L. J. Williams, of the firm of Williams & McAnulty, has been elected vice-president of the Wall Paper Jobbers' association. Mr. Williams was chosen vice-president at one of the York city, where it has been in session for about two weeks.

A Philadelphia woman committed suicide the day before yesterday rather than tell her age. Her husband had left her because of this natural reticence on her part and she foolishly lamented the loss of the cruel companion to such a degree that with the alternative of confessing her age she preferred death to living without him. Her mode of departure was also as uncomfortable as a mixture of strychinine and Paris green could afford.

A Scranton woman was subpoened on a case which was to be heard before arbitrators. The first witnesses wer sworn and the Scrantonian suddenly became convinced that she would be expected to tell her age so she promptly fled from the court house and took the next train for the country, sent for a doctor and forwarded his certificate to the effect that she was too ill to appear on that case.

"Some of these days I'll be found a stiff, cold corpse," remarked a pretty girl last evening on the Mulberry street line, "and the newspapers will say; 'Another woman jumped from a car with her face the wrong way.' When it won't be that at all. You see," she went on, "I've grown so used to skipping off my wheel, landing on one foot and giving that queer little hop we all take, that I'm always doing it when I lic school music in Binghamton. On get off a car. Two or three times I've Tuesday evening the Royal Entertainbeen jerked almost under the wheels. not to mention the headers I've had, and one of these days the habit will finish me. I've heard a lot of girls say they do the same thing." Just then she came to her corner, performed the hops and skips she had described and sat down more or less decidedly on a red lantern perched at the top of a sand heap at the side of the track, while the conductor looked back sympathetically as the car sped up the

PLAN AGAINST GOULDS EXPLODED

Mrs. Angell Admits She Was Not the Wife of the Wizzard of Wall Street.

SAW HIM ONLY ONCE OR TWICE

She Was Dragged Into the Conspiracy by Persons Who Expected to Enrich Themselves by Getting a Portion of the Gould Millions .- It Was a Daring Scheme and Had Been Planned and Arranged with Great Care.

The New York Herald Sunday conained a page story giving the details of the exposure of a most daring attempt to get a portion of the millions left by the late Jay Gould, of New York. Mrs. Sarah Anne Browne Angell, of Rouse's Point, N. Y., was the person through whom a number of conspirators worked. They had Mrs. Angell assert that she was the widow of the late Jay Gould; that he married her while he was doing some survey-ing in New York state, and that they had one child, a daughter, now married and residing in the west. So cleverly did the conspirators arrange their plans that they found a clergyman who married the couple, a man who acted as groomsman and a number of persons who heard Gould acknowledge that Mrs. Angell was his wife. Local interest is lent to the conspiracy by the fact that Gould was alleged to be living with Mrs. Angell at the time he conducted the tannery at Stroudsburg. One of the witnesses who swore recently in New York that she heard Gould acknowledge way back in the '60's that he was Mrs. Angell's husband was a Mrs. Brown who for-merly resided in this city. She now makes California her place of abode. In an interview with a Herald representative, after much persuasion, Mrs. Angell told how she was dragged into the scheme and then said:

NEVER MARRIED GOULD. "I never was married to Jay Gould, No. I married a man named Derusse, in Champlain in 1853, and a fine bit of a man he was, too. He came from Europe, and he came near having five millions, and that's the way Mrs. Cody got mixed up. Yes, Mrs. Pierce is my own child, from Derusse. She is my daughter. My sister, Mrs. Walker, could not say she was present when Mary Jane was born, for mother sent all the children out of the house away, until it was all over. My sister is only six or seven years older than my daughter. No, Derusse was not home when the child was born; he came home two or three days afterward. Then, if I had been married to Jay Gould, how could I have married John Angell while he lived? What kind of a woman do they take me for, any-

'Yes, I think I saw Gould once of twice when I was a young girl and he was looking round these parts. Well, how about my daughter? Just this way. I never had any education and made up my mind she should have learning and be brought up a lady. After her father died I gave her to a family by the name of Morton, living in Ridgeway, Canada, and they brought her up as Mary Jane Morton, and she is married to a very good man and well-to-do, and living out in Wyoming. " 'How did I ever come to hear of the Goulds? Well, this way. Some twenty years ago I heard that a very dear relative of mine was in trouble, and went out to Caldwell, Mo., where she was, to see her. I found she had been betrayed under promise of marriage, and that the father of the child was a near relation of the Goulds. Then when they came to me to prove myself Jay Gould's wife, I never swore that I had married Jason Gould, never said that I had, but I felt that I had right to some of that money, and if George Gould would only come to see me-he should come-I would explain it all, and then this thing would die out. You see, to save the other party they put it all on my shoulders.

CHANGED HER NAME. "'How did it come my name used to be Sarah Anne Brown and now it is Mary? Well, I never was baptized, and when I was I did not like the name of Sarah Anne and took that of Mary. I become a Catholic and my daughter was baptized one. Derusse was one, too. I don't go to church, but I am a good woman for all that.

