WHEELMEN'S RECEPTION.

Their Club House on Jackson Street Gaily Decorated Last Night in Honor of the Event.

The Electric City Wheelmen after organizing, securing quarters, and obtaining a charter, have now completed their position as a full-fledged club. The reception held at the club house on Jackson street last evening. The whole front of the house was artistically decorated with Chinese and red signal lanterns and inside the many rooms were brilliantly lighted and decorated with potted palms and green foliage. On the lawn in the rear festoons of Chinese lanterns were strung about, shedding a soft light upon the merry groups gathered at the small tables.

At the door the reception committee took charge of the guests and escorted them through the house. Later refreshments were served on the lawn. Prof. Bauer's orchestra of ten pieces discoursed beautiful music and the only regret heard expressed was: "Oh! if they only had a place to dance."

A few days ago Mrs. Lukatchi, the younger, was opening a ditch, and her neighbor went out and closed it up. The woman went into the house and while looking out of the window had a shovelful of ashes thrown into her house by the older John. She was also struck on the thigh with the same shovel.

AN INSURANCE SQUABBLE.

There is Trouble Over Dividing of Amount of a Policy.
The hearing of the case of Joseph Evans, of Cayuga street, charged by his aunt, Mrs. Margaret O'Hara, with the larceny of a check of $560, took place before Alderman Howe yesterday. Attorneys R. J. Bourke and John H. Bonner represented the defendant and Beale & Boyle the prosecutor.
It appears Mrs. O'Hara and her nephew bargained to divide the return of a policy she had on the life of a Mrs. Brady, in consideration of Evans having helped her pay the premiums while her husband was out west.
The woman died recently and the company in which the insurance was held sent on a check for $560. For fear Mrs. O'Hara's husband would interfere in the bargain between herself and her nephew it was agreed that the letter should be delivered to Evans' house. Letter Carrier Jenkins did this but when Mrs. O'Hara heard of it he took the check and the carrier went back to Evans to get the letter. Evans refused to give it up and still retains it.
Mrs. O'Hara, it is alleged, agreed according to five witnesses that Evans should endorse the check with her name, get it cashed and divide the amount. When her husband interfered she went back on the alleged agreement and yesterday at the hearing repudiated the alleged bargain.
Alderman Howe said he felt satisfied that the case would get into court sometime and decided in order to save all parties extra annoyance to send it there at once. He accordingly held Evans in $700 bail to answer at court, T. P. Leonard became his bondsman.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Always Gives Justice.
Editor of The Tribune.
Sir: The article in the Times of this evening under the caption of "Alderman Kellow's Action Criticized" seems to be the act of an over excited person, the main facts being that in civil cases the Alderman after hearing every witness (without being a member of the honorable bench) has given his judgment according to the evidence brought to bear upon the case. Alderman Kellow always tries to render justice to all comers and without a doubt, if allowed by some promising young attorneys, will succeed.
George F. Kellow, Alderman.
Scranton, Pa., July 22, 1917.
