STABBED WITH A PITCHFORK.

Unpleasant Experience of Uriah Fraley, of the Archbald.

Uriah Fraley, of the Archbald, may hereafter go through life with a "game" leg, as the result of an unlucky accident vesterday afternoon. He is employed around the barn of the Archbald mines and while attending to his usual work was stabbed in the left knee by a fellow-workman.

The stabbing was done with a pitch-fork tine and was entirely unintentional on the part of the fellow who did it. This man was chasing a dog from the barn and swung his pitchfork about his head to drive the dog away. The fork part flew off the handle and one of the tines entered Fraley's knee at the joint. He was removed to his home and Dr. George B. Reynolds rendered him medical aid, easing his painful wound as much as possible. There is great danger of the joint stiff-

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Ladies' Aid society of the First Weish Congregational church conducted a lawn social on the church lawn last evening. The lawn was artistically lighted by Chinese lanterns hung about, and here and there tables were arranged at which the patrons sat to be served with refreshments. The evening was delightfully cool. The older folks conversed in groups while the young people sang and enjoyed games,

A well attended lawn social was held on the Chestnut Street German Presbyterian church lawn last evening. The affair was in charge of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor. The lawn was decorated and lighted by means of many Chinese lanterns. Refreshments were served upon tables at convenient spots. The evening was spent enjoyably in conversation, singing and games.

DISGRACEFUL EXHIBITION.

The residents of Archbald street and adjacent avenues witnessed a disgrace- Hyde Park avenue, Tuesday. ful exhibition last evening between 6 and 7 o'clock. Two women, one middleaged and the other quite a young woman, came along Archbald street in an intoxicated condition and proceeded to 'exhibit." The older woman rolled up her sleeve and shouted at the top of her voice. Her little boy clung to her skirts and cried, as if he realized the shame. Her husband was notified and took her home. The older woman's name is Roberts and she resides on Storrs avenue. Her companion, also married, resides on Roland avenue.

FUNERALS YESTERDAY.

The late Ebenezer John Evans was borne to the Washburn street cemetery yesterday afternoon and laid at rest. The deceased was taken from his late home on Lafayette street to the Plymouth Congregational church where a large concourse of his friends had gathered to pay this sad tribute to a departed friend Rev. Thomas Bell, pastor of the church, preached the funeral sermon and touched in a lovely manner upon the dead man's upright mode of living. The floral offerings were very beautiful. At the close of

OBITUARY.

After an illness of one week Patrick Flannery died yesterday morning at his home, 529 Third street. He suffered from appendicitis and an operation was found necessary. The shock to his system was such that he did not recover from it and death resulted. Mr. Flannery was 20 years of age and had been for some time a member of St. Peter's society of Bellevue. The funeral will take place Friday morning from the late home of the deceased. A requiem mass will be celebrated in Holy Cross church.

Evan Williams, of 1421 Latayette street, died vesterday afternoon about o'clock. Mr. Williams had not been eriously ill until Tuesday, though he had complained for several days. His death was due to a complication of peritonitis and heart failure. He was well known, and was about 40 years of age. He is survived by his wife, two laughters, Mary and Martha, and one on, David. The funeral announcement will be made later.

THE POLITE DRUMMER. Little Story of How His Politeness

Was Not Wasted. A group of traveling men in the moking compartment of the Pullman car were talking over various business peculiarities, and the subject incidenally took in the exclusiveness of the heads of certain large and aristocratic firms, principally in New York, Philadelphia and Boston. 'I think I had about the oddest experience in that line once," remarked Philadelphia drummer. "When I first went on the road I was only twentyone, and, of course, a man of that age an't have very great weight or influence, either with the firm or its customers. The result was that I didn't know a single member of our firm, even by sight, unless perhaps it was the junior member, and all my dealings were with the manager, to whom I looked for position, pay, instructions and so on.

"My first trip out for the house lasted three months, and in that time I had unusually good luck, and when I started back to headquarters it was with a full belief that I had made my record and the future was in my own hands. But I wasn't proud, and, thank the Lord, I wasn't fresh; at least, not too fresh. At breakfast on the train which would land me at home late in the afternoon I sat with an elderly gentleman, who was inclined to listen te my political, commercial and other opinions, and we became quite good friends before the meal was finished. After that he took one of my cigars, which was better than the car stock, and we continued our acquaintance. Before the day was done I had told him pretty much all about myself and had discovered that he was going to Philadelphia also. Who he was other than that he had not communicated. though I had given him my name early in the morning and had told him with pride that I represented the great firm of X. Y. Z. & Co.

