Tommy Gillon Was an Easy Mark for the Salt City Boys.

Special to the Stranton Tribune Syracuse, N. Y., June 13 .- The "Miners" were not in the race yesterday afternoon at all. From the beginning the Syracuse players dealt most unhospitably with his curves but they were particularly flerce in the onslaughts of Mr. Gillon in the third, fourth and eighth innings.

Lampe, who did the twirling for Syracuse, was in fine form, as is shown by the following score: SYRACUSE.

ASSISTANCE ASKED FOR.

It Not Forthcoming, Wilker-Barre Will Have to Disband.

circular letter, signed by William S. McLean, Isaac P. Hand and H. J. Dennin, a committee of the directors of the Wilkes-Barre base ball club, has been sent to the numerous friends of the ball club asking contributions to keep the club from disbanding.

The news of the danger to the club should arouse all lovers of the national game and bring material aid to the directors who are struggling against bad weather and hard times, endeavor-Garry, Time-1.40. Umpire-Swartwood, ing to keep the club in the league despite the discouraging prospects.

President McLean of the club stated to a Times reporter today that the liabilities of the club is $3,600, the assets but $800, leaving the net indebt-edness $2,800. The team will return home from its trip on Wednesday next, June 16th, and Mr. McLean says that unless the $2,800 is raised by Wednesday, the club will have to disband.

The committee of directors will make a personal appeal to the friends of the club and should be given liberal financial encouragement. Every dollar counts and all who can should rally to the support of the club and free it from the financial difficulties that hinder it from playing winning ball. Don't wait until the committee seeks you out but send your check at once and encourage them in their unselfish desire to keep th club here. Wilkes-Barre cannot afford the humiliation and disgrace of losing so valuable an article as a franchise in the Eastern league.-Wilkes-Barge Times.

Hill cemetery, Philadelphia, was erected last week by the Harry Wright Memorial association, the life-size bronze statue of him. The statue represents the veteran manager standing erect, in citizen's attire, holding in one hand a soft felt hat and in the other a pair of eye glasses. Clymer, the centerfielder of the Buffalo team, in the Eastern league, is tipped as a future member of top loftical base bail society by Elton Chamberlain. Elt says the major league club that lands Clymer will make one of the finds for next season. Chamberlain prefers Clymer to the muchtouted Gray.-Pittsburg News.

All the players who have met Sockalexis in games agree that he is a wonder. "Why," said Ewing, "he made one of the greatest plays in Cincinnati that I ever have seen. Far out in right center he pulled down a hit that looked as good for three bases as it did for one, and scarcely going three steps further he turned and threw the ball on a line into Zimmer's hands at the plate. None of them can throw with him."

SOME BICYCLE CHAT FROM MANY SOURCES

Interest to Both Sexes.

ATHLETIC FEATS ON THE WHEEL

Riding a Tight Rope Is Really a Commonplace Trick -- Something New About Pedals and the Feet. New System for Repairing a Single Tube--Bicycle Mechanic's Views 2.18 1-5. on the '97 Wheel -- Cycling from a Medical Standpoint.

Athletic feats on bicycles are becoming common. Nearly every circus has its riders who traverse a tight rope mounted upon wheels. The feat is not as difficult as it seems, as the wheels are generally fitted with a grooved Uncle Anson and Wagner Discuss a tire fitting the rope snugly. Nerve and a fair degree of skill are almost all the requirements for such exploits. Several years ago a bicyclist crossed Niagara river, just below the falls, on a tight rope. The show was commonplace, however, and attracted little attention. "Shooting the chutes" on a wheel has been a performance that attracted considerable rotice here last year. Starting from a level platform, the rider strikes the incline. which is made slippery with a constant flow of water, and glides downward a distance of 300 feet to an artificial pond on the ground level. Here the wheel balks and the rider takes a "header" into the water and emerges unarmed. There is a very simple trick in this performance which any one may learn in a half dozen trials. Hazardous though it may appear to the uninitiated, it is really attended with little risk of injury to an active man or woman. It is a catchy perform-

