WAGONS WITH CLOSE BOTTOMS.
 Only Such Will Be Allowed to Haul Dirt Over City Streets.

"What constitutes a 'close bottom wagon'?" was the question that Street Commissioner Dunning addressed to experts on mangled at the city hall yesterday. That kind of a wagon is specified by a city ordinance as a proper vehicle for hauling dirt, ashes, etc., over city streets, but as there seemed to be a question as to just what a "close bottom wagon" is, Mr. Dunning wanted opinions.

He came to the conclusion that a wagon which allows dirt to dribble along the street is not the kind mentioned in the ordinance and with that opinion in mind went down to the Wyoming house where a number of teams are employed in hauling away dirt and refuse. These wagons usually leave a trail of lime and dirt after them which troubles the work of Mr. Dunning's street cleaners.

When the street commissioner started for the Wyoming he said he would examine all the wagons used for hauling dirt and those that were so poorly constructed that they could not hold their contents he would not allow to be used today.

The same rule would apply to all other wagons used for similar purposes about the city.

HON. W. S. LINTON
AT THE ACADEMY

He Speaks Under Auspices of Scranton Patriotic Societies.

AMERICANISM WAS THE THEME

Ex-Mayor John H. Fellows Presided, and was One of the Speakers, as was Rev. Dr. H. H. Harris, of Taylor—About a Thousand Persons Were in the Audience—Ex-Congressman Linton Made a Vigorous Address.

The Academy of Music last night contained about a thousand persons who were gathered there to hear a patriotic address by ex-Congressman W. S. Linton, of Saginaw, Michigan. The meeting was conducted, according to the announcements, by some of the patriotic orders of the city. The seats on the lower floor of the theater were nearly all occupied and the balcony was half filled. A number of ladies were in the audience.

At 5:20 o'clock Mr. Fellows appeared on the stage and asked if Rev. Dr. H. H. Harris was in the audience. Dr. Harris was located in one of the orchestra seats and made his way to the stage entrance and a moment later appeared on the stage with Mr. Fellows and Mr. Linton. Mr. Fellows introduced the Anthracite Vocal quartette who rendered a pleasing selection. Dr. Harris then offered prayer. It was a brief offering of thanks "for religious and patriotic government and freedom of thought." After a selection by the orchestra Mr. Fellows arose and said:

MR. FELLOWS' REMARKS.
 "It is right that we should pause in the daily trials and excursions of business and take an occasion like this to educate our minds and in a way that will benefit American institutions. We cannot do this unless we are all Americans. A man who is afraid to do this is not a patriot nor an American citizen. I am willing to be called a bigot if by being one I help protect American homes and the American public school system. What is the trouble in this country today? Gold? Silver? Tariff? No. We want men to represent us in the government of this country, men who are men and have the courage of their convictions."

Mr. Fellows then turned his attention to local and promised to use as levers for election to office. Conventions are today, he said, bought in a lump for a candidate or candidates who are to blame for tempting delegates. The latter are nearly always poor men and their folly and sin is due to the bribe more than to the briber. Mr. Fellows concluded with the announcement that Dr. Harris would speak after a selection by the orchestra.

Dr. Harris' effort was an eulogy of ex-Congressman Linton. The reverend gentleman said he had always admired Mr. Linton for his heroic advocacy of good measures and opposition to bad ones, but when he (the speaker) learned of Mr. Linton's vote on the appropriation to build a new bridge, he sacrificed everything to hear him last night. As far as the trend of sentiment of the meeting was concerned it was perfectly natural, said Dr. Harris, that he should discuss the matters from a standpoint of religious equality. He deplored any inclination, education or any other thing that had a trend in any other direction than that of religious liberty. American citizens want, he said, religious liberty, religious equality and law on the same level. Dr. Harris' reference to the American flag and institutions evoked frequent and enthusiastic applause.

MR. LINTON INTRODUCED.
 The quartette sang and then Mr. Linton was introduced by Mr. Fellows as a man who as a "congressman had the courage of his convictions, and was accessible to high and low while he was in office." The applause that greeted Mr. Linton did not allow him to proceed immediately. He attempted several times to speak but was interrupted by cheers and hand-clapping. He began by acknowledging the hearty reception he had met at home in Pennsylvania because his ancestors settled in Bucks county 200 years ago under William Penn.

"I am not here as one of your evening papers would have it, to condemn creed nor to denounce denomination," he said. "I got my religion at the knee of a mother of Scotch descent, who believed in God, and I am willing that every man shall worship Him according to the dictates of his own conscience, but do not believe in allying church and state. I do not approve of the principles of either the Democratic or Republican parties in approving platforms separating church from state, but who have appropriated millions of dollars for sectarian purposes. For twenty-five years members of both parties have not abided by their platform principles. The people of this state will some time rise in their might and repudiate some of these men."

"You have been taxed, my friends, to pay for the propagating of religious opinions in which you disbelieved, and I say in the words of Thomas Jefferson, it is 'sinful and tyrannical.' Jefferson was prouder of those words than of any others he ever said or wrote, excepting, of course, the Declaration of Independence. For this spirit I was criticized for introducing a resolution against locating a certain statue in statutory hall at Washington. I did it because our law says that only the likenesses of American citizens shall be contained there. The person whose statue they wanted contained there was a citizen of no state. Nobody knew how to reproduce his features. The only object was to make him in the image of man, clothe him and set him up there. There was nothing American about the project or object, and it was against the law."

