PRETTY BRIDES OF MONTH OF ROSES

Isaac Harris and Miss Jane Williams Married in Plymouth Parsonage.

THE BANNISTER-WRIGHT NUPTIALS

It Was a Quite Home Wedding and Only the Immediate Relatives Were Present -- Miss Elizabeth Ward Becomes the Bride of Attor-Atkinson-Dorflinger Marriage in Grace Church, Honesdale.

Isaac Harris, of South Main avenue, and Miss Jane Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Williams of 344 North Sumner avenue, were married at the Plymouth Congregational church parsonage at 9 o'clock last evening by the Rev. Thomas Bell, pastor of the church. The bride-elect was attired in a travelling oostume of light green cashmere cloth, trimmed with chiffon and wearing a corsage bouquet of bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Agnes Williams, of Peckville. The bridesmaid was attired in a dress of the same material, trimmed with insertion lace and wearing a corrage bouquet of bridal roses. Mr. Harris was attended by his brother, Thomas Harris, as best man and both were attired in the conventional black. As the bridal party were leaving the bride's home Miss Margaret Hughes played a wedding march entitled "General Grant."

Immediately after the ceremony the party were driven to the bride's residence where a reception was held followed by a post-nuptial repast. Mr. and Mrs. Harris left on the 1.40 Delafor New York city and Long Island, on their wedding tour. They will be gone about a week. Upon their return they will reside at No 311 North Bromley avenue, the house being already fur-The couple were the recipinished. ents of many useful and beautiful wedding presents. Both of the young people are well-known on the West Side. Mrs. Harris is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Williams and Mr. Harris is employed as a linotyper in The Tribune composing room. The reception was attended by only the immediate relatives and friends of The salary of the postmaster of Scranton has been increased from $3,300 to $3,400 and that of the postmaster of Dunmore from $1,300 to $1,400.

Bannister-Wright.

In a room that was a veritable bower of roses the solemn words were spoken yesterday morning that made Miss Alice Menner Wright of this city, and Dwight V. Bannister of Le Roy. N. Y., man and wife. Miss Wright is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Le Grand Wright of Capouse avenue and the interesting ceremony was performed in the parlor of the family residence by Rev. George Guild, pastor of the Providence Presbyterian Both bride and groom were unattended and only the members of the families of the bride and groom immediate relatives were and their present. Miss Della Penwarden played the wedding march. The marriage took from 8 o'clock until noon and from 2 place at 11 a. m., and immediately afterwards a wedding dinner was served. At 12.55 Mr. and Mrs. Bannister started on a wedding tour to New York and the seashore. They will be "at home" to their friends in their residence at West Pittston after June 23. Mrs. Bannister is a pretty and accomplished young woman who has a large circle of warm friends. She was the recipient of a number of handsome presents, one of which came from the young ladies of the Colliery Engineer, where Mrs. Bannister was for a time employed. Mr. Bannister is in the railway mail service and has one of the most important positions in the East. He is one of the clerks on the mail train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad which makes the run from Buffalo to New York.

Loughran-Ward.

P. F. Loughran, of Hazleton, a rising young member of the Luzerne bar. and Miss Elizabeth Ward, of Lackawanna avenue were married in St. Peters cathedral at high noon by Rev. W. Malone, Miss Elizabeth Gerrity of this city was bridesmaid and Joseph Loughran, of Hazleton, brother of the groom was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding re-past was enjoyed at the home of the oride's aunt, Miss Anna Heafey, of Lackswanna avenue, with whom she made her home. Owing to a recent death in the family of the groom the wedding was private. The out-of-town guests numbered only near relatives of the groom, Mrs. McGerrity, Mrs. Loughran, Mr. and Mrs. John Loughran, Joseph Loughran, and Thomas Loughran, all of Hazleton.

At 4.40 the newly married couple left on the Delaware and Hudson road for Philadelphia where they will spend a few weeks prior to taking up their residence in Hazleton. The bride is highly talented young lady, being a graduate of Bloomsburg normal school and the Boston Conservatory of Music, and one of Scranton's most highly esteemed young ladies.

Garvey-Rogan.

In St. John's Catholic church, South Side yesterday morning at 8 o'clock, William Garvey of Bellevue, and Miss 3, Rogan of Maple street, were married by Rev. E. J. Melley. Miss Annie Jordan of Pittston avenue was bridesmaid, and John Finnegan of Bellevue groomsman. A large number of the friends of the bride and groom were present to see the ceremony. The bride wore a very becoming gown of cream silk and her attendant was attired in gown of figured lansdowne. A weding breakfast at the bride's home fol-owed the marriage ceremony. At noon Mr. and Mrs. Garvey left for Atlantic City where they will spend their honeymoon. They are both very popular young people.

Atkinson-Dorflinger.