Almost every bleyeler believes that as he rides his wheel his foot swings backward with the pedal. He thinks his feet describe a series of circles, following the pedals around, and that they move backward and forward just as much as they move up and down. This, it has now been found by careful measurement, is quite a mistake. from the time you mount your wheel until you dismount your feet never move backward. They are constantly moving forward, not in circles, but in a series of curves. The reason for this is that as your foot swings under the crank shaft the bloycle moves forward much more rapidly than the pedstant forward movement. While your foot moves backward in relation to your body, yet it moves more rapidly than the pedal swings back. The result is a constant forward movement. While your foot moves backward in relation to your body, yet it moves more rapidly forward in relation to building his castle on a throne of sand the ground. It has been found by so to speak, but who can say that the testing a bicycle with ordinary gear that the wheels make two and onequarter revolutions to one revolution of the pedals. If the bicycle were suspended in the air your feet would move backward just as much as it moved forward, and upward to just the extent that it moved downward. in describing a series of perfect circles, but in relation to the ground or any fixed point neither one of your feet start your bicycle until you stop.

"Physiology and Pathology of Cycling" was the subject of discussion of meeting of the medical session of the the Buffalo Academy of Medicine recently. The consensus of opinion of the physicians assembled seemed to be that the wheel is an aid to mankind, not a detriment, if used in moderation. Cycling was pronounced beneficial to the nervous system and an aid to the lungs and digestive organs. The practitioners who spoke did not make rash statements to this effect, but gave striking examples of the evils of overindulgence in cycling, principally by weak subjects. Riding just before and immediately after meals was condemned. Dr. Woods Hutchinson gave a little talk on his observations. He was closely connected with a gymnaslum in the west at the opening of the bicycling craze and shared in the prejudice against wheeling at the start especially in the case of the growing boy. The chief objections, to his mind, were the "monkey-on-a-stick" position, the fast pace maintained without preparation by training, and rivalry that led up to extra exertion to outdo others. Constant study since that early man Lander, of Brown university, and period had demonstrated that a gradual change has come over the relations of wheel and rider. The question of the wheel was not so much the principal thing as the physical condition pennant that it has been in previous and abilities of the rider. The old humped position had, in the majority of cases, given place to the easier, more but as it refuses to play Sunday ball healthful position on the saddle, and the Springfield team was imported to the effect of cycling pursued under exfurnish amusement to the Salt City Isting reforms was to elevate the grade of physical form. NATIONAL LEAGUE PHENOMS.

Interesting Subject. Earl Wagner and Uncle Anson waxed statistical at the Arlington in a post supper chat recently. Spake Uncle: "I tell you what it is, Earl, these infielders are as scarce as an I. O. U. in Jack Glasscock's securities. Since '89 the Chicago club has thrown away $30,000 in investing coin in minor league experiments and phenoms. It was in the fall of '89 that Pfeffer left us for that busted bubble, the Brotherhood. I immediately began to spar for a second baseman and have been sparing off and on ever since.

"I have signed and released enough infielders since '89 to boom the pop-ulation of a one night stand. But in Pfeffer and Connor, I am fixed for the sort of infielder that is strong enough to travel with your Uncle's Colts." Wagner then reminded Uncle that but five infielders have been developed since '88 by the major League clubs. Quoth Earl: "Of course, you are fig-uring that Connor is clever enough to entitle him to credentials in the swellest baseball society.. But I have frequently observed that a ball player must have at least a season and a half in the big Legue before he is given the credentials that keep him in the upper baseball tendom. This, of course, applies especially to pitchers The five infielders that have been brought out in the past five years are Collins, of Boston; Wallace, of Cleveland; McGraw, of Baltimore, and De Montreville and Wrigley, of Washington. Though Wrigley has been in the major League less than six months, his playing has been of such a fast or-long before '92, but he wasn't used as an infielder till '92. Since '92 I have spent $20,000, and lost scores of games before the advent of De Montreville and Wrigley. Thus the the public can appreciate the search, worry and expenditure that are involved in building up a ball club. Ed Hanlon, of course, deserves credit for building his castle on a throne of sand gladsome hand of Fortune hasn't tickled the palm of Hanlon. There is Jennings. He was signed by Hanlon, because the Louisville club decided that Hughey's arm was out of gear. Hanlon took a chance on Jennings and there you are."
