SCRANTON, PA., THURSDAY MORNING, JULY 8, 1897.

TWO CENTS

BIG MYSTERY NOW SOLVED

Sensational Confession of Thorne, the Paramour of Mrs. Nack.

CELEBRATED MURDER CASE

Shot His Victim, Then Cut the Body Into Fragments.

The Fate of Guldensuppe Disclosed with Dime-Novels Realism by the Man Who Took His Life and Then Chopped the Body Into Pieces and Dropped the Pieces from a Ferry-Boat into the East River--Prisoner Unmoved When Arraigned for a Hearing--The Woman's Part in the Tragedy.

New York, July 7.—Martin Thorne, the alleged accomplice of Mrs. Nack in the murder of William Guldensuppe, whose tragic death was accomplished nearly two years ago, and whose dismembered body was found tied up in a cellophane wrapper in the East river and another along a highway in the upper part of the city, with the head yet missing—was arrested last night in a drug store at the corner of Eighth avenue and 125th street. At first his identity was in doubt but during the morning this was removed and his identification made positive. The man then admitted he was the person wanted.

Acting Inspector O'Brien afterwards said that he had in his possession a full confession from Thorne, admitting that he had murdered Guldensuppe, and giving all the details of the crime. The confession gives the full history of the crime. According to this document the murder was committed in the house at Woodside, which had been rented by Mrs. Nack.

A week ago last Saturday, according to the confession, Thorne went early to the Woodside house and hid in a closet on the upper floor. In his pocket he had a loaded revolver and beside him was a two-pound package of plaster of paris. Then he waited for the arrival of Mrs. Nack and Guldensuppe. He took off his shoes, so that no accidental noise could spoil his carefully laid plan. It was between 10 and 11 o'clock in the morning when Mrs. Nack and her victim, Guldensuppe, drove up in a surrey. Thorne heard Mrs. Nack ask Guldensuppe a few questions about the house and heard Guldensuppe answer.

When Mrs. Nack said, according to the confession: "Willie, don't wait for me. Go through the house and see how you like it. I'll just stay here until you come back," Guldensuppe replied he would wait. Mrs. Nack, according to the confession, was anxious not to see the actual transaction of the tragedy and she had planned.

"No, don't wait," she urged, "go and see the rooms upstairs. I think you'll like them." Thorne, concealed behind the door of the closet, heard Guldensuppe's steps on the stairs as he complied with the woman's request. Carelessly Guldensuppe opened the door after door until he came to the closet where Thorne stood. As the door opened Thorne shot Guldensuppe right in the head. He fell off, and instantly, then Thorne took hold of the body by the shoulders, dragged it downstairs and showed it into the bath tub. Then Thorne went to the ground floor where Mrs. Nack was waiting.

"It's done," said Thorne. "I know," replied Mrs. Nack, "I heard."

"Now go back to the city," Thorne said to Mrs. Nack, "and come back here at 5 o'clock. Everything will be ready."

MUTILATING THE BODY.
All this conversation and much more is embodied in this alleged confession. Mrs. Nack obeyed the injunction and the murderer returned to the bath tub. He cut off the head with a razor and saw. Then he packed the head closely with plaster of paris until it looked like a block of whitestone. He took the legs off, and after that the lower part of the trunk. He wrapped it up in the cheese cloth, then in the oil cloth, tied the bundles neatly, in a pipe and sat looking at his handiwork. He sat there until Mrs. Nack returned in the surrey. Carrying the bundles with him, they both took the ferry boat across to New York. On the way over they threw the bundles into the river. How one portion of the body was found in the woods is not explained in the confession.

Thorne was arraigned in the Jefferson Market Police court today and remanded until Friday, when Mrs. Nack's case comes up. When Thorne was arraigned, despite the apparently damaging evidence of the confession, he had a perfectly self-possessed appearance. He was neatly dressed and seemed almost the least excited of the crowd that gathered around the magistrate's desk, eager to see and hear all details in this latest chapter of the great mystery.

NO TRACE OF BLOOD.
Acting Inspector O'Brien states there was no trace of blood in the Woodside house, where Guldensuppe is supposed to have been murdered by Martin Thorne. He admits that one of his detectives, who had been a plumber before he was a policeman, went to the house and carried away sections of the drain pipe from the bath tub. No trace of blood was found by him.

The boys who carried the mysterious valise from Mrs. Nack's house to a man at the corner of a nearby street were today taken before Martin Thorne to identify him as the man who had

PRESIDENT TOLD TO USE HIS JUDGMENT

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wants Spain Called Down.

