ARRESTED ON A CHARGE OF BRIBERY

criends of John Wanamaker Pursue Deposed Officer.

COMPLAINT AGAINST GEN. REEDER

He Is Said to Have Conspired to In jure John Wannmaker by Having a maker's Name.

Easton, Pa., Sept. 12.-General Frank Reeder, of this city, who, at the request of Governor Hastings, has just resigned the office of secretary of the commonwealth, a place that pays about $20,000 a year, was arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of bribery brought at the instance of friends of John Wanamaker, of Philadelphia. The suit is regarded as part of the campaign of the anti-Quay forces in this state. Fellow defendants with General Reeder are Assemblyman Webster C. Welss and hearing, carrying the case to the Criminal court, which will meet here on Mon-

The complaint was made before Justice of the Peace Koch, of Pen Argyle, and the warrant was issued yesterday. It was sworn to by a man named Bangor, who is an attorney for Mr. Ross, of Bangor, yesterday if he would serve the papers, but Ross declined.

Luckenbach "conspired together to defame the good name of John Wanamaker by attempting to have him offer a bribe to said Weiss to secure Weiss' vote for Wanamaker for United States senator" last fall. The second information says that the three "did conspire together to bribe the said Weiss." The third statement is that Detective Tillard offered to bribe Weiss. All this grows out of the suit for bribery brought against E. A. Van Valkenburg, Mr was arrested last fall on a charge of attempting to bribe Assemblyman Weiss, and who is to have his trial next week at Pottsville. All the accused men are witnesses in this case. WITNESS WINSBORO.

The information was furnished to the Wanamaker people, it is said, by William Winsboro, of Bangor. He was a slate operator there, and was a close friend of General Reeder at one time. He went over to the anti-Quay crowd. Last winter he suddenly disappeared, and it was found that his money affairs were in a very bad way. He had failed for $50,000

The Wanamaker and Van Valkenberg people know that it was Winsboro who introduced Detective Tillard to Assemblyman Weiss, to whom the det-ctive offered $3,000 if he would vote for Wanamaker. The Wanamaker people sent L. B. Camden, a Bangor man, across the continent to find Winsboro. found him in California and brought him back. That trip cost the Wananaker people $1,580. Since his return Winsboro, who has no means of sup-port, has lived in Asbury Park with his family. He told a friend the other day that he expected to make enough this year to pay off his indebtedness. He is witness in the case against Van Valkenberg next week, and that case will have a direct bearing on the cases of Reeder, Welss and Luckenbach,

The allegations in the Van Valkenberg case are that he gave the detective prosecution says that it learned of Van Valkenberg's offer and followed up the

When the constable entered General Reeder's office to serve the warrant this afternoon Assemblyman Weiss happened to be there, and the constable served the papers on him also. After this the officer went to Bethlehem and arrested Mr. Luckenbach. The arrest of General Reeder, following so closely upon his resignation at Harrisburg, has convinced his friends that he is being used as a means for striking at Senator Quay.

ALTRUISM IN ANIMALS.

from the Chicago News A French scientist has lately written an interesting paper on altruism in animals, arriving at the startling conlusion that animals are perhaps beter Christians than men. He says 'Animal societies are less polished. out perhaps more humane, all things being equal, than our own," and gives several instances of animal species made use of by another and performng services for the latter without receiving anything in exchange.

Among others is mentioned the case of the crocodile and the bird trochilus on the banks of the Nile. This, bird performs two services for the crocodile. It enters into its mouth and dispatches there the worms and leeches which trouble the crocodile; it flies rapidly away, giving vent to a peculiar cry, when the ichneumon, the enemy of the crocodile, approaches, thus ap money with which to bribe Weiss. SOMETHING ABOUT SPAIN'S BOY KING

The Ten-Year-Old Sovereign and Strong-Willed Mother.

SHE HAS KEPT HIM UNDER CONTROL

He Is a Proud Little Fellow, with the Arrogance of His Race, but in the Queen Regent He Has a Superior Who Knows How to Rule.

