toed it out of the room and down stairs, reaching the bottom without being scen. From here she hurried out of doors and over to the house of Dr. Knapp, whom she aroused with as little noise as possible. The doctor quickly responded and, arming himself, hastened to the parsonage, but strange to say, when he and Miss Trietel arrived the burglars had made their escape The visitors had taken Mr. Triebel's trousers from the room which he occupied to another apariment and turned the pockets inside out, but fortunately the minister had placed his pocketbook and gold watch under his pillow and, as there was little else of value in the way of cash or gold that came under their observation, their haul was very slight, in fact, the only article missing this morning was a pair of gold glasses. Miss Triebel says that when she stood in the corner of the room and when the burglar struck the match spite the incessant down pour of rain she had a good look at his face and she could identify him if she saw him

Found to Be Profitable -- New Plant at Miner's Mills.

Wilkes-Barre, June 9 .- The Leader says: The Anthony culm washery at Miner's Mills will be ready for operation about July 1. The plant will employ eighteen men and will be able to ship from three to six hundred tons per day. The company has a washery at Dunmore and another at Sugar Notch, and the output of these is from five to eight hundred tons per day each. A ready market is found for the coal at prices sometimes better for the same sizes than is gotten for freshly mined coal. The coal shipped, on account of being washed, is cleaner looking and therefore more readily sold. The machinery used separates the large sizes of coal from the rock. The latter is crushed as fine as pea coal and flushed into the mines through a borehole. By this means every bit of coal exceeding one-sixteenth of an inch in size is used to advantage. The Anthony Bros. are trying to get hold of all the culm heaps

CRY FOR VIGILANTES.

Police Seem Ineffective in Coping with Daring Burglars.

Wilkes-Barre, June 9 .- The Leader says: Burglaries on the west side are evidently becoming epidemic. Early yesterday morning thieves entered the restaurant of John Semanek on Main street, Kingston, and stole fourteen quart bottles of whiskey, 300 or more cigars, $30 in cash and several pairs rine. of stockings. A pitcher of milk, which stood on a table, was drained possibly first nine. as a chaser after some of the whisky An entrance was gained through a rear shanty. The thieves are no doubt local voole men as they must have known the

After purloining Mr. Semanek's propcity, they or some pals visited Hughes & Glennon's vaults near the Kingston lumber yard and hauled away three quarter-barrels of lager. These pecty larcenies are becoming estirely too frequent and a vigilance committee may be organized as the police force appears to be inadequate to cope with the AVOCA.

The sixteenth semi-annual Sunday school convention was held in the Primitive Methodist church on Tues-