In Grace Church, Honesdale, at 11.30 esterday Miss Carlotta Dorflinger of White Mills, was married to Rev. John Robert Atkinson, rector of Trinity Opiscopal church of Elizabeth, N. J. The ceremony wes performed by Rev. George C. Hall, rector of St. John's church, Wilmington, Del., who was assisted by Very Rev. John N. Lewis, jr., dean of Christ Church Cuthedral, Lex-

Only the families and a few immediate friends of the contracting parties saw the ceremony which was beautiful in its simplicity.

Baxter-Gurd. Mrs. Charlotte Gurd was married to John G. Baxter in the Grace Reformed Episcopal church yesterday by Rev. Richard Hiorns. Both bride and groom are residents of this city. The wed-ding was a very quiet affair.

QUIET MORNING WEDDING.

Nuptials of Mr. C. Clifford Garrison and Miss Amelia Bechtold. C. Clifford Garrison, of Schenectady N. Y., and Miss Amelia Bechtold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bechtold, of Butler street, were united ney P. F. Longhran, of Hazleton, in marriage at 10 o'clock this morning at the bride's home by Rev. Robert Conrad. It was an exceedingly quiet affair, the only guests in attendance being the immediate relatives of the wedding couple, including L. S. Richard and family, of Scranton; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Garrison, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Garrison, Harry Garrison and Miss Bertha Garrison, all of Wilkes-Barre. The company enjoyed a wedding din-ner, after which the newly wedded couple left on the 12.30 train for New York, whence they will enjoy a trip up the Hudson. They will at once begin nousekeeping at Schenectady, Mr. Garrison having a neatly furnished home in readiness for his bride.

The removal from the city of one who has made herself so eminently has Mrs. Garrison cannot but occasion sincere regret among her very large circle of friends and acquaintances. Possessed of many personal graces and a musical education of a high rank, she has been deservedly popular, and has enjoyed the esteem of all who know her. The regret occasioned by her departure is softened only by the knowledge of the true worth of the young man who has won her heart and hand. Mr. Garrisan is not a stranger in these parts. A former Wilkes-Barreware. Lackawanna and Western train | ian, he has many warm friends in that | city and here who know him but to value his manly qualities. He and his Pittston Gazette.

ANOTHER SILK MILL.

It May Be Established Here by New York Men.

Several men from New York city who are looking for a suitable location for a silk mill were in the city yesterday and were shown about by Secretary D. B. Atherton, of the board of trade. The gentlemen did not consider it advisable to locate their mill on the South Side and confined their investigations to the northern part of the city and the territory lying between the city line and Olyphant. There are a number of silk mills on the South Side at the present time and another one starting down there might be handlcapped by scarcity of the right kind of labor.

All that the men who were here yeserday ask is the donation of a suitable site, and if this is given them they may come. If they decide to locate here they will erect a mill 300x100 feet, which will employ 350 persons.

THE SCRANTON CASH STORE,

OTHER SIDE OF THE VON STORCH CASE

Defendant Rests After Consuming Nine Weary Days.

PLAINTIFF BEGINS IN REBUTTAL

Proposes to Show That William Von Von Storch Received Absolute Title for the Property in Dispute from Henry M. Fuller and That Currington S. Von Storch Has Been Simply a Tenant by Suffrage .- Other Cases ia Common Pleas Court.

That there are always at least two sides to every story was newly instanced in the Von Storch case, yester day, when the defendants after spending nine days in reciting their side of the case rested and the plaintiffs made their opening in rebuttal. Judge Gunster was the first witness of the day. He was attorney for Ferdinand's heirs at the time of the trans fer of trusteeship from Bennett to William and Godfrey. The defendants strove to prove by him that the cash paid to Bennett in the transaction was derived from the sale of coal mined by useful in church and musical circles as the Delaware and Hudson company under coal leases in which Ferdinand held on the heaviest interest.

Leander and Robert Von Storch heirs of Ferdinand testified that they knew nothing of the separate deed being given to William for the land in dispute, supposing all along that it was given in trust to William and Godfrey jointly, the same as had been done with the farm tract. Mrs. Hattle Von Storch, wife of the defendant, gave additional testimony of Currington's poseession and im provement of the property in dispute. Obert Shafer, John Chenoweth, Samuel Shook, George Spencer, Sarah Weathbride will begin their wedded life with ers, Charles Price and H. B. Lackev, the best wishes of a host of friends.— all old neighbors Testified to knowing that Currington had occupied and improved the property. Several of them had purchased grass from the plot and Currington for it; others ploughed it and were paid for the work by Currington.

DEFENSE RESTED.

