ATTENDANCE AT THE SCHOOLS.

Enrollment of Pupils at the Close of the First Week.

The schools in this city are largely attended this year. Up to Saturday 2,175 children were enrolled, and this number will probably be greatly increased during the next week. There is room for many more scholars, for with the exception of Miss Morrison's room, at No. 7, there is no over-crowding. Here it will probably be necessary to put another room in the building.

The school enrollment at the close of the first week is as follows:

Table with 2 columns: School Name, Enrollment. Includes High school, Central grammar, No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 4, No. 5, No. 6, No. 7, No. 8, No. 9, Total.

A NARROW ESCAPE.

Miss Watkins Lights the Kitchen Fire with Kerosene.

Miss Maggie Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Watkins, of South Wyoming street, had a narrow escape last week from serious injury. At the time of the accident she was making a fire in the stove and in order to hurry it along saturated the wood with kerosene. A good supply of kerosene was used, judging from the result when the match was applied, for the flame flashed up into the young lady's face severely burning her. Her hands were badly blistered and her hair and face burned.

The injuries are not necessarily serious, but are very painful and the accident should serve as a warning to all those who use kerosene in making fires.

FUNERAL OF JOHN MCARTY.

The remains of John McCarthy, who was killed Thursday night, were buried in St. Rose's cemetery Saturday afternoon. The funeral was held from the Purple Undertaking company's morgue, where the body was taken. In spite of the efforts to find the dead man's relatives none could be found, so Poor Director Loftus, of Fell township, ordered the body buried. Messages had been sent to Wilkes-Barre and other places, where it was thought there were relatives, but although several families named McCarthy had been notified of the man's death, none knew the McCarthy who was killed here.

AT ALDERMAN GLENN'S COURT.

Among the cases held at Alderman Glenn's last week were two in which Adam Bush, of Richmondale, was prosecutor. The charges were larceny and perjury. The first against Theodore Yankoski, who entered bail for appearance at court. The second case was against John Yokovitch, who also gave bail.
