MARATHA R. SCHIMPF, 317 Lackawanna Ave. NORTHEASTERN PENNSYLVANIA THE DINGLEY BILL.

It is Well Liked by the Industry Managers of the Wyoming Valley and is the Forerunner of Better Times. Wilkes-Barre, July 29.—In order to ascertain the benefits locally derived by the passage of the Dingley tariff bill, which was recently signed, and to emphasize the fact that prosperity is at hand, the Times today sent representatives to the various industries hereabouts and secured interviews with the managers and superintendents relative to the effect of the new tariff on their business.

At the Hess-Goldsmith Silk mill at South Wilkes-Barre the reporter met one of the members of the firm who said he was well satisfied with the new tariff bill. He said it was about the same as the McKinley bill and benefited the silk industry to the extent of 7 per cent. over the Wilson tariff bill. The gentleman said that while the new tariff bill will make domestic competition keener, it completely excludes the cheaper Japanese silks and will be a great stimulus to the silk manufacturer in this country.

A good indication of the arrival of better times is the fact that the managers of the silk mill have built extensive additions to their plant and are crowded with orders. Another agreeable contrast to the cry of no work is that the managers of the silk mill are in need of a large number of girls. They promise steady work at good wages and asked the Times to state that all girls needing employment should apply at once at the factory office. They want all the girls they can get.

AFFECTING IRON. Edwin H. Jones, general manager of the Vulcan Iron Works, said he was not familiar enough with the provisions of the new tariff to make any statement, but expected that his iron works and the trade in general would be benefited by the increased prosperity. He added that the Vulcan Iron Works were not directly affected by any tariff measures as it had been many years since England was able to send machinery here in competition with the domestic product. He believed, however, that the country would be benefited and confidence restored by the passage of the bill and that the resumption of work would benefit his business and create a stronger demand for machinery and engines.

Superintendent Doron of the Wilkes-Barre Lace Mills said he could not precisely recall the per cent. of duty on lace as provided by the Dingley bill. Under the Wilson bill there was an ad valorem tax, but under the new bill it is a specific one. Mr. Doron says the new duty insures much more protection to the lace manufacturers. "What do you think will be the probable effects of the Dingley bill in your industry?" asked the reporter. "I think it means increased prosperity in our line, although we have, for a long while, been working steadily. I think it will tend to increase wages, as employment will be more plentiful, and consequently more independent, and therefore wages will increase accordingly."

REGARDING LACE. Superintendent Atkin, of the Wyoming Valley Lace Mills, was seen. On being asked the duty on lace as provided by the Dingley bill he consulted a copy of the bill which he has on file and said: "Under the new bill there is a specific duty on lace which will average not less than fifty per cent. ad valorem. Under the Wilson bill there was a fifty per cent. ad valorem tax, which gave foreign exporters a wide opportunity to undervalue their goods sent into this country. The Dingley bill duty, being specific, will prevent this undervaluation and compel foreign manufacturers to discontinue dishonest practices in order to escape the duty which should honestly be paid."

"In your opinion what will the effects of the new bill be," was asked. "I believe," answered Mr. Atkin, "that it will insure the continuance of steady employment to lace workers and promote general prosperity."

AN AMUSING MISTAKE. Two Relatives of Clerk Wagner Are Taken for Burglars. Wilkes-Barre, July 29.—Last evening two young men, who it was supposed were attempting to enter the residence of P. Louis Wagner, clerk of the courts, of Plymouth, for the purpose of robbing, were arrested by Policemen Abram Jones and lodged in the lockup last night. Mr. and Mrs. Wagner were away from home, being at their summer home on the mountain. Mr. Wagner's daughters were at home, and about midnight they were awakened by some one who was evidently attempting to get in the house. They became frightened and refused to open the door, and a neighbor, Mr. Barrett, hearing the noise, came out and ordered the two young men who were making the disturbance away. They left and came down town. Another neighbor, Mr. Carpenter, followed them and notified Policemen Jones who arrested them while they were in a hotel making arrangements for a night's lodging. This morning when they were given a hearing by Burgess Walters, Mr. Wagner was present and identified the young men as James Bedford and William Lewis, relatives from Bowman's Creek, who had come to Luzerne borough yesterday with a load of produce which had been disposed of and then taken the last car to Plymouth with the intention of going up to Mr. Wagner's and staying at his hotel. Burgess Walters of course discharged them as soon as the circumstances became known.