"'No,' she said, as I bade her goodby, 'I never married Jay Gould. You tell George or Helen Gould to come and see me and I will explain everything, and then this will die out."

"She stood in the doorway of her little house as I drove away, and I turned and looked back at the woman whose name was known in two continents and who had been the unwitting tool of a lot of sharpers. I had practical proof that she is thoroughly honest. I saw a large sum of money offered her; money which would have provided many a little necessity during the coming winter and which she sadly needed, but she shook her head in a determined manner and replied firmly: "No. won't take any money." And she did not, in the face of many well advanced arguments as to why she should. "So the great scheme to get a goodly dice of the Gould millions has finally exploded like a soap bubble, and a poor old couple in Rouse's Point have had the even tenor of their uneventful lives disturbed and a jarring element of unrest and expectation introduced which can never be satisfied or grati-

MEET N3 OF BOARD OF CHARITIES.

Street Commissioner Dunning and P. L. Terppe Elected Members.

Street Commissioner A. B. Dunning and Poor Director F. L. Terppe were last evening elected members of the board of associated charities to fill out the unexpired terms of Dr. B. H. Throop and Philip Kirst, both deceased. As no precedent had been established the board last night did not take any formal action on the death of Mr. Kirst. The meeting was held in the poor board room, which has been secured for the use also of the board of associated charities. Colonel E. H. Ripple presided. There were present Members Moore, Gibbons, Kelley, Cohen, and the board's attorney, W. Gaylord Thomas.

Attorney Thomas acted as secretary the absence of Rev. Rogers Israel. The secretary was instructed to express to the poor board the thanks of the charity board for the use of the rooms for Agent Mrs. W. B. Duggan and her associates. Mrs. Duggan's report showed that during the past two weeks 45 cases have been investigated, thirtythree of which were found worthy of attention. GAMBLE CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

Arrested in Philadelphia and Brought Back to This City.

COMMITTED TO THE COUNTY JAIL

He Could Not Furnish the $1,000 Bail Asked by Alderman Howe. It is Said That He Has Been Married Three Times -- His Last Venture Was on July 26, 1896, When He Married Miss Susie A.

John E. Gamble, the man whose arrest for desertion and non-support in Philadelphia, Monday, was noted in yesterday's Tribune, is now in the ounty fail in default of $1,000 bail to answer a charge of bigamy. When Gramble was arraigned before Alderman John T. Howe yesterday the charge of desertion and non-support of his wife, Susie A. Klotz, was withdrawn in favor of the more serious charge of bigamy.

The story which explains this change is one of vengeance for an irreparable wrong-the family of the deceived girl lending every effort to capture and punish Gamble to the fullest extent of the law. To do this John H. Spain, a brother-

n-law of the Klotz woman, suffered himself to associate with Gamble as his friend and in this guise Spain, who bitterly hates the man, secured the information for his arrest on a charge of

The Klotz family live near Gouldsboro, in Clifton township. July 26, 1896, at Phillipsburg, N. J., Gamble married Susie A. Klotz, then a resident of this city, and on the following April a child was born. The couple lived happily together until a short time previous to Aug. 7, on which date Mrs. Gamble swore out a warrant before Alderman Howe, charging desertion and non-sup-

WENT TO PHILADELPHIA.

Gamble could not be found at that time, but it was learned that he had gone to Philadelphia. The relatives of the injured girl learning of this contributed to the expense and assigned to the H. D. Lilcox National Detective agency of Philadelphia the task of finding Gamble. A few days ago-at midnight-John H. Spain, the brother-in-law, received a message telling him that Gamble had been located. Spain lost no time. He aroused Alderman Howe from his bed at his home on Mulberry street and in the early hours of the morning Alderman Howe went to his office, at the corner of Lackawanna and Washington avenues, and made out a duplicate warrant. Spain took this to Constable Carman, of the Eighth ward, and had himself authorized to serve the warrant and then secured a pair of handcuffs at the police station. He left on the 2.45 a. m. Delaware, Lackawanna and Western train for the city of Brotherly Love. Gamble was formally arrested and Spain brought him here Monday night. During the trip back Spain made pre-tenses of friendship for Gamble and succeeded in wringing out of him some useful evidence.

MARRIED THREE TIMES.

It was learned that he had two wives Goldberg & Co., and Miss Yetta Har- before he married the Klotz girl. One secured a divorce in Trenton, N. J.; the Seigel's assembly room in the Carter said, divorce proceedings are now pending there. The women in each case instigated the suits.

When the Klotz woman learned of Gamble's former wives she preferred means of earning a livelihood are not Mr. and Mrs. Finklestein will reside known. In appearance he is short and stocky built, apparently about 30 years of age. When he left the Klotz woman he took with him all the papers pertaining to their marriage.
