HIS GIRL-WIFE DECIDED.

She Chose to Join Her Husband and That Settled It.

Wilkes-Barre, Aug. 6.—After a series of visitations John Saba, the Arabian who last Wednesday eloped with 16-year-old Mary Kearney and married her at Phillipsburg, N. J., has been reunited to his child-wife.

Saba, who had been arrested and subsequently released on a habeas corpus proceeding, had procured an order from Judge Woodward for the appearance of the girl in court. Owing to her illness from nervous prostration the girl's parents managed to keep her home until late yesterday, when they decided to permit her to go and declare her choice, themselves or Saba.

The meeting of husband and girl wife took place in the office of Mr. Kearney's attorney. Saba was accompanied by about 100 of his countrymen anxious to see the outcome. They avoided the issue outside and a large crowd soon gathered. Brought face to face with Saba, the girl was asked to choose. She quickly decided. "I love John and will go with him," she said. Her jubilant husband and four policemen escorted her through the crowd, which gave a rousing cheer when they made their appearance.

LOOKING FOR A LOST MAN.

Hundreds of People Scouring Trevor-ton Mountains.

Shamokin, Aug. 6.—Hundreds of men, women and children are scouring the mountains surrounding this place, trying to determine the fate of George W. Tillet, son of David Tillet, former proprietor of the Royal Oak colliery. He mysteriously disappeared Wednesday morning. His sister last saw him disappearing over the brow of a hill close to the homestead.

During the past year Mr. Tillet complained of headaches and nervousness, and, contracting a heavy cold, lapsed into such an invalid state that since March 4 he has not been able to transact business. Miss Tillet wished to accompany the invalid, but he said it was not necessary that he would soon return to take his medicine. That was the last seen of him and a search was started when he did not return. The Trevor-ton mountain has been scoured and twenty-six airholes explored in vain. It is thought that Mr. Tillet might have been affected with the intense heat, and, losing his bearings, wandered aimlessly into the mountains.

KILLED WHILE PRAYING.

Fate of a Man Who Was Frightened by a Severe Storm.

Hazleton, Aug. 6.—During a fierce thunder and electrical storm Wednesday night, Stanislaus Torbach, aged 52 years, met death in a peculiar manner. Torbach had always been in mortal dread when a storm sprung up, and Wednesday evening he left his companions in the kitchen of his boarding house to seek solace in prayer while the storm raged. He went up stairs and knelt near the window. The collier whistle blew an alarm about that time and he put his hand to the curtain to look out.

Just then a flash of lightning shot from the heavens. It shattered the window sash and sills and Torbach fell over dead.

DAMAGE BY FLOODS IN MONROE COUNTY

The Loss Much Greater Than at First Reported.

SHEARBAUGH'S PIGS IN DANGER

The Storm the Most Disastrous Known in Years in Paradise Valley.

Damage Amounting to Hundreds of Dollars Along the Delaware Valley.

Special to The Tribune.

Stroudsburg, Pa., Aug. 6.—The damage by the last heavy storm to the northern part of Monroe county is much more severe than was at first thought. The rains began at 7:30 and continued until 10:30. During nearly all the time it poured down in torrents, sweeping the mountain streams and flooding the town.

At 10 o'clock an immense cave in occurred near the Cresco depot, which rendered the road from Priceburg impassible. Much damage has been done to railroad property at and above Cresco, delaying all trains.

Little damage was done at Canadensis, beyond washing the roads. At Mountain House several buildings were flooded and only the breaking of the mill dam saved the residence of Casper Buck, which was threatened by water overflowing its banks.

Several rescues of live stock are reported, among the most peculiar being that of P. M. Shearbaugh, of Cresco. About ten o'clock he found upon going to the pig pen two pigs standing in one end of the pen on two feet with just the heads appearing above the water. Shearbaugh carried them to a shed and saved his pork. He reports the loss of several fowls.

Mrs. Dunbar, of Mountain House, lost fifteen young fowls from the flood.

Reports from Paradise Valley are that the storm was the most disastrous in many years. The big creek overflowed its banks near the church and came down the main road tearing out the road bed and bearing everything before it. Several bridges were swept away, foundations undermined and other damage done. The damage to the roads will fall heavily on the townships of Paradise and Barrett, both of which have recently improved the roads at great expense.

Damage to the amount of hundreds of dollars were incurred along the Delaware valley alone, by the late continued rains.

County Surveyor G. G. Shafer, of Mountain House, says that the water in Mill Creek, a branch of the Brodhead's, was as high on Thursday as the memorable October 19, 1869, when a portion of the town was swept away.