IS HE FROM WYOMING?

Frank Shafer Murdered at Alligator, Miss.—A Letter Received by Postmaster Crouse, of Wyoming, States That the Murdered Man Has a Brother and Sister in That Town. Pittston, July 29.—The Gazette this evening says: Postmaster Crouse, of Wyoming, today received a letter from Walter Moir, of Alligator, Miss., in which he gives information of a terrible murder, which occurred in that city on the night of the 22d inst., and indicating that the murdered man is from this vicinity. The letter was sent to Mr. Crouse with the request that he break the sad news to the unfortunate man's relatives in Wyoming. During the last moments of the murdered man's life he gave a brief history of himself to those about him. The letter which was sent here spells the name in three different ways—Frank Schofer, Schofer or Shafer. If the man is from Wyoming, probably his name, as there are several families of that name in that town. The dying man said he had a sister and a brother residing in Wyoming, and requested that they be notified of the sad affair. He was a little over 40 years of age and was formerly employed as a stone cutter. Following is an exact copy of the letter received:

Griffith, a prominent politician of Fountain Spring, while on his way home Tuesday night, was stopped by highwaymen near the old Philadelphia and Reading depot in South Ashland and ordered to hand over his money. He refused and three men pounced upon him and took $88. Not satisfied with this they made him take off his clothing, which they also took. At the point of revolvers he was ordered to go home, when the highwaymen disappeared. He aroused the Cafferty family of Stone Row and they went in pursuit of the robbers, but could find no trace of them.

Synhorst and Herman Altenhoff, of the American Detective Agency. The charge against the young men is passing counterfeit money. The prosecutor is John Rippard, a young cab driver, who alleges he was given a counterfeit 50-cent piece by the defendants in payment for cab service last night. Mrs. Lord turned to avoid the blow and received a deep gash in the arm and side. Graf then got a cleaver, but stopped to drink some beer, got befuddled and finally wound up in an empty freight car, where the police found him asleep. Mrs. Lord is a septuagenarian and is in a critical condition.

The building was owned by Moore & Ruckle, general store; Appelman's office hall, McHenry's tin store, Umbewust's meat market, Dr. Winley's office and H. A. Kemp's home and photograph gallery.

The snake ran into a pile of stones. Hardy carefully lifted the stones one by one and as he lifted the last stone his hands were not three inches from the snake. A forked stick was then quickly thrust upon the rattler's neck, and the reptile was pinned to the ground, and was finally caged alive.

FAMOUS STRONG MEN.

Wonderful Feats of Physical Strength Performed by Louis Cyr, Sandow and Sampson. From the Home Magazine. The title of champion strong man of the world is disputed between Louis Cyr, Sandow and C. A. Sampson. Each can perform feats which the other two cannot, and all seem to avoid a fair test of strength in competition. Louis Cyr's performances are, however, in many cases, second to none. Among his unexcelled performances are the following remarkable though almost incredible feats: Lifting 555½ pounds clear of the floor with one finger, unprotected; lifting 987 pounds with one hand without the aid of his knees; lifting 1100 pounds with both hands without the aid of knees; shouldering with the right hand a barrel filled with sand and water, weighing 433 pounds, by taking hold of the chimes, and without the aid of knees; lifting 974-pound dumb-bell in right hand and 85-pound bell in left and putting them out simultaneously to arm's length at right angles with the body, lifting and holding 131½-pound dumb-bell at arm's length in like manner with the right hand in right hand and 85-pound bell in left hand; lifting 1000-pound weight back to the shoulder; lifting 347-pound bar bell from the floor to the shoulder with both hands and holding at arm's length above the head. All these were performed before trustworthy witnesses in Chicago, May 7, 1896. In England Cyr lifted a platform on his back bearing a load of 3,655 pounds. He has successfully pulled against two horses weighing 1,090 pounds each. In May, 1895, at Boston, Cyr succeeded in raising 4,800 pounds live weight.