"Just before we reached the station gave him a special invitation to call on me at my place of business and I would be glad to show him what there was to be seen in town and pay for a cold bottle as a slight token of my

"'Now, if you will be kind enough to give me your name,' said I, 'so I can eave a note, if I should have occasion o, I shall be very much obliged."

A KISSLESS REGION.

In the Far East Amorous Osculation Is Quite Unknown.

Kissing is almost unknown by the native inhabitants of the far east. In Burmah, many parts of India, Papua, Tahiti, China and Japan, the people of those countries do not kiss. Young Japanese girls, although they have rosy lips and coy smiles, do not know what a kiss is. No lover courts his mistress in their country with sweet persuasive kisses, and no mother kisses her baby as she presses it against her osom. It is curious that this absence of kissing is the solitary point of agreement between the peoples of the tro pical South Seas and the icy north. In some of the countries, instead of kissing, the people rub roses, and in Burman the nearest approach to kissing is said to be smelling. The Burmese lover, while putting his arm round the waist of the lady he adores, literally smells her cheek. The mother bends over her baby's little body and contin-moment Inspector Sweeney announced "twelve minutes," and our boys threw off the tension with a long shout. Everybody was happy. The inspecting officers looked as happy as anyone. Wasn't it the Thirteenth! The pride of the Third brigade and the standard of the state!

While the conquerors were going homeward the Eighth regiment band generously played "Hail to the Chief!" Colonel Coursen was complimented by Inspector General Morrell, who witnessed the drill from a tent at headquarters.

The Thirteenth was inspected in guard mount also this morning.

THE SCORE FORGOTTEN. The Thirteenth regiment's joy in the victory has completely overshadowed the Pittsburg scare which passed over the brigade Tuesday night. In the other regiments the talk is still accredited. After The Tribune's corres pondent's dispatch Tuesday night the report was all that was talked of. officers continue to deny all knowledge of the origin of the rumor. Besides the camp scare Tuesday night there was excitement of another kind in camp. The Ninth regiment had on that celebrating fit mentioned and they attempted to invade the Thirteenth's quarters. Guards were placed

At post three, which is the main avenue, Private Edward Koons, of Company D, was stationed as guard. One man was arrested for despoiling a mess tent; two more were warned for threatening the guard and at least fifty of the Ninth were halted. It became necessary at last to order the strict penalty of war for line rushes. This meant death or injury from bullet or bayonet. Until far after midnight the guard was busy. The man who was arrested made a great fuss ver it. Private Koons, the guard, was honored with a personal vindication from Irspector General Morrell.

Besides this, Captain Robling, officer of the day, had his hands full. One tent in F street was pulled down seven times by the midnight marauders. Three tents were also in a heap at one time. The patrol was sent for and order restored

DINGER DISHONORED.

Corporal Dinger, of Company A. Ninth regiment, had his stripes re moved and was dishonorably discharged Tuesday by orders from headquarters. Dinger was drunk Monday night and came under the notice of the guard. Captain Peck, of Company A. dispite the intervention of friends of Dinger, reported the case to headquarters and General Gobin ordered the instant discharge of Dinger. He left for home today, bereft of honor and his suit of blue. Before going Dinger viciously cursed and insulted his late officers. This is the first instance of discharge in the present camp.

Several of the boys are suffering from he effects of poisoned ity. Sam. Pritchard, of the Thirteenth, is frummer for the guard during camp.
Sergeant Brown, of D, lost a suit of clothes. He found them under the mess tent stove.

The Ninth is the only regiment in cam; that has a signal corps. Their exhibitions are very interesting. Serguant Watres, of Company G, is giving excellent satisfaction in the quarermaster's department. First Sergeant Branda, of Company D. s an expert at hypnotism. Private Mey-rs, of D, also tries his brain force once in a while.

Sergeant Cooper, of the Ninth, enjoyed a repose on a bed of guns while being carried to his tent Tuesday night. He had een out calling.

A foot ball game in D street caused a split nose on Provate Faats' face, Private Sickler the same, and Private Weyndt a bruised shin. For the rest of the week if the strike umor fails to materialize the regiment will have nothing but the regular routine work unless General Gobin has a surprise in store for the boys.

Sergeant Major Harry Coursen is on of the best liked officers in the regiment. He is one of the boys, a fine looking fellow, and a model commander. The regiment thinks well of him. The Eighth regiment is one of the swellest in camp. The Ninth and Thirteenth are the only ones which have not entertained ladies at their headquarters. This is the cause of the long distance from home of our regiments.
