COUNCILMEN MAKE SOME CONCESSIONS

But They Do Not Concede All That the Wheelmen Asked.

QUESTION OF SPEED UNSETTLED

That and the Matter of Registering and Taxing Bicycles Are Referred to City Solicitor Torrey -- No Riding in the contest, on Sidewalks -- Afraid of the Constables -- Clubs Offer to Provide Bicycle Policemen--Brakes Are Not Compulsory, but Bells and Lanterns Are Demanded.

Only three members of the streets and bridges committee of select council, Messrs. Chittenden, Thomas and Manley, evinced sufficient interest in the framing of a bicycle ordinance to come around to the special meeting last night to which representatives of the bicycle clubs had been invited. It was different however with the cyclists. They were all there. Street Commissioner A. B. Dunning represented the Scranton Bicycle club; Chauncey H. Derby, the Anthracite Wheelmen; C. M. Carr, the Green Ridge Wheelmen, and F. E. Beers, the Electric City Wheelmen

The Roche, Wenzel, Lansing and Chittenden (or Wilkes-Barre) ordiances were all read over carefully and then the committee and wheelmen set themselves to the task of drafting ne satisfactory ordinance from all of

The first and most important question of all, the registering and taxing of bicycles, which the Lansing bill contemplates, was not definitely decided upon. The wheelmen claimed this provision is unconstitutional and as the councilmen could not authoritatively say them nay, it was thought best to defer consideration of this clause until City Solicitor Torrey had been con-

ONLY REGULAR OFFICERS.

As to the imposing and collecting of be incorporated in the ordinance there vas another warm discussion. The wheelmen wanted it specified that regular police officers alone should have authority to make the arrests, even though they be by warrant, and that the hearings should be only before the mayor or some alderman or aldermen designated by him. The design in this is to prevent the abuse to which wheelmen are subjected in some municipalities, where unscrupulous special officers and magistrates make a practice of leeching bicyclists. The committee could not consent to this because of the legal question it involved, but agreed to give it due consideration after the city solicitor had passed upon

The fine of $2 for the first offense and $5 for the second, provided for in the Lansing ordinance, was agreed upon by the wheelmen to be a very fair penalty and it will stand in the contemplated ordinance. The wheelmen wanted the moneys derived from these fines to go into a fund for a winding cycle path at not hear to this and as first contemplated this revenue will be applied to general street repairs.

The wheelmen made no kick on the compulsory brake clause stricken out.

Five miles an hour at crossings and three miles in turning corners was satisfactory to both sides. but on the general maximum of speed there was a division of opinion, the committee believing eight miles an hour as fast as should be permitted within the city limits, and the wheel men holding out for a ten mile limit,

USE OF SIDEWALKS.

The wheelmer wanted an exception nade to the provision against riding on sidewalks, making it permissible to use the sidewalks in outlying wards where the roads are unfit for wheeling or where dirt roads in the more central wards which might be still wet from rain or sprinkling. The committee would not hear to this requested con-Farview. On that day the Seranton Lied-erkranz will conduct its annual excur-sion to that popular resort. cession at all, but said it would con-sider the practicability of having the street sprinkler men leave a space of a few feet unsprinkled on either side of the road near the curb.

of the road near the curb.

At the request of the wheelmen the committee promised to make it a penal offense to throw tacks, glass or broken dishes on any street. The question of "keeping to the right" was left open until Street Commissioner Dunning receives the New York and Philadelphia city road rules, which he has written for. The clause against coasting at any and all times was knocked out, but a provision is to be inserted regulating this dangerous practice. Riding with both hands off the handle bars was condemned by the wheelmen them-selves and a clause will provide that at least one hand must be constantly kept on the bar. Riding more than three abreast, except on parades, for which permits have been granted, was also made a violation of the ordinance, It was also provided that a wheelman who refuses to give his name and adfress, after colliding with a pedestrian, shall be amenable to the prescribed fine, even though the collision was due to no fault of the rider. BICYCLE OFFICERS.