While the fathers and mothers are nterested in the war that has brought Spain into such prominence, our "little men and women," says the Ladles' Home Companion, will want to hear about the little ten-year-old king. We have been fortunate in securing an uniform, when reviewing the troops be- al decline. fore proceeding to Cuba. Few sons, royal or otherwise, have ever owed so much to their mother as Alphonso XIII., of Spain. Although he was the most puny and delicate of infants, he has, under her unremittent care, each year from his babyhood become more robust. Afflicted by nature with the most difficult temper, he has, under her firm guidance, learned to respect and to obey, and is already acquiring the first of virtues, that of self-command. Although born a king, he has been taught to understand that in his home life he stands, and must throughout his boyhood continue to stand, in complete subjection to his mother. Th tribute to the character of this strong and great woman is supported by Stuart Cumberland, a 'thought reader' of European fame, who thus speaks of her Majesty: "I have experimented with many women of note-empresses queens, great authoresses, artists, travelers, most of them women of known strong character, but for downright concentration of thought and determination of purpose, I have scarcely met the equal of the Queen Regent of

With this as a keynote to the secre of the little monarch's life-training, I s not surprising to learn that the sickly, "cross" baby has developed into a fine specimen of sturdy boyhood, both morally and physically.

HIS SHORT CAREER.

He was born on May 17, 1886, near Madrid, six months after the death of his father, Alfonso XII., when his sisters, the Infantas Maria de las Meredes and Maria Theresa, were respectively six and four years of age. The Palace del Pardo, a gloomy residence about eight miles from the capital, was the scene of the young king's birth, his mother having removed there some time before, much to the annoyance of the Spanlards, who considered that the dark forest and the high wall, over fifty miles in length, shut her off too ompletely from her people.

From his infancy the etiquette of the country has demanded that the king should preside on certain occasions at state councils, at the reception of the representatives of foreign courts, and at special services in the Cathedral of Madrid. An amusing story is told of his Majesty on one such occasion, when he was too young to understand, but not too young to be bored. A bishop was preaching a long sermon, and the monarch's experience had taught him in Brooklyn 29, bringing up the total he was expected to remain till it was concluded. A quarter of an hour, half, three-quarters passed, and still the bishop preached on. At last the child felt that he could endure it no more and tearing off his little gloves, he flung them almost at the bishop's feet with such a look of anger and impatience that the preacher judged it well to bring his discourse abruptly to

When the court leaves Madrid, the Queen Regent and her children generally go to the pleasant watering-place of San Sebastian. Here swimming is their favorite pastime, and the warm waters of the south allow them to spend a much longer time at the exercise than would be advisable in our colder climes. The Queen herself is an expert swimmer, and to be "as clever in the water as the mother" is a wish the little monarch has often expressed. FORCED TO STUDY

The juvenile king must spend many lours at his books, even during vaca tion time. Fortunately for himself, he is not a dull child, and he is especially quick at languages. Spanish, of course, is his native tongue. German he has spoken much with his Austrian mother and with French, Italian and English he is fairly proficient. The last named he is studying under an English governess, of whom he is very fond, so his progress is rapid, while he often amuses himself by making an Irish secretary in the household of the queen teach him various slang terms, which he brings out when English visitors are present, often as much to their astonishment as their amuse-

Nevertheless, the little king has great dignity of his own. He is often as haughty in his bearing as any of his arrogant ancestors, whether of Iberian or of Austrian birth, and it is certain Since he completed his tenth year, his majesty has had a complete esanimal. The service rendered is tablishment of his own; but while at the sea during the summer the stern stand that by the exercise of extremely rules of the court are relaxed to a litle intelligenc, if not unconsciously certain extent, and he is allowed a little of the freedom which alone makes happiness in a young life a possibility; and it is at this time especially that he finds the rather strict rule of his

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review

New York, Sept. 11-. The general tone of the market for stock was strong today and there was no heavy presure of realizing sales. But there was more weakness at the different points scattered through the list. The Northern-Pacific isues were heavy on the continued bad showing of earnings and some of the roads in the southern group were unfavorably affected by fear that the yelow fever quarantine would interefere with their traffic. The effect was noticeable in Louisville, Southern preferred and Mobile and Ohio. Missouri Pacific was under more or less pressure of profit-taking. The coalers were also weak, the Reading issues being under pressure to a marked de-gree. The bulk of today's trading was entered in the granger and K. and T., and these were strong with the ex-ception of Chicago Great Western and excellent portrait of him in the cadet's Northwest, which closed at a fraction-
