FUNERAL OF WILLIAM PENRY.

Interment was made in Washburn Street Cemetery.

The funeral services of the late William Penry occurred yesterday afternoon. Short services were held at the home on Snyder avenue, following which the remains were borne to the Bellevue Calvinistic Methodist church, where Rev. Hugh Davies preached an eloquent Welsh sermon.

Rev. William Morgan and Rev. Mr. Lewis assisted Rev. Mr. Davies. The auditorium of the church was crowded with the many friends who desired to express the last sad tribute of respect for the dead.

There was a profuse number of floral offerings, many of them being pieces of beautiful arrangement. At the close of the church service the deceased was viewed and the funeral procession moved to the cemetery.

Interment was made in the Washburn street cemetery and the following acted as pall bearers: John T. Jones, Henry W. Evans, Morgan James, John Phillips, David Harris and William Lewis, Taylor.

MUSICAL NOTES.

A public recital was given last evening by pupils of the Scranton School of Music and Languages. This was the first opportunity the public has had of seeing the quarters of this institution and of judging of the progress made by its pupils. An enthusiastic praise was heard on every hand. The spacious and beautiful studios connect, thus affording room for a large number of invited guests, friends of those who participated in the programme. The stage was prettily decorated with palms and field daisies. To single out particular ones of the performers as meriting special praise would be scarcely proper if a student's musical success is to say that all did remarkably well. It was evident from the work done that the teachers hold care and painstaking in the minutest details as a very important part of their creed, and that it is not so much what is sung or played as how. All who took part in the programme are pupils of J. Alfred Pennington and Miss Katharine Timmerman and these teachers have every reason to be satisfied with the results of their work. At the close of the recital Professor Pennington made a few remarks upon the growth of the school. The programme was as follows:

Les Marguerites (Piano).....Bohm
"Doris" (Vocal).....De Koven
Gavotte, in A minor (Piano).....Durand
"The Swan" (Vocal).....Vogel
Good Bye (Vocal).....Toel
"The Dying Flower" (Vocal).....Bishop
"Open Thy Blue Eyes" (Vocal).....Masenet
Grande Valse Brillante (Piano).....Moskowsky

Mr. Fred Emrich, Miss Edith Houser, "The Better Land" (Vocal).....Cowan
"Frisches Leben" (Piano).....Spindler
"Tell Me, My Heart" (Vocal).....Bishop
"The Dying Flower" (Vocal).....Masenet
"Open Thy Blue Eyes" (Vocal).....Masenet
Grande Valse Brillante (Piano).....Moskowsky

Miss Clara Hecox, of Dunmore, gave a recital at Mr. Southworth's studio on Wyoming avenue on Thursday evening which was of quite largely attended and was an enjoyable musical event. Miss Hecox began the programme with a Toccata and Fugue by Bach, and followed with an instrumental solo, "The Butterfly," by Chopin; "The Witches Dance," by MacDowell; an étude by Leschetzky; "Papillon," by Grell; and "The River Stream," by Mason. In the rendition of the numbers Miss Hecox displayed rare technique and astonished her friends by the brilliancy of her playing. Those who were assisted by Miss Cordelia Freeman, contralto, of Newark, N. J., who sang several selections with violin obligato played by Miss Julia Allen, Miss Horan, who is one of Mr. Southworth's most promising pupils, expects to go to Europe in the fall to complete her musical education.

A delightful praise service was held in the Second Presbyterian church last Sunday evening to celebrate the anniversary of the full chorus choir assisted the quartette, and all of the selections were rendered with that finish and earnestness of worshipful style which has endeared the choir to the congregation. Miss Horan began the programme with a Toccata and Fugue by Bach, and followed with an instrumental solo, "The Butterfly," by Chopin; "The Witches Dance," by MacDowell; an étude by Leschetzky; "Papillon," by Grell; and "The River Stream," by Mason. In the rendition of the numbers Miss Hecox displayed rare technique and astonished her friends by the brilliancy of her playing. Those who were assisted by Miss Cordelia Freeman, contralto, of Newark, N. J., who sang several selections with violin obligato played by Miss Julia Allen, Miss Horan, who is one of Mr. Southworth's most promising pupils, expects to go to Europe in the fall to complete her musical education.

The Ocean Grove Summer school festival chorus has been organized with 200 voices under the direction of Walter Damrosch, with Tallie Morgan, formerly of Scranton, as conductor. The season of 1897 includes entertainments as follows: August 3, grand vocal concert, with eminent soloists; August 12, children's festival, 1,000 voices with soloists; August 13, oratorio of "Elijah," with New York Symphony orchestra.

Mrs. Kate Wilcox and pupils were delighted with the success of their Thursday evening recital by Mrs. W. H. Gearhart, at her home on Wyoming avenue. Vocal numbers were rendered during the evening by Miss Jordan, Miss Gorman, Miss Black, of Nicholson, and Mr. Eugene Davis.

Miss Magdalen S. Perry, contralto, of New York city, will sing in the Elm Park church quartette during July, August and a part of September, as she did last year. Miss Perry is released from her duties in the church in New York during the summer months.

Mr. L. K. Brown, teacher of sight-singing and registrar of the "Scranton School of Music and Languages," substituted for Mr. C. G. Goodrich, organist of Dr. Hecox's church in Wilkes-Barre the past two Sundays.

Mr. Southworth's pupils will give a concert at Powell's music store on Tuesday evening next.
