JURY IN VON STORCH CASE DELIBERATING

A Ballot Was Not Taken Until Late Yesterday Afternoon.

NO VERDICT AT ADJOURNMENT

Patrick Connor and Thomas Clark Convicted of Statutory Burglary. Little Robert Hand, of This City, Found Guilty of a Similar Offense. L. S. Grovenor Acquitted of a Charge of Larceny and Receiving. Other Cases Heard During the Day.

All of yesterday the jurors in the big Von Storch ejectment case gave their close attention to the many details of interesting testimony offered for their consideration. This preliminary work and the consideration of papers sent out with the jury consumed the greater part of the day and it was late in the afternoon when the first ballot was taken. A verdict had not been returned up to the time that court adjourned yesterday afternoon.

After criminal court opened yesterday morning the trial of the case against Patrick Connor, Thomas Clark, Michael Feury, Patrick Feury and Michael Diamond, who were charged with statutory burglary was transferred to court room No. 2. Testimony with reference to the good character of the accused was offered and then the commonwealth in rebuttal contradicted the testimony offered by the defense on Monday to the effect that a collection was taken up to buy the beer they were accused of stealing from the Delaware and Hudson depot at Jermyn. The commonwealth only pressed for a conviction against Connor and Clarke. They were found guilty and the others were acquitted.

FATHER AGAINST SON.

Frank Kaplinski was put on trial before Judge Archbald in the main court room charged with assaulting and battering his father, John Kaplinski, and carrying concealed weapons. They reside in this city. The elder Kaplinski alleged that his son Frank Kaplinski, had not resided at home for several months, but on the night of Dec. 30 came into the house and began to quarrel. Witness tried to put him out and thereupon Frank put his hand to his hip pocket and threatened to shoot him if he did not shut up and stop trying to put him out of the house. Then, said the elder Mr. Kaplinski, his son grappled with him and threw him over a railing and down a pair of stairs. He was so badly injured that he was confined to a hospital for some time. Judge Archbald took from the consideration of the jury the charge of carrying concealed weapons.

In his defense young Kaplinski said that he had been compelled to leave home on account of the cruelty of his father and step-mother. He heard they were mistreating his young brother and on the night of Dec. 30 went to the house to ascertain the truth of the report. He was immediately set upon by his father. He denied that he had threatened to use a revolver and said that he was compelled to clinch with his father to prevent him from injuring witness. In the scuffle both of them fell over a railing. He did not throw his father over it. The jury said not guilty and directed the elder Kaplinski to pay the costs. The defense was conducted by Attorney M. A. McGinley and the prosecution by District Attorney Jones.

HAMILTON ACQUITTED.

James Hamilton, the driver of a mail wagon, was the next defendant arraigned. William R. Robbins, night baggage man at the Delaware and Hudson station in this city was prosecutor. On the night of Feb. 22 Hamilton went to the station and backed his wagon against the platform. Robbins wanted him to place his wagon some where else, saying it was in the way. Hamilton refused to do so and a quarrel ensued. Robbins shoved Hamilton off the platform and the latter retaliated by kicking Robbins in the groin, inflicting very serious injuries. He maintained that he was compelled to kick Robbins in self defense. Attorney Joseph Jeffries defended Hamilton and the district attorney prosecuted the case. The jury acquitted Hamilton but directed him to pay the costs.

Bert Cadwell, a sixteen-year-old boy who resides at Carbondale, was charged with hitting Christopher Rudd, the eleven-year-old son of Joseph Rudd, of the same place, between the eyes with a piece of coal and inflicting a serious wound which will mark the boy for life. Attorney R. D. Stewart pleaded the case of Cadwell and the district attorney made the plea for conviction. Young Cadwell said that he was down in a pit picking coal and was throwing it up to the surface. One of the pieces accidentally struck the Rudd boy. The jury was out debating on the case at adjournment.

YOUNG HAND CONVICTED.

Robert Hand, the little West Side boy who has figured so conspicuously in police circles during this last year, was put on trial charged with statutory burglary. He was charged with entering the carpenter shop of Hugh A. Howell on the West Side and with stealing tools owned by Mr. Howell. His companions in the escapade were William Price and Arthur Armstrong. Young Hand and Armstrong went on the stand and said they went into the carpenter shop merely to play and that the tools were carried away by young Price. Attorney Joseph Jeffrey appeared for Hand. The district attorney prosecuted the case. A verdict of guilty was returned.

Bonney Buzets was put on trial charged with malicious mischief and assault and battery and Jacob Stanbach was charged with assault and battery. William Surpolus, an Old Forge hotelkeeper, was the prosecutor. Attorney A. J. Colborn defended the accused and Attorney John H. Bonner assisted the district attorney in prosecuting the case. It was alleged that on the night of Feb. 11 Buzets and Stanbach were in the house with a number of other men and began to shout, sing and dance. Buzets shoved his head through a window and broke it and both men then assaulted the proprietor and the hotel furnishings with chairs. After badly damaging both they went outside and threw stones through the doors and windows.