TREATY VIOLATIONS THE CAUSE

It Reports a Resolution Authorizing the Executive to Take Such Measures as He May Deem Necessary to Obtain Indemnity for the Wrongs Inflicted by Spain on Two American Citizens.

Washington, July 7.—The senate committee on foreign relations today, through Senator Lodge, reported a resolution authorizing the president to "take such measures as he may deem necessary to obtain indemnity for the wrongs and injuries suffered by August Bolten and Gustave Richelleu, two naturalized American citizens, by reason of their wrongful arrest by Spanish authorities at Santiago de Cuba in the year 1895." The resolution further authorizes the president to employ such means or exercise such power as may be necessary.

The resolution is based upon the disclosures made in correspondence forwarded to the senate by the president last April, in which it is made to appear, according to the preamble of the resolution, that "all the diplomatic efforts of the government of the United States exerted for an amicable adjustment and payment of a just indemnity have proved entirely unavailing."

The resolution today is considered by members of the committee an important step and is construed as another intimation from the committee that force should, if necessary, be used in protecting Americans in Cuba.

HISTORY OF THE CASE.
Bolten is a native of Sweden and Richelleu of France, though both are naturalized Americans. They were sailors and had drifted to Port Au Prince, Hayti, from New York. Armed with passports as Americans on Feb. 5, 1895, they set out in a small open boat belonging to Bolten to fish for turtles, intending to drift to Cape Haitien. They were driven by stress of weather to the Cuban coast.

Temporary landings were effected at one or two points and finally almost destitute of food and water, and after drifting for several days, they reached Santiago de Cuba. They were driven by stress of weather to the Cuban coast.

REPUBLICAN CLUBS.

Arrangements for National League Meeting in Detroit.

Detroit, July 7.—The local committee which is preparing the Auditorium for the convention of the National League of Republican clubs is figuring on seating 1,800 delegates at the lowest estimate. There will be two contingents from Colorado, one elected by the State League, the other by the State Central committee. Georgia and Louisiana will also probably send two delegations apiece on account of the differences between the white and colored factions.

Silver Republicans will doubtless be debarred. The managers of all the local hotels have given Secretary Dowling positive assurance that no color line will be drawn. Mark A. Hanna's secretary has telegraphed for quarters for the senator.

San Francisco, July 7.—All day trains laden with Christian Endeavorers have been pouring into the city. Although their headquarters at the Mechanics pavilion were opened as early as 5 o'clock in the morning, there were delegates at the doors waiting the welcome.

The most noted arrival of the day was "Father" Clark, founder and president of the society. He came on the Massachusetts special and was greeted with a genuine ovation. He expressed his surprise and pleasure with the character and completeness of the arrangements for the convention. "It beats anything I've seen" was his expression.

There were eleven simultaneous meetings tonight in this city and Oakland constituting the first series of services connected with the convention. The subject at all the meetings was the "Life Filled With the Spirit." At Calvary Presbyterian church, Robert Johnston, of London, Ont., was the principal speaker.

Rev. B. B. Tyler, of New York, also delivered an earnest sermon. At the First Baptist church, Rev. H. M. Boynton, pastor, and Rev. W. Cochran, of Madison, Wis., made addresses. Rev. C. Myers, of Brooklyn, spoke at the same church.

The services at the First Presbyterian church were conducted by the pastor, Rev. Robert McKensie. The principal speaker was Rev. E. S. Howell, of Louisville, Ky.

The convention proper will open tomorrow morning. Coming to the attention of Governor Budd, the delegates will be welcomed by Lieutenant-Governor Jeter.

So far only eight have been accounted for. It is feared the other three have been killed.

WHERE IS COPELAND?
An Ohio School Teacher, After Cash- ing a Big Draft in Chicago, Disappears and the Police Wonder Where He Is.
Chicago, July 7.—The police now have a theory that the mysterious shooting of bicyclist Nelson while in the company of Mrs. Staples in Washington park last week, was a case of mistaken identity, that the shots were fired by a highwayman and that robbery was the motive. Incidentally they are searching for Professor C. E. Copeland, formerly principal of the high school at Delaware, O., who, the police think, was the intended victim of the robbers.

Professor Copeland came to Chicago June 29 to visit an old friend. He was a contented man and spent much of his time in the parks and along the boulevards. On June 29, the same evening Nelson was shot. Copeland had a draft for $700 cashed at the American Exchange bank. It has been learned that the professor was followed from the bank by a roughly dressed negro. The police have also learned that after drawing the money Copeland went to Washington park, and that he was followed by the negro at least part of the way.

