partitions of my coal lands during the trustees hold as it largely is in common with other owners, and could only be divided from them at disadvantage and risk of inequality and loss to some one in the partition of them. But should partition become a necessity, But should partition become a necessity I authorize the said trustees to make and receive conveyances in partition in fee, for the several tracts and the resorvation of royalties as fully as I could do if living, and I authorize said trustees with the trust funds to purchase and take conveyances from the other owners in whole or partly. I further empower my said trustees to pledge and mortgage my estate, if it should be necessary to raise funds for my estate and the purposes of the trust in any respect, or to protect my estate in any other way, and to execute the necessary mortgage notes or securi-ties therefor, and in the management and distribution of my estate, my said trustees are hereby authorized to make, execute, and deliver all necessary deeds. bills of sales and leases to that end and much of my estate as shall be necessary for that purpose. Twenty-first-From and immediately after the death of my said wife, Harriet F. Throop, I direct the said trustees to pay one-half the income of my remaining property to my daughter, Mary Eliza Phelps, during her natural life, and the other half of said income to the guardian of my grandson, Benjamin H. Throop, or so much thereof as they may deem nec-essary for his ample support, maintenance and education, annually, during the years of his minority.

Twenty-second-And in case said in come, for any reason, is not sufficient for the ample support of my daughter and grandson during the minority of the latter, then I desire my said trustees to ap-ply and use so much of my estate as shall be necessary for the purpose and in such proportion as they shall think meet and proper.

Twenty-third-As soon as my grandson, Benjamin H. Throop, attains his major-ity, I direct my said trustees to immediately turn over and convey to him one half of my remaining property, real and personal and mixed, the remaining one-half to be retained by them in trust to pay the income thereof, as above provided, to my daughter, Mary Eliza Phelps. At her death, however, the balance of my estate then remaining in the hands of said trustees is to be paid over and conveyed to my said grandson, Benjamin H. Throop. Provided, however, that in case the death of my said daughter during the minority of my said grandson, then, and in that event, the said trustees are to pay to his guardian during his minority so much of the income as they may think proper. and upon his arrival at his majority, that is, the age of twenty-one years, to turn over and convey to him the entire remain-ing estate to him with the same rights and privileges of impairing the capital of my estate in the support and mainte-nance of my said grandson, as above pro-vided in various sections.

such purpose. COMMISSION OF TRUSTEES. Twenty-fifth-The executors and trustees shall receive commission as, and when money and property shall persthrough their hands, and in full for their services, six per centum of my estate. There shall be a further charge made and allowance to them out of my estate for all reasonable and necessary penses incident to the management of the same, including the amounts paid to those or him who shall keep the books and accounts for the said trustees; and said trustees may employ such clerical help as they find necessary for such or any other purpose connected with my estate, and as assitants in their management of said estate, and the amount paid to him or those employed from time to time shall be paid out of my estate. Twenty-sixth-I hereby revoke all forner wills and codicils.

Twenty-seventh—For many reasons and the main one, is that I may live for some time yet with the power and in-clination to help some of my relatives that I have bequeathed to several of my relatives more or less on aplication for help that I have promised them and from this time wish to continue during my continuance with them, but will keep an account of the same and deduct the same from the amounts bequeathed to them in this, my last will and testament. In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal this seventh day of May, eighteen hundred and ninety-six.

Published and declared as and for his ast will and testament by Benjamin H. Throop, M. D., in our presence, and in the presence of each other have hereanto as witnesses subscribed our names.

VAN HORN IS CAPTURED

Helmes' house stood. thought Van Horn was coming to him to seek shelter, but he would have none of him, he said. The police hurrled to the spot and made a thorough search of the neighborhood, but no trace of Van Horn could be found.

Helmes now says that Van Horn told him at their recent interview that he saw the police coming and crowded under the porch of Helmes' house, where he remained until nearly day break. Another man named Hill, who also lives on the West Side and who worked with Van Horn cutting timber some years ago says he encountered Van Horn near Starrucca. A third man whose name the county detective did not have at hand, claims that he drank with Van Horn near the Northwest colliery near Simpson. After closely questioning the informants County Detective Leyshor made trips to Suspuehanna county and scoured the region about Forest City but could learn nothing to substantiate the reports brought him by the three men above noted. It was also reported at one time that Mrs. Van Horn, mother of the fugitive, was in the habit of carrying food to her son. She was shadowed one day by the county detective from Dunmore to Carbandale, but here he lost track of her. She had a large basket with her at the time. It is likely that Van Horn got wind of the county detective having been in pursuit of him and having shadowed his mother for her trips with food ceased then and there. It is thought that Van Horn was in hiding about Forest City until a short time ago and was led to go west by the discoveries which the police made.

PREPARING THE PAPERS.

While awaiting an answer to his telegram Chief Robling busied himself about the requisition papers. The deposition of Mrs. Fetterolf, who was in the house at the time of the murder; George Wickenhoffer, who knew of the trouble Mrs. Wescott had with Van Horn, and of the chief, who told of the flight and search, were taken by District Attorney John R. Jones and will be forwarded to Harrisburg with Lieutenant Davis and Detective Moir to-

Thomas F. Jones, a bricklayer of 129 Franklin avenue, was one of the army of amateur detectives who did work on the Van Horn case, when the search was first being prosecuted. It was thought possible that he might be the Thomas F. Jones who sent the telegram, but this was proven to be a mistaken conjecture as the Franklin avenue Jones was found at his home last evening by a Tribune reporter. The crime which Van Horn will answer for was committed about 8 o'clock Friday evening, August 28, 1896. Mrs. osephine Wescott went into the cellar of her residence at corner of Franklin avenue and Linden street to get some potatoes. A minute later she tottered up the stairs with her throat cut from ear to ear. To one of the boarders she exclaimed, "George Van Horn did it," and then fell to the floor. She died at the Lackawanna hospital at 10.55 o'clock the next morning. A razor which was identified as Van Horn's was found in the cellar. Some one broke in the door of the cellar that night and it is supposed that it was Van Horn in quest of the tell-tale ra-

The motive for the crime is said to have been revenge. Not long before the murder Mrs. Wescott had Van Horn arrested for stealing $15 from her room. Van Horn until a few months before the murder boarded with Mrs. Wescott and it is said annoyed her with his attentions. The arrest at her instigation, it is thought, caused him such humiliation that he was moved to the murderous revenge. The county commissioners offered
