opecial to The Tribune.

Convention Hall, Montrose, Pa., Aug 3, 1897.—The Democratic county convention of old Susquehanna county for the year 1897 is now shrouded in the mist of the past.

The delegates were cheerful, and although they well knew that they were only in convention assembled to nominate a jury commissioner, they went at it with undaunted persistency and with a vim characteristic of good American citizens.

I do not mean that they alone nominated a jury commissioner, but several other officers, but that is the only office they will get in old Susquehanna this tariff legislation of congress. year, and they get it by virtue of the laws of our grand commonwealth.

At the matutinal session John Dooley, of Susquehanna, was chosen as temporary chairman. Dr. J. G. Wilson, secretary of the county committee, acted as temporary secretary. The following committees were then named by Chairman Dooley, who, be-fore so doing, in a well worded speech briefly thanked his constituents for their confidence and the honor they had bestowed upon him: On Permanent Organization-M. W. Cargill, Great Bend, chalrman; C. C.

Bookstaver, Jackson; Martin J. Lannon, Susquehanna; Patrick Riley, Au-burn; C. M. Shelp, New Milford. On Resolutions-Roger S. Searle, Montrose, chairman; E. F. Ely, Brooklyn: Thomas Buckley, Silver Lake. The convention then adjourned until 2 o'clock p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In the afternoon the report of the committee first occupied the attention of the convention. I observed that there was no roll call, but the ballots afterwards taken showed a total of 65 delegates. The following districts were not represented (and there should have been 100 delegates in attendance):

No delegates from Ararat; Auburn south; Auburn, west 1 absentee: Clifford; Dundaff; Forest City, First ward; Forest City, Second ward; Gibson, east and west; Great Bend township; Harmony, First and Second districts; Lanesboro; Lathrop; Oakland township; Rush, Eastern district, and Thomson township.

The first order of the meeting was the report of the committee on permanent organization, who made the following nominations: Permanent chairman, John Dooley, Susquehanna; vice-president, Roger Searle, Bridgewater; ond vice-president, William Van-Cott. New Milford; third vice-president, W. P. Crandall, Hopbottom; secretary, Ralph Swisher, Auburn; tellers, Henry Orce, Uniondale, and Frank Gratton,

The above nominations were elected unanimously.

And then like Micawber, everybody waited for something to turn up, particularly after the resolutions condemning Republican principles and measures when suddenly with a Klondike rush, after Chairman Dooley had given the word that nominations were in order, Tom Millane, of Susquehanna nominated Martin J. Ryan, of Susquehanna to be prothonotary of Susquehanna county. No one seconded the nomination, but that bright blue eved and mellifluent young man of the borough of Susquehanna, M. J. McMahon, a leader of men and a big Bryanite with the acumen of a legal gentleman from the Quaker city, hastily arose and asked the chair to have the nomination | left arm. of Martin J. made unanimous. Of course it was carried.

Then came the inquest on corener Two nominations were made, It was quite laughable to see the apparent struggle for the nomination between E. L. Hendricks, of Friendsville and Dr. Homer Lathrop, of Springville, I heard that these two gladiators desired to test their respective strengths and for that reason a ballot was taken Dr. Hendricks got it but he only won by a neck for of the 65 delegates he Then was the court room silent, not sound could be heard save the grind ing of the reporter's pencils and the hoarse whisper of ex-County Commissioner Dennis Casey. The jury commissioner was to be selected.

Chambersburg, Pa., Aug. 3.-The Franklin county Democratic convention held here today was largely attended and was harmonious in all its deliberations. H. I. Huber, of Chambersburg, presided, and this ticket was nominated:

Director of the poor, William Gamble, Metal; jury commissioner, L. N. Baker, Letterkenny. The resolutions endorse the Chicago platform, saying that William J. Bryan is the logical candidate of the Democracy in 1900, and close with a strong denunciation of the Pennsylvania legislature of 1897, which is said to be a dangerous and corrupt body, unworthy of the confidence of their fellow citizens.

STODLER'S QUEER CONDUCT.

South Side Police.

Anthony Stadler, of the South Side seems to be suffering from mental derangement which was caused primarly by an injury to the head. A few days ago he fell from a porch at his home, striking on his head. He was stunned and has not been in his right mind since.

Monday afternoon Stadler exhibited himself on Pittston avenue. He was in his stocking feet and wore no coat or hat. He ran along the avenue crying out that a band of men, bent upon taking his life, were following him. There were 200 of them, Stadler said, and in the crowd were many policemen. Patrolman L F. Jones started in pursuit of Stadler and arrested him. When I granite do not expand alike when heat-

In a recent lecture Mrs. Rorer discussed the subject of marketing. beef when dressed," said she, "is divided into halves, each of which is called a side of beef. Each side when cut in half makes a hindquarter and a forequarter. The hindquarter is divided into four large pieces, known as leg, round, rump and loin. I shall endeavor to give you an intelligent idea of how tomorrow, when the Tours and Runs to buy from those pieces, and to what particular use each part should be put.

