DAVIS-JENKINS NUPTIALS.

Ceremony Performed at Residence of Bride's Parents by Dr. Harris.

At the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Evan J. Davis, of South Main avenue, last night, their daughter, Miss Mary J. Davis, was united in marriage to Dr. Thomas Jenkins, of Albany, N. Y. Precisely at 8.20 Mrs. Nellie Moses-Thomas began playing the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and the bride-elect slowly stepped from the sitting room into the inner parlor. She leaned upon the arm of her father and was accompanied by Miss Sarah Meredith, her bridesmaid. The groom-elect stepping from a rear room met them half way in the room and was accompanied by William J. Davis a brother of the bride-elect, as best man. Standing in front of Rev. H. H. Harris, E. D. pastor of the Calvary Episcopal church and beneath a canopy of field daisies they were pronounced man and wife.

At the close of the ceremony, Rev. Benjamin Jones, of Wisconsin, Pa., an uncle of the bride, offered a prayer of benediction upon the couple. Then the guests were given an opportunity to tender their congratulations to Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins, which they did in a hearty manner. While this was being done Mrs. Thomas played the flower song by Liszt and afterward Mendelssohn's chorus.

The bride was attired in a rich gown of white broadcloth, trimmed with point lace and wore at her throat a diamond pendant, a gift from the bridegroom. Miss Meredith, bridesmaid, was tastefully gowned in white organdie over white silk. The bride carried a large bouquet of bridal roses and her maid one of white carnations. Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins and their bride and bridesmaid were in conventional suits of black.

After all had tendered their wishes the guests were seated and a bountiful wedding repast was served by a corps of charming young ladies, intimates of the bride. The remainder of the evening, until the departure of Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins on the 1.40 Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train for New York city, on their bridal tour, was spent in pleasant conversation and singing. The rooms on the first floor were tastefully adorned with field daisies and laurel branches, and cut flowers interspersed. The cut flowers were arranged by Miss Hattie Davis, florist. The wedding presents were many and useful.

After a short visit in New York city, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins will go to Albany, where they will hereafter reside. Dr. Jenkins, who is a son of Pharmacist John L. Jenkins, of Jackson street, is already enjoying a lucrative practice in Albany.

FUNERAL OF MRS. JONES.
The last tribute of love and respect from family and friends was paid to the remains of the late Mrs. Charlotte Jones in the holding of the funeral services. At 2 o'clock many friends had gathered at the residence on South Hyde Park avenue where Rev. Jacob Davis, of Plymouth, held a short prayer service. Following this service the remains were borne to the First Welsh Baptist church and Rev. John Lloyd, of Wilkes-Barre and Rev. Jacob Davis, of Plymouth, each preached sermons in Welsh. Both sermons were touching retrospects of the deceased's kindly life, that of Rev. Mr. Davis being especially so, as he had known the dead lady for many years. The remains, calm and peaceful in the repose of death, lay in a beautiful casket, upon which many exquisite floral offerings from the family members and friends were strewn. At the close of the service, friends passed the coffin in review of the dead one whom they had known so well in life, and both loved and respected. The body was then borne to the Washburn street cemetery, accompanied by a large funeral cortege and laid in final rest. Those who acted as pallbearers were: John J. Morgan, William D. Morris, Joseph Reynolds, David Vaughan, Henry P. Davis and Thomas Howells. The out-of-town friends, and relatives in attendance were: Mr. and Mrs. Daniel W. Reese, Parsons; Evan Rolands, Henry Jones, Wilkes-Barre; William R. Edwards, Greenwood; Richard Price, Iowa; Eliza Marks, Olyphant.

"Yes, dear wife," and he closed his eyes, "the end is near. The world—the world grows dark around me, gathering thicker and thicker, and I seem to hear sweet music."

"No, no, dear John; that's the brass band in the street."

"What?" said the dying man. "Have those scoundrels dared to come round here when they know I'm dying? Give me my boot-jack, I'll let 'em see!" and in a towering rage the old man jumped from his bed, and before his wife could think, he had opened the window and had slipped the boot-jack at the band, "I've hit that Dutch lecher, anyway," said he, and went back to bed and got better."—Tit-Bits.