ONE ILLUSTRATION.
 "A case in point was the effort to locate on government ground at West Point a chapel of a certain denomination. Following that effort the president was petitioned to permit the location of buildings of other denominations on just as large and prominent plots of ground as the first denomination referred to. The matter was turned over to the attorney general, who very properly decided there was not room enough to go all round."

THE TRIUMPH OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.
 One of the most recent and most marked retail store improvements in Scranton is that of Dunn's furnishing establishment on Wyoming avenue. This city in recent years has been noted for the disposition of its retail merchants to so conduct their stores and to improve their service and display of goods that the American business has become more in line with the method, appearance and custom of the thoroughly up-to-date stores in such large cities as New York and Philadelphia. Dunn's is one of these.

Within a very few weeks the store has been thoroughly renovated and fitted with the most approved conveniences peculiar to its kind of trade. The shelving, cabinets and show cases, in fact the whole interior, has been made over anew in white and gold and stocked with the latest and newest novelties and necessities in the furnishing line. The service has been arranged so that four clerks are always available to the many customers and an increased force is on duty on Saturdays.

The store is the agency for what has been for many years properly known as the Knox World Renowned Hats. This popular and standard make of headwear is a stock in itself and contains hats for ladies as well as gentlemen. Yeaman's is another popular line of hats sold there. Newspaper space does not permit a reference to many of the attractive goods displayed but the store, especially before and complete assortment in furnishings from exclusive lines of silk underwear down to the most insignificant detail of a gentleman's toilet.

One important advantage possessed by the establishment is in that it receives the personal and concrete attention of Mr. Dunn who is now in his ninth year in the business and has no other interests that demand any of his time.

TEACHERS' COMMITTEE MEETS.
 Decided to Reappoint the Old Force of Instructors.

A meeting of the teachers committee of the board of school control was held yesterday afternoon at which it was decided to report for reappointment last year's force of teachers save those who have already resigned or whose resignations are expected before the next meeting of the board when the appointments will be made.

But one resignation has been received thus far, that of Miss Hannah C. Carr, of Green Ridge, who this week became the wife of Frederick Penn. Three other resignations are expected. It was announced yesterday after the committee meeting that appointments to fill vacancies will not be made until August.

MR. KELLER PRESIDED.
 Luther Keller, of the Penn Avenue Baptist church, president of the union, was chairman of both sessions. Rev. A. B. O'Neill, of Dunmore, was secretary. In the afternoon the meeting was opened with prayer by Rev. H. H. Harris, of Calvary Baptist church of York. A stated programme was then carried out. Miss Carrie Geary, of Carbondale, read an interesting history of the Baptist Young People's union. This was followed by the reading of a paper on the subject "Why Are We Not Baptists?" by Miss Martha Taylor, of Factoryville.

The paper was afterward discussed by Rev. H. H. Harris. "A Baptist Young People's Society in Every Church," was the subject of a paper by Lawrence E. Inver, of Dunmore. Rev. J. L. Williams, of Forest City, led in after discussion. Miss Orie Williams, of Olyphant, was not present to read a paper on "Duty of Baptists to Young People," which had been assigned her. "The Baptist Union," the organization journal, was discussed by John Holburn, of Taylor, and by Rev. W. J. Watkins, of Factoryville. Prayer closed the session.

In the evening Rev. Joseph K. Dixon, D. D., pastor of the Penn Avenue Baptist church, delivered his address on "Our Young People." The church was filled and the speaker held the interest throughout.

PLAIN, PRACTICAL TALK.
 Dr. Dixon did not select any text. He gave a plain, practical talk with a profusion of sentiment and story illustrating the "Young People's Union." He spoke of the young people as a great factor in the church and urged them to assist their pastor. He argued that there are other accessories to an attractive service than an eloquent preacher and in speaking of the young people he said: "The churches he advocated advertisement, 'printed reports such as any business house would send out and let the community know what you are doing.' Moreover he spoke of the future of young people. He advised the young men to cast a pure ballot.

"Young men," he said, "your going to put your heel down on a man who refuses to stop the Sunday ball game; who has not enough backbone to sign the League against Intemperance."

Dr. Dixon then told of a boy who was twice beaten by a girl, who weighed 100 pounds. "Yes," answered the boy, but 95 pounds of it is backbone!" "If our young men," said Dr. Dixon "looked in a mirror he would see 85 pounds of backbone!"

THE CLOSING ADDRESS.
 Dr. Rev. Thomas de Gruy after-ward addressed the meeting and gave the closing prayer.

The entertainment of the visitors was in the hands of Mrs. Margaret Lewis, Edith Davis, Mrs. George Reed, Albert Brae, William Mallott and Ira Nolan, of the Green Ridge church. Rev. W. J. Ford, the pastor, ably assisted.

The next meeting of the union will be held at Peckville in September.
