BARONS WERE GAY.

They Won on the Miners' Grounds, bu Were Lambasted in Afternoon.

The miners lost the morning game to Wilkes-Barre because they deserved to lose and the enemy deserved to win The visitors had placed only three men on the circuit up to the seventh inning and nary a one of them got as far as third. The score was 1-0 in the Miners favor and the Barons had got but three scattered hits off Wellner who had been given fine support. In the seventh and eighth, however, the men from down the valley bunched five of their eight hits, and made one run more than was necessary to win. Massey made an error during the hitting but the result had already been determined. About 3,000 persons, a typical holiday crowd, were within the gates and for seven innings they had their fill of entertainment in watching the efforts of both teams to make the score something besides one-nothing. The Miners were hitting Odwell quite regularly, but not consecutively and the fans had the dissappointment of witnessing a Scranton runner or runners on the bases in seven innings without being abe to score. Foolish base-running and the absence of the festive hit when needed kept the Miners' early score lown and gave the Barons an accept ed chance to win out at the finish Wesley Curry, an old player, an ex-Eastern league umpire, and at present an employe of the City Gas depart-ment of Philadelphia, held the indicator. He did it well. Curry obtained a vacation of a few days and devoted yesterday to his old vocation. He returned to Philadelphia last night.

The Miners' one run was made in the second on Meaney's single, Bonner's sacrifice and Massey's line single to left centre. That was the only glimpse Scranton had of the pan. With two out and Meaney on second in the sixth, O'Brien foolishly coached Meaney to try for the plate on Bonner's single which McMahon stopped in some miraculous fashion and fielded the ball to the pate in time to put Meaney out by two yards.

THE SCORE TIED.

The Barons scratched one and tied the tally in the seventh. Diggins hit a high-and-easy to left centre and Meaney, Beard and Walters ran for it. It belonged to the latter but some of the images in the diamond let all hands go uncoached. Walters yelled "Take it Ollie," but "Ollie" wasn't near enough and the result was a safe hit that would have been eaten if there had been any coaching. Bottenus forced Diggins and came in on McMahon's doube to right-centre. The next two fouled out to Maguire.

Walters was first up for the Miners in the eighth and walked. Beard's double would have scored Walters if the latter had been on the bases, but he wasn't; he had been coached to steal and was flagged by a yard. The result was that Beard could only prance around second while Meaney and Bonner went out on a foul and a

In the Wilkes-Barre half Odwell singled and was forced by Goeckel. The latter scored on Betts' two-baser. Shannon flew out to Meaney and Betts went to third on Diggins' single. Beard stopped the latter by a great effort and threw to Massey to draw Betts home. Big Bill was unequal to the emergency and failed to either catch on a bound or stop the throw and Betts came in on the error. McMahon flew

The Miners had the chance but falled to win out in the ninth. Massey, the first up, got a pass to first, went to second on Maguire's life and to third on Boyd's single, but Wellner flew out to Shannon and O'Brien to Bottenus. The agony:

IT WAS THE MINERS' TURN. They Did Do a Thing or Two to Keenan and Manyille. Hughey Jennings' father, Jack Neat and 648 other enthusiasts filling te Jersey Central cars journeyed t the Miners wreak vengeance on the conquerors of the morning.

And how they did wreak! Twenty-four hits for thirty-four bas es and the possibly unparalleled recorof sixteen earned runs out of a tota of seventeen made, is all that they di to WilkesBarre's Mr. Keenan and M Manville-principally Mr. Keenan. It was awful cannonading. It ser the wild and wooly Wilkes-Barr whooper home in disgust, along abou the eighth and provoked old man Jen nings to come to the front of the ninth and make an exuberent speed "Sandy," he said, uncovering his grey head and waving his hat before crowd to obtain silence, "Sandy, I'm proud of your men." He said some other things, but the cheers of the Scranton contingent as it seconded these sentiments drowned his voice and sad to chronicle the rest of his speech was thereby lost to posterity.

The hereintobeforementioned W-andW W-B whoopers went to the park evidently determined upon repeating their annual Fourth of July terrorizing. They had revolvers and blank cartridges and big horns and large sup-plies of throat ease so that they might recuperate their voices from time to time. But they were not permitted to have everything their own way in the

been the case in former years. A FEW SCRANTONIANS. A goodly part of 650 Scrantonians present were of the genus rooteri and matter of enthusing this year as has

they had their roots right with them. One section entered the park amid the blaze of trumpetry and waving of flags and took a station in the grand stand, which at once became the rendevous for the Miners supporters. A few minutes before the game was called a second lusty lunged legation put in an appearance the leader bearing a big sign and the trailers in the procession each carrying a brick. The sign read DANGER.

Keep to the other side of the street.

The crowd caught the idea at one and gave the paraders a glad hand This was the experience all along the treets from the time they left building where the sign and brick were borrowed.

With a blast of bugles and a fusilade of pistol shots, explosion of cannon crackers and a burst of wild cheering the game was inaugurated. Scranton went to the bat but what hey did early in the game isn't worth chronicling. In the last of the third Bottenus got base on balls, Bonner missed Betta high fly on a difficult chance. Goeckel brought both home with as pretty a home run as ever was hit. It went over Meaney's head before he scarcely knew it had started. It was certainly a beauty drive. Then, following this, Walters made a running catch of Odwell's threatened homer that fairly set the crowd wild. It was a catch that only comes every Fourth of July.

Score 0 to 4. In the fourth a bad bound fooled Betts and made a three-bagger out of Beard's Bonner's single, Maguire's single. two-bagger and Gunson's single netted three runs. Wilkes-Barre couldn't do anything in their half. Score 3 to 4.

JUST A FEW.

In the fifth the Miners continued the annonading. Meaney hit one through the pitcher's box and scored Walters who had forced O'Brien at second or Then Massey scored on three-bagger and was himself brough in by Maguire's single and Gunson'

hree-bagger landed Maguire. Massey Muffed Maguire's lightning throw to catch Betts. Goeckle was hi by a pitched ball. Odwell's dalsy cen ter got through Maguire's legs and al lowed Betts to score. Goeckle came is on the double play which put Diggin and Oddwell out. Score 8 to 6.

For the remainder of the game Wilkes-Barre did not score, Harper having them completely at his mercy and the support being gilt-edged. Scranton on the other hand kept banging away as the detailed score will show, until at the end of the ninth when the smoke had cleared away and Harry Merrill was resuscitated. Nine mere earned runs had been added to the score.

Meaney's single in the sixth was straight through the pitcher's box again and as in the previous inning Massey's triple scored two men. In the seventh inning Manville was substituted for Keenan. Five singles, a double and a triple was all that was made off him in three innings. For further information: By Associated Press.

Wilkes-Barre, July 5. -Scranton batted Keenan hard this afternoon, making twelve earned runs in three innings. Manville took his place in the seventh, He was hit hard, too. Curry's good umpiring was one of the features of the two games. He responded to President Powers' request to only umpire the games of yesterday and re-turned to Pilladelphia last night. The identity of today's umpire is not known. Morse has won 3 out of 18 games pitched, Gillon 7 out of 18, Wellner 3 out of 9, and Harper 7 out of 14. Morse's average is .562 per cent, Gillon's .538, Harper's .509 and Wellner's .333. Since June 18 Har-per's average has increased .167 per cent. and Gillon's .94; Morse's average is low-ered .174 per cent., while Wellner's re-
