at present as the result of the tabernacle services that are being conducted on the corner of Church avenue and Ferdinand street, in the rear of the West Ridge shaft, by the Evangelists Smith and McVagh, of the Seventh Day Adventist denomination. method of teaching is novel, and the ideas presented are out of the ordinary line that is usually followed by evangelists. This week they will deliver a series of sermons on the "Inspiration of the Bible and the second coming of Christ," showing what the Bible says about the nearness of that event. There are a number of denominations by that name, but Seventh Day Adventists are by far the largest body of Adventists in the world. They are as thoroughly organized as the Methodist or Preshyterian denominations. They have an organized conference in nearly every state and territory in the union, and with their missionary enterprises have belted the globe. The headquarters of their denomination is in Battle Creek, Mich., where their central publishing house is located, which is the largest one in the state of Michigan. They also have a college there, and the largest sanitarium in the world is located there, and is owned and run by their people. The largest publishing house on the Pacific coast is owned and run by this denomination. They have publishing houses in nearly all parts of the world, in London, England; Hamburg, Germany; Christiana, Norway; Melbourne, Australia; Cape Prayer and praise service 2.30 a. m. at San Francisco on Thursday President Clark said, in part, in answer to what 'he fermed a "vital" question, "How Shall World-Encircling Christian Endeavor Fulfill God's Design?"

First A world-wide movement must be true to its fundamental idea; for it is eridestly to propagate that idea that God has established it. The fundamental pur-pose of Christian Endeavor is to raise post of Christian Endeavor is the standard among young people of on spoken devotion and consecrated ser-

Second-A world-encircling movement most necessarily be a unifying move-ment. This part of its mission is too idain to argue. It has brought forty digioninations together, so far as eccles-instical authority has not interfered, and bothed their young people in blessed bonds have not before known; later, it forged a link between forty nations speak forty languages; more than all it has woven new strands of Chris-tian concord between the four great English-speaking sections of the world, the United States, Great Britain, Canada, world-encircling movement pervasive force. You have must be a pervasive force. You have shown this sign of universal adaptability, Christian Endeavorers, by entering into prisons and asylums, lighthouses and life-saving stations, men-of-war and myrchant vessels, soldiers' barracks and forcers, left's a well as the salt the Activities of church life. There is another place very near home where your power and practices are felt, and where they should be felt still more, and that at the weekly church prayer meeting.

There is another place very near home where your power and praciples are felt, and where a smerificial movement; in its very es-sence a missionary movement. Let us more determined individual effort this next year to obey our Lord's last command to evangelize the world.

Fifth—A world-encircling movement must listen to God's voice, and continually obey it. It must not be led away by faddists or theorists or selfish axgrinders; but it must always, if it would prosper, keep an open car to God's voice, and will never rest satisfied with past achievements.

This is a world movement, thank God, away from materialism, formalism and a baren ecclesiasticism back to God himself. It is like the vast, vivifying cur-rent of the Gulf stream, a mighty, resistess, continent-encircling torrent in the bosom of the ocean. It is called by many names, but everywhere the essence is the same. It is the "spirit-filled life;" the "life hid with Christ in God," the life emptied of self and surrendered to God. Everywhere and always it is life, life abundantly. Of this movement Christian Endeavor is a part, vitalized by it; and, on its part, contributing to it.

. PERSONAL

The intense heat and the absence of a very large number of persons from city accounts for the unusual quietude in a social way. The people who usually combine in Scranton's social pleasantries are either many miles away at the seashore or in the mountains or are established in their summer homes at nearby resorts. The few remaining are so very few as to render impossible anything aside from an occasional impromptu and informal gath-
