THE MARKETS.

New York, Oct. 6.—The bulls maintained a waiting attitude for the most part in today's market and the bears were successful in shaking out further stop orders and depressing the general level of the market a further sharp fraction. There seems to be long stock in the hands of the bears who thus encouraged to continue their efforts. The lowest prices of the day were made early in the final hour, but the last half hour of trading saw a steady hardening of prices which materially reduced the net losses. All the factors in the general situation indicated a continued increase in actual values and there was no cause for the decline except the exaggerated level of prices which has been attained. One of the features of the day was large buying of Pennsylvania and a sharp rise in its price. Total sales 355,000 shares.
