

West Side and City Suburban

RECEPTION TO REV. AND MRS. FOSTER

Conducted by the Congregation of Summer Avenue Church.

The congregation of the Summer Avenue Presbyterian church tendered their pastor, Rev. L. R. Foster and his charming wife, an informal reception at the church last evening. Rev. Mr. Foster was recently married to Miss Budd, daughter of ex-Assemblyman H. H. H. and returned to his pastorate Wednesday.

J. L. Travis was chairman of the evening. After the singing of a hymn and the offering of prayer the chairman welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Foster and tendered them a beautiful French clock as a slight token of their regard.

He then introduced the couple to the congregation and the pastor responded to the presentation in a happy way. Rev. and Mrs. Foster then met the members individually and shook hands. Light refreshments were served. The pastor and his wife will be "at home" at 218 North Summer avenue after today.

Costler, of Philadelphia, recited "A Drinking Deacon," and William Compton sang "My Poor Old Dad." Each number was well received. Refreshments were then served by the ladies.

HOSPITAL NOTES.

James Evans, a young man employed as a gardener by Benjamin Hughes, of Washburn street, came to the West Side hospital yesterday afternoon and was entered as a patient. The young man was apparently suffering from pneumonia.

Drs. J. J. Carroll and J. J. Roberts, house physicians, performed a delicate operation yesterday morning on Miss May Conrad, of Park Place, who is a patient at the West Side hospital. The young girl was suffering from "empyema." The operation was very successful and at last report Miss Conrad was doing nicely.

LAST NIGHT'S FIRE.

The alarm of fire sounded from box No. 223, corner of Fifteenth and Luzerne street, last evening about 10:45 o'clock, was rubbish in the collar of a residence in the rear of Fifteenth street, near Luzerne. The house is occupied by a family named Edwards, and no material damage ensued. The Columbus and Franklins promptly responded, but their services were not needed, the blaze having been put out meanwhile.

WOMEN'S ENTERTAINMENT.

The Women's Foreign Missionary of the Simpson Methodist church successfully entertained last evening at the parsonage. The rooms were artistically decorated with roses and flowers, blooming plants, ferns, etc. Refreshments were served throughout the evening. A short programme of exercises was carried out consisting of recitations, singing, and instrumental selections. The Misses Lois Fellows and Elizabeth Heter played a piano duo, followed with a recitation by Miss Jessie Pfaff. Another piano duo was played by the Misses Minnie Weber and Stella Yohe, after which Rev. and Mrs. Sweet sang a duet accompanied by Miss Annie Williams on the piano. Miss Williams gave a piano solo and Miss Celia L. Case rendered a unique whistling solo in which the soprano and alto notes were very distinct, yet blended perfectly. Miss Williams played and Miss Pfaff recited, these two numbers ending the evening was the work performed by two little misses, Marguerite Sweet and Katherine Davis who presented a bouquet to each person passing into the dining room.

It's Holiday Time Now

The butterfly has long been flitting about in holiday attire, but threatening skies and uncertain temperature have made thoughtful mortals a little more cautious.

This was only prudent; it was commendable, although we'll admit that we would have had no objections if things had gone differently. There's no use, however, in crying over spilt milk, and if we're left with more warm weather wash goods on hand than we ought to have at this season, there's but one way to undo the mischief, and that is to

SLAUGHTER THE ENTIRE WASH GOODS STOCK.

So here goes. Such tremendous price cuts may appear reckless at such an early date, but we don't believe in making two bites of a cherry; the goods have got to be sold, and the figures may as well be smashed first as last.

Only a Few Items Mentioned but the entire wash goods stock is at the mercy of the bargain hunter.

High Class Novelties

Tambour Fantasies and Genuine Tissue Brodees, rank among the choicest of present season's productions. The Tambours show illuminated raised floor work in a manner that we have never seen equalled, while the Tissues are charming in their delicate details. Both weaves sold at 25c and 30c. In Black, Navy and Paled-Tinted grounds.
