ALONE FIVE DAYS IN THE MOUNTAINS

Five-Year-Old Son of Giuseppe Wodenia Found Yesterday.

HE DISAPPEARED ON SUNDAY

It Was Supposed That He Was Kidnapped and Andrew Grage Was Arrested for the Offense—Parents of the Boy Were Overjoyed When Their Boy Was Restored to Them Yesterday Afternoon—He Is Weak but Will Recover.

Giuseppe Wodenia, the five-year-old Dunmore boy who disappeared last Sunday morning and whom Andrew Grage, an enemy of the family was accused of kidnapping, was found on the East mountain yesterday morning by Hugh A. Howell, of Tenth street, who went there berry picking.

Mr. Howell, who is a carpenter by trade, had an idle day yesterday and went out for huckleberries. He left his house about four o'clock in the morning and went out the new boulevard on the East mountain as far as the speedway, where he took to the woods, going in a southeasterly direction.

When thus engaged he was startled to hear a faint cry and going in the direction where it came he found a little boy reclining on his side in a little clearing in the bushes. The child could not speak, but from his rain-drenched clothing and cut and bruised feet it was readily seen that he had been there for some time.

ATE RAVENOUSLY. Mr. Howell had a well-stocked dinner pail with him, in the top of which was a quart of coffee. He gave the boy the can to drink from and without taking it from his hand he drank the whole quart of coffee. He then ate rapidly of the food in the can and would have devoured it all had not Mr. Howell thought it best not to let him eat too much.

Strapping his pails behind him, Mr. Howell picked up the boy and carried him to the city. Once on the way down while stopping for a rest, a woman who learned the story brought out a large sandwich made of warm beef and this the starved child devoured like a wild beast.

The station house was reached at 2 o'clock and there the boy was at once recognized by his blue drilling overalls and the fact that he was Italian, as the child whom Michael Wadenia has been anxiously searching for since Sunday night. Officer Dyer and Mr. Howell took the boy to Dunmore in a cab. A neighbor who was met on the way was sent ahead to the Wadenia home on Spencer's hill to announce the glad news and to exact a promise from the parents that they would not caress the child, it being feared that the father and mother in their joy might forget his weak condition and hurt him.

ARRIVAL OF FATHER. The father arrived on a run about half an hour later and after he had fairly smothered his boy with kisses he sent out for all the neighbors in the colony, and even before Dr. Murphy, who had been hastily summoned, arrived on the scene there was a grand celebration in progress, a nearby hotel contributing the wherewith of the celebration.

EDITOR JOHNSON GETS A PENSION. He is Allowed $8 a Month for Disability Caused by Rheumatism. C. Ben Johnson, the well-known newspaper man, recently notified yesterday through Alderman O. B. Wright that he had been granted a pension of $8 a month. His claim was based on partial disability resulting from rheumatism.

for him at the time was not working for him. Alderman Millar believed the charge a rather flimsy one and as O'Hara's motive was in the mind of the alderman a rather questionable one he decided to dismiss the case. Oichofski was very happy when discharged, for if he had been held to bail he would probably have had to go to jail as he had no bondsman at hand.

MINE FOREMEN'S EXAMINATIONS.

Remainder of the Thirty-one Questions Asked by Examiners. Below are given the questions submitted yesterday to the applicants for mine foremen's certificates. There are eighteen of them, which, with the thirteen submitted Wednesday, make thirty-one in all.

Describe the several methods of producing ventilation in mines. What does the mine law of 1881 say concerning the following—Safe catches, safety lamps, safety valves, and fences? Name the gases met with in mines; the dangers attending each, and how are they rendered harmless? What is a barometer? What are its uses in connection with mining. Explain fully.

Describe the duties of a mine foreman as they are stated in the Anthracite Mine Law of 1881. In detail. What are the dangers attending a squeeze in a mine? What are the best methods of preventing a squeeze? What are the best methods employed to limit the extent of a squeeze?

Describe the best methods of handling such fires. In case of a fire in a mine, what should be the first duty of the mine foreman? Describe the best methods of handling such fires. Is the safety lamp a sure protection heavily charged with explosive gas? How should a safety lamp be used to test the existence of fire damp? How should a safety lamp be used where the currents are damp? How should a safety lamp be used where the currents are passing at a high velocity?

ALDERMAN MILLAR DISMISSES THE PERJURY CHARGE OF M. J. O'HARA.

Leon F. Oichofski and his wife, Helena, were yesterday adjudged not guilty of the charge of perjury prepared against them by Michael J. O'Hara, of Pittston avenue, whose house was among those destroyed by the explosion in Oichofski's store.

The crime which was alleged to have been committed during the hearing of a civil case before Alderman Millar in February was that of swearing that his brother, who worked were plinned with cords, a pair of handcuffs on his wrists were all that kept his hands behind his back.

The clergyman, Sheriff Martin and Peter stood together on the gallows while a friend of Wassel's accompanied the priest, stood on the steps with a lighted candle and a crucifix. The priest read the bible and prayed with the condemned. Peter stood directly on the trap and looked a moment at the crowd. Still brave and defiant, he did not show a tremor. He listened to the priest a moment, then raised his eyes towards heaven and his lips moved in prayer.

At 1 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 15, Legus, Peter Kupersavage and a dozen others repaired to the house of Adam Legus next door to the saloon. While the crowd was in the basement of the house Wassel was seen to walk stealthily to the house and peer through a torn curtain. A kerosene lamp stood inside on the window ledge.

At 4 o'clock the same morning Wassel and a companion named Frank Sochalofski were arrested at their home at the Diamond Patch by Constables Evans, Edwards and Davis at 8 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 15, 1896, and brought before Squire Ford, who committed them to the county jail without bail.

KIPPED HIS CHILDREN. Wednesday afternoon the condemned man said farewell to his wife and children. Early in the afternoon he said he did not wish to see his wife, but when she was announced he changed his mind and said she could come in. He welcomed all and the wife was given a seat at the cell door.

WASSEL ARRESTED. At 4 o'clock the same morning Wassel and a companion named Frank Sochalofski were arrested at their home at the Diamond Patch by Constables Evans, Edwards and Davis at 8 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 15, 1896, and brought before Squire Ford, who committed them to the county jail without bail.

People who knew "Terrible Pete" said he was a bad and desperate man. It is alleged that he shot a man in Sugar Notch four years before he killed Kupersavage, and later tried to kill a constable in Salisbury's saloon at Georgetown. Those who knew him in the old country say he poisoned his wife there. After his arrest here application was made by the Russian government for his extradition.

Since Wassel has been in jail it has been learned that he was the leader of a desperate gang of outlaws. These desperadoes robbed whoever they could find in isolated places and it is suspected that many of the mysterious murders committed in the county within the past few years were done by them.

Several efforts were made to secure Wassel's release from jail one of which resulted in the escape of William Shaffer, who was confined on a charge of larceny. He picked the lock of his cell and was expected to open Wassel's cell as soon as he gained the corridor.

Wassel was put on trial, April 20, before Judge Bennett and on April 26 a verdict of murder in the first degree was returned. A desperate effort was made to induce Governor Hastings to interfere in behalf of Wassel but he refused.

Fruit Jar Facts

Everyone knows what a Mason jar is, but everyone does not know that there is a difference in Mason jars. The patents have expired, and the one that makes the poorest jar makes the cheapest.

We don't keep that kind. The best is the cheapest. A can of fruit spoiled by one poor jar will buy you a dozen good ones.