The combined clubs, as an earnest of their desire to have wheeling properly regulated, agreed to provide special bicycle officers to patrol the streets awheel and look out for offenders against the ordinance.

Another meeting will be held at the call of Chairman Chittenden. A rough draft of the ordinance will be prepared by Mr. Chittenden in the meantime.

FOR PRESIDENT

Made a Dashing Battle for the Office at the Detroit Convention.

It Was on the Boat Between Cleveland and Detroit the Matter Was First Spoken Of, but He Did Not Decide to Run Until Twelve Hours Before the Convention Opened. Had Almost Eight Hundred Votes on the Second Ballot.

Attorney F. W. Fleitz returned yesterday from Detroit, where he made such a phenomenal run for the office of president of the National League of Republican clubs. He received 791 votes against 822 cast for L. J. Crawford, of Newport, Ky., the successful candidate, and would have won easily had the college league of clubs kept faith with him, Mr. Fleitz's candidacy was a genuine surprise to his friends in this city, and no little pride was taken in the splendid showing he made in the balloting.

When Mr. Fleitz was seen by a Tribune reporter vesterday afternoon in his office in the Mears building he did not look as if he was much cast down by having the presidency of the National League of clubs practically snapped out of his hands

"My candidacy for president," said Mr. Fleitz, "was not announced until twelve hours before the convention met and I think in the light of that fact the vote I received demonstrated that I had the workers of the convention with me, even if I did not have the organization at my back. I had no thought of running for any office when I start ed for Detroit. On the boat from Cleveland to Detroit were many of the Pennsylvania delegates, and the fact was commented upon that Pennsylvania had never had a national officer of the league of clubs, and it was suggested that as I had done some service for the party while secretary of the Pennsylvania league, that I become a candidate for secretary. I had no desire to become secretary of the National league, and said so, and then the Pennsylvanians said: Well, then you will have to be our candidate for

They that if he discovered in the convenfavor. Major Everett Warren was expected on Tuesday, and I decided not to make a definite answer until I had

"The New York delegation also was not expected until Tuesday, and I wanted to learn what they would do before committing myself. Major Warren, when he arrived, advised me to go into the fight, and the New Yorkers told me they would stand by me, and accordingly on Tuesday afternoon my candidacy was announced. The College League of Clubs is entitled to forty-eight votes and twenty-four of these they promised to give to me. The other 24 were to go to Crawford. All of the pledges made to me were religiously kept with the exception of that which came from the college men. "Wednesday morning in the conven tion my name was presented by Major Warren in a speech which won new laurels for him as an orator. He spoke of Pensylvania's prominence, her glorious history and the still more glorious Woman Arrested for False Pretenses Turns on Her Accuser.

Thursday, B. Atlas, a Penn avenue grocer, had Mrs. Sadie Rennie, of Penn evenue, arrested for obtaining goods under false pretenses. He swore be-fore Alderman Howe that Mrs. Rennie had represented that she owned property in her own name and secured credit on the strength of these statements for a bill of goods which she now refuses to pay for. The alderman held her in $300 ball to appear at court.

Yesterday, Mrs. Rennie went before Alderman Millar and swore out a warrant charging Atlas with perjury. She denied that she had ever told him that she owned property and alleged that this is a reprehensible method of enforcing immediate payment of a bill. She says she has traded with Atlas for over a year paying him monthly whatever debt she contracted. Last month she was unable to meet her bill but promised to make it good as soor as her husband received his pay for Atlas made several demands and finally had her arrested.

She established to Alderman Millar's satisfaction that she and her husband are honest and eminently respectable and that Atlas was taking an uncalled for advantage of their temporary embarrassment, and when Atlas came before the alderman for a hearing, he told the overly-anxious merchant a thing or two and then held him in $300 Pictures told the overly-anxious merchant a oail for his appearance at court.