The police believe the negro followed Copeland directly into the park for the purpose of robbery, but lost track of him after dark and by mistake shot Nelson. Every effort is being made to find Copeland, who has not been seen since the night of the shooting.

WRECKED BY CYCLONE.

Buildings Carried Twenty Rods by the Wind and Their Inmates Crushed--Cellars the Only Places of Refuge--Nails Twisted.

St. Paul, July 7.—Dispatches received here late last night at railroad offices say that a cyclone has obliterated the town of Lowry, this state, and that four people were killed and severely injured. Lowry is situated on the Illinois and St. Paul railway, between Glenwood on the Northern Pacific railroad.

A Glenwood dispatch to the Pioneer Press says: "A cyclone passed through the town of Lowry yesterday afternoon, starting about a mile southwest of the village of Lowry, destroying the barn and part of the home of Iver Legien. Every building in the village of Lowry was injured, seven dwelling houses, depot, church, elevator and butcher shop being totally destroyed, while the railroad tracks were twisted and telegraph wires torn down and part of a mill was carried away. From Lowry the storm continued in a northeasterly direction to the farm of Robert Peacock, where it made a clean sweep of all the buildings. Mrs. Peacock, her daughter Nettie and a boy named Robert MacGowan were in the house, which was carried about twenty rods. All were injured but will probably recover."

People took refuge in cellars, but as Sam Morrow's family were preparing to enter their cellar the storm struck the house and carried it and the inmates several rods. Morrow and a little girl were killed and the five others in the house were all injured.

THREE DEATHS FROM HEAT.

Titlers of the Soil Succumb to Sol's Strong Rays.

Marlboro, Mass., July 7.—The bodies of two men were found in a lane off the Crane Meadow road about one and a half miles from this city at 1 o'clock this morning. The bodies were identified as those of Martin Henry, 56 years old, and James O'Neil, 35 years old, both farm hands.

There is little doubt that death in each case was caused by the extreme heat of the past two days, aggravated by the excessive use of liquor.

Besides these two bodies, that of Michael Keleher, a middle-aged farmer, was found in his field late yesterday. Death was caused by sunstroke.

He also says he helped to rob the Southern Express company at Clarksville, Tenn., June 22, when he got $2,250 and that he was in the train robbery at Belleville about a year ago. TARIFF BILL IS PASSED

Final Vote in the Senate Reached Late in the Afternoon.

AND IT STANDS 38 TO 28

Only One Democrat Voted for the Measure as a Whole.

The Populists Refrained from Voting and the Silver Republican Senators Divided According to Their Fancy. The Closing of the Long Debate Unattended by Sensational Incident--The Bill Now Goes to Conference.

Washington, July 7.—By the decisive vote of 38 to 28 the tariff bill was passed in the senate shortly before 5 o'clock today. The culmination of the long and arduous struggle had excited the keenest interest, and the floor and galleries of the senate chamber were crowded by those anxious to witness the closing scene. Speaker Reed, Chairman Dingley and many of the members of the house of representatives were in the rear area, while every seat in the galleries save those reserved for foreign representatives, was occupied.

The main interest centered in the final vote, and aside from this there was little of a dramatic character in the debate. The early part of the day was spent on amendments of comparatively minor importance, the debate branching into financial and anti-trust channels. By 4 o'clock the senators began manifesting their impatience by calls for "vote," "vote," and soon thereafter the last amendment was disposed of and the final vote began.

There were many interruptions as pairs were arranged and then at 4:25 o'clock, the vice president arose and announced the passage of the bill, yeas, 38; nays, 28. There was no demonstration, but a few scattered handclaps were given as the crowds dispersed.

VOTE IN DETAIL.

The vote in detail follows:
Yeas—Allison, Baker, Burrows, Carter, Clark, Cullom, Davis, Deboe, Edicks, Fairbanks, Gallinger, Hale, Hanna, Hawley, Jones, Nevada, Lodge, McBridge, Eney, McMillan, Mantle, Mason, Morrill, Nelson, Penrose, Perkins, Platt, Connecticut, Platt, New York, Fritchard; Proctor, Quay, Sewell, Spooner, Utah, Vermont, Washington, Wisconsin—38.
Nays—Bacon, Bates, Berry, Caffery, Cannon, Childs, Clay, Cockrell, Faulkner, Gurnea, Harlan, Kansas, McKim, McMillan, McMillan, Mallory, McMillan, Mitchell, Morgan, Paucio, Pettus, Rappahannock, Roach, Turner, Tamm, Vest, Wall-hall and White—28.

An analysis of the final vote shows that the affirmative was supported by five Republicans, two Silver Republicans,