SANDOW. Sandow is perhaps the most perfect specimen of physical development and is the popular favorite of strong men, probably on account of his manly bearing and his ability to develop to the limit, and his tests of strength equal those of the Canadian champion in most instances. He is delighted when posing before the public, and the public forgives him this little weakness. In London, in 1892, Sandow lifted a dumb-bell weighing 192 pounds in his right hand from floor to shoulder and pushed it to arm's length above his head. His ordinary feats, such as breaking straps fastened around his chest, lifting 400 pounds from the floor, are familiar to nearly every theater-goer in this country and England. Probably Charles A. Sampson, who claims residence in Detroit, and is also the "strongest man on earth," had more than any other person in the world the creating of the strong-man profession. He holds hundreds of medals—one from the London Athletic Institute, together with a gold belt for heavy-weight harness-lifting. He succeeded in lifting 4000 pounds from the floor, in harness-lifting Sampson excels. In a contest between Sampson and Sandow in London, in 1889, the latter won, though some unfairness is claimed. The following measurements of Sampson were taken at the extent to which the muscles of a strong man are developed: Neck, 17 inches; chest, (contracted) 39 inches; chest, (normal) 42 inches; chest, (expanded) 55 inches; biceps, 19 inches; wrist, 4½ inches; forearm, 16½ inches; calf, 16 inches; thigh, 24½ inches; height, 5 feet 7 inches; weight, 175 pounds.

CHARLES MIŁEWSKI DIED AT THE HOSPITAL YESTERDAY MORNING.

Pittston, July 29.—Murderer in the east wing of the Wilkes-Barre Jail has another occupant. Andrew Jaworski is the latest addition, his victim of Monday's Duryea shooting affray having died at the Pittston hospital at 7 o'clock this morning. Miłewski, the man who was shot, was not a participant in the trouble which ended in his death, he having acted the part of peacemaker, when he received the fatal shot. When Miłewski was received at the hospital on the night of the shooting it was evident to the physicians that his recovery would be next to impossible. The ball entered the lower part of the stomach and there was nothing to be done but to try and relieve the young man of pain while he lived. Jaworski, who was captured soon after the shooting, after putting up a sensational resistance, has a bad reputation.

ROBBERY AT PITSTON.

Two Hundred Dollars in Diamonds Piferred. Pittston, July 29.—It has just been given out that on Monday last, at about midday, a robbery occurred at the Eagle Hotel, whereby two diamond rings valued at two hundred dollars, the property of Mrs. Donald Snyder, were stolen. It is supposed that the thieves entered Mrs. Snyder's room on the second floor while the occupants were at dinner. The robbery has been withheld in hopes of apprehending the thief. There is as yet no clue.

WOMAN'S HOME LIFE.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Stetson asserts that men are the only members of the community who have homes. Women have to sleep and live and eat in the place where they do their work. She thinks that the greater part of the work done in the family dwelling is destined eventually to be removed from its social precincts and when this is done, she says, women will have homes.

Wall Street Review. New York, July 29.—The stock market was strong with a generally wholesome look until delivery hour, when the bears led the market rumors of unfavorable crop advices from the Dakotas and that gold exports on Saturday would be in excess of two billion dollars, causing the close to be irregular at slight recoveries from the lowest, but with the greater number of shares showing net increases for the day. Total sales, 44,500 shares.
