The Louvre has on the avenue Rapp a great building accommodating 250 male employes, and not far from it another, where 100 young girls are lodged. The Bon Marche furnishes similar accommodations. All these establishments are conducted under pecultarly stringent rules. The girls have a parlor where the entertainments are organized on Sundays and certain evenings of the week, but from which the other sex is excluded utterly. Not even a father or a brother may be received there. All the employes receive their meals in the stores, except the highest, and these are permitted to eat outside, and receive an allowance of $00 francs a year in the way of commutation rations. Furthermore, married employes are allowed to dine at home, and receive a commutation of one franc a day. The average cost of food is from 32 to 40 cents a day for each employe.

The fare consists, at the Louvre, of one bread that can be eaten, dessert and a pint of claret. For dinner soup is added. At the Bon Marche the employes may ask for two helpings of meat. The average daily quantity of food consumed in one of these establishments includes 2,590 quarts of soup, 3,000 pounds of bread, 2,500 pounds of meat, ,200 pounds of fish, 500 pounds of butter and ten barrels of wine. At the Louvre the kitchen force includes fifteen cooks and eighty waiters. The cost of the food exceeds 2,000,000 francs a year. The great stores have a medical service for their employes, which includes an infirmary and outings in the country or at the seashore. In addition when a man or woman completes seven years of service at the Louvre a sum of 1,000 francs is accredited to him in the pension fund, and afterward 200 francs. a year up to his fiftleth year of service. The savings fund of the Bon Marche amounts now to 2,000,000 francs, and 200,000 france is added annually, and in addition there is a pension fund founded by Mme. Boucleault, who built up this immense business, which now amounts to 6,000,000 francs.

DEPARTMENT STORES OF PARIS

System by Which the Employes Are Organized, Lodged and Fed. From the Philadelphia Record.

The great department stores in Paris, such as the Bon Marche, the Louvre and the Printemps, carry the organization of employes to a point not dreamed of here, and have in operation extensive and costly plans for stimulating the interest and energy of the help in the business to the highest degree The new employe receives at the start a salary of 400 francs, or about $80 a year, besides being lodged and fed, and in addition a commission of from 2 to 5 per cent, upon his sales, so that the owest salesman rarely makes less than $160 a year. A head of department, or huyer, as he is known here, may easily make from $2,500 to $3,000 a year, and some of them exceed $5,000. While these figures are low compared with the $10,000 and $20,000 salaries paid in New York, they seem high when measured by the scale of salaries that prevails in France. Thus the best paid among the higher employes receive larger salaries that the presidents of sections in the council of state and generals of divisions. The average pay an experienced salesman is about 4,000 francs, or $800 a year. The total number of employes in the Bon Marche and the Louvre is about 3,000 each, among whom are only about 400 women. In the Bon Marche and the Louvre lodging in the buildings provided by the establishment is optional for employes of both sexes less than