With this the defense rested and Mr Farnham began the opening for the plaintiff in rebuttal of the alleged ust set up by Currington. The title of H. M. Fuller, Mr. Farn ham went on to say, was not a title in trust but an absolute title, he having purchased the land for the creditors of the Hermann brothers. William Von Storch paid to Fuller between $2,800 and $3,000 in solid cash, that he might pay off the debts owin, to the clients for whom he had bought the property. In consideration of this Fuller gave to William a full title and under this conveyance William now Currington has been simply a tenan by suffrage, he said. All these years that Currington has occupied the property, William has paid the taxes, made improvements and in other ways supervised, directed and controlled the operty without let or hindrance and with the full knowledge of the tenants that he was acting in the capacity of undisputed owner.

It was the purpose of the plaintiffs side, Mr. Farnham further said, to out in evidence a paper drawn up at the Sir: In reference to two statements in time of the Bennett transfer in 1868 morning with a verdict in favor of the Tribune of the issues dated June 15 and signed by various of the heirs of defendants. At the former trial of the Ferdinand, Mrs. Sawyer, the star witness for the defense, among them showing that they then disclaimed all equity in the plot in dispute and avowed that this particular piece of land was not held by William as trustee, but that he had the unquestionable legal and equitable title in it.

TESTIMONY TAKEN.

Then began the taking of testimony n support of these contentions. Mr Scragg examining for the plaintiff and Mr. Kelly cross-examining.

C. D. Farnham, a carpenter, who has been a neighbor of the Von Storchs for over forty years testified that he did work on the property occupied by Currington in 1876 and 1878 at the direction f William, and had received pay for he some from William. In contradiction of Currington's testimony, Mr. Parnham further stated that he hung gates on the line fence between the property occupied by Currington and William's residence at William's direction, under William's personal supervision, in presence of Currington and without any objection or slightest show of opposition from Currington. He also testified that another time when he shingled the roof of Currington's home, he received the material from William and was paid by him for the work.

Thomas Shotten, assessor of the Second ward, stated that in 1888 when he was first appointed he went to Curington in making up his assessment to find who the property should be asessed to. Currington told him that Uncle William" had always paid the #### taxes and he accordingly assessed the property to William VonStorch. This morning the plaintiff will pro-cure the Second ward assessment books to show that the property has been assessed to William ever since. IN THE JURY'S HANDS.

The Replogle-Frothingham case went te the jury at 3.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Frothingham, in his own defense, contended that he had reason for causing Mr. Replogle's arrest; that Replogle had collected from him $125 in excess of what he owed him on a note and refused to return it on demand. He denied having told a client of Mr. Replogle that he intended to have him disbarred and avowed that the interview with him published in the Elmira Telegram was elso wrong, wherein it made him say that he intended to have Mr. Replogle disbarred. Attorney C. S. Woodruff testified that Mr. Replogle admitted to him in Mr Frothingham's presence that Mr Frothingham had paid to the sheriff $125 in excess of the judgment in ques tion, but he considered that he had been damaged at least to that amoun by Mr. Frothingham having him ar

Mrs. Ellen O'Donnell has a suit be fore Judge Searle in court room No. 2. against Charles Du Pont Breck to re cover $260, which she alleges he illegally detained from her. In 1890 Mrs D'Donnell sought to purchase the Monies & Pughe property on Washington avenue, which she heard was to be sold for $16,000. She went to Mr. Breck, she claims, and engaged him to secure it for her, it being agreed that he would get it for less than the announced price if he could.

SECURED AN OPTION. He secured an option on it for $16, 00 and Mrs. O'Donnell gave him $500 to apply as purchase money. A few cays after this transaction she met Seorge Mitchell on the street and in a casual conversation learned that the property was on the market for $14,-Thereupon she went to Mr. Breck, announced her determination not to buy the property and demanded the eturn of her $500, accompanying her remarks with some caustic comments on Mr. Breck's business methods as

Mr. Breck told her it was a pity but the would have to forfeit her $500. Then an altercation took place and after a long wrangle she consented to accep $240 "in full settlement of all matters up to date," but before leaving the ffice gave Mr. Breck to understand that she would follow him in law for the balance. Mr. Breck's story is to the effect that Mrs. O'Donnell one day in passing his office stepped just inside the door and in the course of conversation mentioned that she would like to get the property referred to, believing it was bargain at $16,000. Mr. Breck agreed with her that it was a good investment at that figure. Later his firm, Breck, Dimmick & Reynolds, secured the property and agreed to sell it to Mrs. O'Donnell for $16,000. She paid $500 to bind the bargain, but later came in and wanted to break the contract. The firm refused at first to hear this, but after a lengthy discussion a compromise was effected whereby Mrs. O'Donnell was let off with the payment of $260. W. J. Hand appeared for the plaintiff and Cornelius Comegys for the defendant. The case was given to the jury at adjourning time. The jury in the case of W. C. Tun-