> The butcher, following Mrs. Rorer's directions, cut of each piece as required. Taking up the pin-bone, which is the first piece cut from the rump, Mrs. Rorer said: "Although there is considerable bone in this piece it is one of the tenderest and juiciest in the whole beef. It is tender because the muscles in it are always at rest; that is, no especial strain being put on them, they remain undeveloped. makes a capital roast if there are enough to cat it at one meal. Never roast, bake or boil meat with the intention of having a lot left over to warm up next day, and the next to go into hash. To make hash is a sign of oad housekeeping, because if the buying is done thoughtfully there need be no left-overs.

HASH DENOUNCED.

"Hash is one of the most difficult of all foods to digest because the meat gets two or three cookings. While starchy cereals can scarcely be cooked too much the albumen of meat is rendered extremely hard of digestion by this over-cooking. All streaks should be cut about an inch thick. Rump steaks are so large that it is best to broll the tender end, and use the other next day to make Hamburg steaks, putting it in the refrigerator or a cool, dry place instead of parily cooking it to keep it. The pieces from the leg are good only when cooked in a moist heat and are preferable for soup. The leg on the forequarter is called a shin and the meat is known as shin meat, but it is of the same texture and quality as that on the leg from the hindquarter.
"The round is the hardest piece for into two sides, according to its toughness, called the upper and lower It is good to make dried beef, beef tea or beef-a-la mode, but it is a mistake to broil, roast or bake it. It can be braised in a double The loin, of course, is the choice part and the fillet of tenderloin is very tender, but the meat from the side of the neck at 3 to 5 cents per pound is as rich in nutrition as the loin, which costs from 60 cents to one dollar per The great trouble with poor people is they waste their money on expensive cuts when cheaper ones, properly selected and rightly cooked, contain more of the health-giving properties. In a beef weighing 1100 to 1200 pounds there are not more than 11 to 12 pounds of fillet of tenderloin, hence the enormous price at which it is sold On the inner side of the flap on a loin is wound a most delectable strip of meat, called a skirt steak. It is chear and about as tender as the fillet, and is suitable for broiling or can be rolled and roasted. It also makes a tender piece for braising. It costs but 10 or 12 cents per paund and is quite as good as the fillet at $1 per pound.

HOW TO PREPARE IT.

"Ten or twelve pounds cut from the loin should be enough to make four meals for an ordinary family. a cut of that size take out the fillet lard it and roast it; broil the steaks the second day or the second meal, save the bones to make a soup or bullion, and use the flap either for a Hamburg steak or a stew. pound meat to make it tender, a decomposition begins as soon as it is bruised, and the more it is pounded the more unhealthy it becomes. Remember that the fiber of meat is not soluble in water, but is in acid. Steaks can be made more tender than by pounding is they are brushed over with butter or vinegar and allowed to stand for a time. Butter has an acid in it that acts almost as quickly as vinegar. To keep meats properly your refrigerator should be dry, and to keep it dry the inside should never know scrub brush, soap or water. If by accident something gets spilled wipe it up dry, but never cleanse any part except the drain pipes or gut-

"The fore quarter contains the choic est cuts for roasting and baking. The first six ribs are called the standing ribs and the others the chuck The first two ribs are called the middle cut and come at a higher price, but not one woman in a hundred can distinguish them from the other four after they are cut off, the ribs taken out and the meat rolled for roasting There is no difference in the eating yet all, or nearly all, ask for a middle cut, pay for a middle cut, and get it from some of the other ribs. That is only another way of throwing money away.

GOOD MEAT DARK.

"Good meat is always dark when cut and quickly grows lighter when exposed to the air. The ribs should be used for either roasting or baking, but save the tops of the ribs for a stew. Unless you ask for them, although you pay for the top, the butcher invariably keeps them to sell for stewing or soup meat. To let the butcher retain the top is another way to waste your money and further add to his profit Never baste baking or roasting meat with water, but if you bake in a grante pan, put some water in to save the lining from cracking, as the iron and

ed. The chuck makes good mince meat and is good for beef tea. If it is to be roasted the piece of shoulder blade should be taken out and the space filled with fat and tied, but no skewers should be used, as they are hard to draw out after cooking.

"The fleshy part of the shoulder, known as the bolar piece, is good for stewing. The plate and brisket should be made into corned beef by picking and the skin used for soup, You can't roast meat in a closed oven or double pan; that is baking. Meat can only be roasted where there is a continuous circulation of air. This is admirably accomplished with a stove or range having a gauze over door, or roasting can be done on a spit before an open fire as the English do."

GORDON AND MORAN FOUGHT.

Former Had the Best of the Savage Argument.

Jersey Gordon and "Paddy" Moran, of local fame, met in an impromptu ring in Mike Keeley's rooms on Lackawanna avenue Monday evening. The bout lasted about an hour and from facial indications appeared to have been exceedingly warm.

The affair was quietly "pulled off" and Jersey Gordon was high in favor, the favored spectators betting freely on him. Gordon knocked Moran out and did it nicely. Moran's left eye is badly contused and his nose is re ported broken in two places.

Gordon is the man who lost the de cision in his recent mix-up with Jack Tighe. He claimed at the time that a game hand was the cause and probably desired to prove his assertion by his "set-to" with Moran.