STORY OF DEFENDANTS.

The defense was that there was a big crowd in the place and that Surpolus allowed them to stay and make all the noise they would until their money was all gone and then he tried to put them out. They resented such treatment and the trouble compained of was precipitated. A number of witnesses were examined on the part of the commonwealth and defense. Judge Archbald said there could be no conviction on the charge of malicious mischief for that offense consists of the breaking of a window or door in a dwelling house. It was a saloon or hotel where the offense complained of was committed. The jury went out to deliberate on the charges of assault and battery and returned verdicts of not guilty and equally divided the costs.

Patrick Fitzpatrick, of Winton, who had been in the county jail for three months waiting for trial on a charge of larceny and receiving preferred by Favinia Jenkins was sent forth a free man, the prosecutrix failing to appear against him.

James McHale, a young man of 25, was tried for assaulting Thomas Collins on Feb. 16 last. Both men reside in Carbondale township where the assault was committed. It was shown that both had been drinking at the time. Collins alleged that McHale knocked him down, struck him with a stone and so badly injured him that he was laid up for several weeks. District Attorney Jones conducted the prosecution and Attorney R. D. Stuart appeared for the defense.

McHale alleged that Collins assaulted him without provocation and that in self-defense he hit him twice. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty and divided the costs.

CASE SETTLED.

Patrick Langan, of the North End, was indicted for assault and battery at the instance of T. H. C. Maloney. Yesterday Mr. Maloney agreed that a verdict of not guilty be taken upon the payment of the costs of Langan. This was done.

Joseph Koftis was arrested several months ago at the instance of Edward Farr, of the same place. He did not appear in court yesterday to prosecute and a verdict of not guilty was taken and the costs placed on Farr.

Before Judge Gunster L. S. Grovenor, a Scott dairyman, was tried on a charge of stealing bottles owned by the Scranton Dairy company. The prosecutor was A. D. Robinson, manager of the Dairy company's Olyphant branch. Grovenor admitted that he had the bottles but said they were left in a spring house on his father's farm by Dairyman Shedd, of this city, who had the spring house leased for a time.

Mr. Shedd was sworn and said that the bottles of dairymen were constantly getting mixed up and that he usually had some of the Scranton company's bottles in his possession. Other milk men in like manner have bottles that are his property. Attorney George D. Taylor defended Mr. Grovenor and Attorney A. A. Vosburg assisted Mr. Thomas of the district attorney's office in prosecuting the case. A verdict of not guilty was returned.

Dr. G. B. Seamans an important witness in the sensational Mahady-McGlynn case, was not present in court yesterday and a capias was issued for him. The case will probably be called for trial today.

BRILLIANT AND TALENTED.

Miss Jennie O'Boyle, a Young Pianist, Shows a Remarkable Ability.

Many critics and a large number of the friends and relatives of Miss Jennie O'Boyle, of Archbald, attended the piano-forte recital given by that talented young performer at Powell's music rooms last evening. The young lady, though but 16 years of age, is said to be one of the most brilliant and naturally finished piano-forte pupils in this region.

Miss O'Boyle has been under the instruction of E. E. Southworth for three years. She was assisted last night by Miss Anna Brown, of Peckville, a soprano of splendid ability.

Following are the selections played by Miss O'Boyle; all of them except the two first mentioned were executed without notes:

Fugue, A minor ..... Bach
Sonato, op. 2, No. 1 ..... Beethoven
Allegro. Adagio. Menuetto. Prestissimo.
Minuet, op. 78 ..... Schubert
(a) Valse, op. 34, No. 2.
(b) Nocturne, op. 9, No. 2.
(c) Impromptu, op. 29 ..... Chopin
Marcia Fantistica ..... Bargiel
Kamenno; Ostiow ..... Rubinstein
Les Deux Alouettes (The Two Larks), Th. Leschetizky
La Fileuse, op. 157 ..... Raff
Etude de Stvie ..... Ravina

Miss Brown's selections were "Gally Chant the Summer Birds" (De Pinna) and "Don't Be Cross" (Zeller).

Miss O'Boyle displayed remarkable taste in her interpretation of the varied items that made up the list. In every number the performer seemed to comprehend the spirit of the composer and feel the inspiration that stimulatd the master. At the beginning of her studies she displayed the instincts of the true artist and the progress that she has made has astonished her most sanguine friends.

Mrs. Loomon Found that Life with Her Husband Was Intolerable.

Mrs. Jennie Loomon began proceedings yesterday through Attorney D. L. Fickes to secure a divorce from James Loomon.

They were married Oct. 2, 1886 and in December of the same year she said she was compelled to leave him because he offered such indignities to her that she found life with him intolerable.

B. H. THROOP, M. D., LAID AT REST

Bishop N. S. Rulison Took Part in the Funeral Rites.

SERVICES IN ST. LUKE'S CHURCH

Rev. Rogers Israel, the Rector, and a Large Number of Episcopal Clergy, Several of Them Former Rectors, Took Part in the Services--Remains Exposed to View in the Church. Burial in Forest Hill Cemetery. Pall-Bearers, Honorary and Active.

The funeral of the late Benjamin H. Throop, M. D., was held yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church and was on a scale commensurate with his great local repute and peculiarly prominent position in Scranton's growth and present greatness. The church was packed to the doors with friends of the deceased and several organizations to which he belonged.

Rt. Rev. N. S. Rulison, of Bethlehem, bishop of the Central Pennsylvania diocese of the Protestant Episcopal church; Rev. Rogers Israel, rector of St. Luke's, several ex-rectors of that church and other Episcopal clergymen participated in the services. Burial was made at Forest Hill cemetery, where, after the church ceremony there were brief services conducted by the Grand Army of the Republic and the Elks organizations.

At 1.45 o'clock the remains were taken from the residence on Wyoming avenue to St. Luke's, one block distant. Here they were exposed to view until 3 o'clock when the imposing religious ceremonies begun. The square casket was of cedar, covered with broadcloth, and contained a rich lining of silver-grey. Attached to it was a massive set of oxydized silver handles. A plate on the surface bore this inscription:

B. H. THROOP, M. D.
DIED JUNE 26, 1897.
AGED 55 YEARS, 7 MONTHS, 17 DAYS.

Resting on the casket was a draped American flag, two palm plumes tied with satin ribbon and a bunch of yellow roses. There were no other flowers, excepting several vases of field daisies back of the chancel.

ORGANIZATIONS PRESENT.

The organizations present were Post 139, Grand Army of the Republic, in command of A. B. Stevens; Scranton lodge of Elks, led by W. J. Weichel, exalted ruler; the Scranton Medical society, and the following organizations from the borough of Throop: The council, school board, Throop Hose company, No. 1; the Sanderson Serenade band, and the St. Aloysius society of Hungarians.

Just before the services the casket was borne by carriers to the main entrance of the church and was borne up the aisle after the vested choir, bishop and other clergy, the relatives and near friends following and taking their seats near the front. During the processional the sentences were said by Bishop Rulison. After a chant by the choir the lesson for the day was read by Rev. Dr. A. C. Swentzel, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Hymn No. 419 was sung and the Litany was read by Rev. Dr. J. P. B. Pendleton, of Schenectady, N. Y. Then was sung Hymn 121.

Rev. A. C. Marple, the first rector of St. Luke's and now of Norristown, Pa., repeated the creed and the funeral prayers of the church and the blessing was pronounced by Bishop Rulison. "De Profundes" was sung and the service closed with the recessional and singing of Hymn 398. Rev. F. S. Ballentine, of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Green Ridge; Rev. M. H. Mills, of St. David's church, and Rev. C. J. Haughton, curate of St. Luke's, were also among the clergy.

HONORARY PALLBEARERS.

The casket was followed from the church by these honorary pallbearers: W. T. Smith and G. L. Dickson, of St. Luke's vestry and brother vestrymen of the deceased; Albert Pancoast, of Philadelphia, and C. M. Sanderson, closely allied with Dr. Throop in business; Dr. W. E. Allen and Dr. N. Y. Leet, of the Medical society; Judge F. W. Gunster and F. H. Jermyn. The carriers were the men selected by the family: R. F. Heffelfinger, William Rempe, Martin Reif, Charles Rhoads, Jacob Nalder and Michael Murphy.

Four special open cars were in waiting on the tracks outside the church to convey the different organizations to Forest Hill cemetery where the casket was incased in a chest of oak, copper trimmed, and lowered into a brick vault.

The Episcopal committal service was conducted by Rev. Rogers Israel, the collects were said and the blessing pronounced by Bishop Rulison. Then followed special Grand Army of the Republic and Elk burial services. The former was conducted by Commander A. B. Stevens. There was a Grand Army guard of honor composed of George E. Shafer, in command; W. F. Albro, T. H. Allen, A. Polamus, John Westpfahl, Charles Van Allen, George Schlager, George Wickenhofer and Patrick Thomas, but at the request of Mrs. Throop the usual burial firing salute was dispensed with.

THE ELK SERVICE.

The Elk service was participated in by W. J. Weichel, exalted ruler; D. J. Reedy, esteemed leading knight; F. W. Martin, esteemed lecturing knight; E. Moses, esteemed loyal knight; W. S. Gould, secretary; George Davis, chaplain, and H. J. Schubert, esquire.

Among the friends and relatives from out of town were: John Van Wagner, of Oxford, N. Y.; Willard Parker, M. D., of New York city; Hon. C. S. Miner, of Honesdale; Mrs. St. Clair McKelway, and her sister and mother, Mrs. Sarah Thompson, of Brooklyn, N.
