BEFORE BREAKFAST. []]

The first supper of the season will be served at Elm Park church tonight and there will be an unusual number of people present, even for these popular affairs. It will be a "Harvest The feast will be Home" occasion. spread at 5,39, remaining spread until 8 o'clock. The suppers are always much enjoyed by all who are found there during the year, while the social features are pleasant in every respect.

. . . Much interest has been awakened by the announcement of the entertainment to be given at the Young Women's Christian association Saturday evening under the direction of "The Spinsters." Miss Dean has been in the city mos of the week preparing a programme and it is hoped that a large attendance will be present.

After much solicitation by the pastor of the First Presbyterian church and the officers of the Foreign Missionary society Miss Stella Seymour has con sented to give a talk this afternoon at 4 o'clock before the society in the lecture room, Miss Seymours observations have been directed much toward missionary and Christian work during her extended stay abroad, and much pleasure is expected from her address. Not only the ladies of the First church but of other churches, are invited to be present and enjoy the rare treat to be thus afforded, Hotel Jermyn was packed to overflowing for the past two nights, as the result of the Firemen's convention in Wilkes-Barre. That city sent many guests to Scranton's beautiful hostelry.

"The exchange stamp business is slowly but surely driving me to drink," said a prominent business man yester-day. "The way the ladies and children badger us to death for stamps is a caution. It's seldom that a man asks for them and when he does it is always done in the same way that he might, under different circumstances, ask a stranger in the street for a dime for bread, when he knew that the stranger knew that the dime wouldn't go for bread, but it does seem to me that there isn't a woman or a child in Scranton who isn't making a stamp collection for somebody." "Well, you don't have it half as hard as they," exclaimed a little lady who "Just you try to fill a book in order to get a little red chair and you'll see that it's no joke for the woman, either. It does take the most enormous amount of things to get money enough for these stamps. Why, we all have dyspepsia from trying to eat so much meat, in order to secure more stamps, and we've killed the cat by overfeeding, but it gave us a chance to get an extra suply of stamps, because of the medicine we had to buy. It's a great pity some of the doctors didn't go into the scheme. I could have filled two books and had a banjo by this time."

Professor J. B. Hawker who, as principal of No. 27 school last year gave t the distinction of having the only pupils' military company in this part of the state, has again started the good work this term. The company will be organized next week at the school and will have for its members chiefly those who were, because of age and grade in school, unable to enjoy military innovation last year. Professor Hawker hopes that the idea of military organization in the public schools of this city will become more general in a short time. He advocates the departure not only for its athletic and disciplinary benefits to the pupils, but because of the patriotic spirit which it is bound to create. In this single respect the idea is worthy of emulation.

A copy of the New Orleans Picayune, received by The Tribune from Attorney Richard Busteed, formerly of this city, contains a great mass of information about the yellow fever epidemic in that city. The following notice is printed in a conspicuous place: "Readers of the Picayune will please take notice that every copy of the paper sent bethoroughly disinfected under the personal supervision of the United States Marine Hospital surgeons. The pa-per can be accepted by all with conidence that it is entirely free from infection and publishes the truth about the health situation in New Orleans." This shows how strick the quarantine regulations are. The paper contains a circular letter issued by Very Rev. Father Rogaerts, vicar general of the diocese, and administrator pending the appointment of an archibshop, allowing the Catholic community the use of flesh meat on all Fridays and days of abstinence and fast till Dec. 15, Notices of colleges are printed in conspicuous places stating that they will not reopen until after the fever scourge has passed. The superintendent of public instruction also has an announcement that the opening of city schools is postponed until further notice. Considerable space is devoted to relating the difficulties of the postal authorities who are unable to get mail to or from the fever infected districts.

The arrest of a one-legged man by the police yesterday brought to mind several amusing experiences of local blue coats with this particular kind of people. All agree that a cripple thinks he has a greater claim to disreputable deeds than a whole man. The cripple learns very soon after the accident that humanity has a great deal of sympathy for him and he grows to the idea that policemen must stand aside with tears in their eyes and see the "poor unfortunate" run the town.

But what baffles a policeman is an unknown wooden leg. They don't know how to deal with it. It is a cherished tenet of all policemen and, in fact, a pleasant diversion to whack their clubs against the soles of shoes, which may be presented in a vertical position. Lieutenant Davis last night told how once upon a time he saw a drunken man laying prone upon the cobbles of Center street. A crowd of people had been attracted, Lieutenant Davis probably gurgling with glee pushed through the crowd and bared his arm for that choice and lucious chance. He brought his club down upon the sole of the hoe of the man-but he was startled at hearing a hollow, vibrating, longdrawn "chung" as the wooden leg resounded. The man never budged, and the crowd laughed. Another man found drunk had two wooden pegs with shoes on. Lieutenant Zang discovered him, and, it is said, whacked away for five minutes at the soles. When the fellow did not stir Lieutenant Zang thought he was dead and bent down and felt the man's pulse.

Saturday, upon the occasion of their fourth anniversary, we will make a grand display of new suits, jackets and capes, silks and dress goods. Ladies desiring first choice will then have an opportunity to select from complete Mears & Hagen. assortment.

A Splendid Beginning.

Only four weeks have elapsed since the Scranton Conservatory of Music was opened for the reception of students, yet within that short time one hundred and fifteen pupils have registered (of whom many take more than one study), and new students are com ing in every day. That many of these students represent some of the most conservative and cultured homes of the city is a sufficient commentary upon the institution and its corps of teachers. On Thursday evening of next week occurs the first faculty reception which will be given to the students and their friends. Several hundred invitations will be issued by the students during the week which intervenes, and the occasion will be a social event of more than usual prominence.

NEVERSINKS ARE ROYALLY RECEIVED

Visiting Reading Fire Company Entertained by the Nay Augs.

Stopped Off Here to Do the Great Wilkes-Barre Today--Were Wined Rogers, of Philadelphia; great junior and Dined and Shown About the sagamore, Jerome Hill, of Steelton, Pa. City by Their Hosts and Chief Hickey--Receptions at the Hook The St. Charles hotel has been selectand Ladder and Nay Aug Houses.

The Neversink Fire company of Reading, one of the oldest and possibly the best known fire company in the state, was in the city last night, as the guests of the Nay Augs. They came thirty-two strong, and were accompanied by the Athletic band, of Hazleton, composed of twenty-one members. The visitors are making one of their periodical seven-day trips. They started out from Reading Saturday last at neon and went by way of Philadelphia and New York to Peekskill, where they spent two days; thence they went to Poughkeepsle, where they remained until yesterday morning at 6,40 o'clock, when they started out for this city, stopping at Albany for an hour and reaching this city at 4.37 via the Delaware and Hudson. They will leave here this morning at 8.45 o'clock to participate in the parade at Wilkes-Barre and may possibly return to take part in the parade here Friday, If they don't they will go on to Allentown for a day and then return home to Reading.

They were received on their arrival in this city by a committee of the Nay Augs, headed by Foreman John Moir and O. A. Beemer, and also by Chief Hickey, representing the fire department in general. They formed in line and marched up Lackawanna avenue to Nashington, up Washington avenue to Linden street, and thence to the Nay Aug's handsome new home, on Franklin avenue, where they were entertained at luncheon and welcomed by Chief Hickey in a hearty speech, which was responded to by Alderman F. C. Clemson, president of the Neversinks.

SEEING THE SIGHTS.

After a season of socialbility the visitors were escorted to the St. Charles, and before they had hardly time enough to brush the crumbs out of their whiskers they were again in tow of their hosts, and on a tour of the central city companies' quarters. A visit was also made to the roof of the Mears building, the band giving an impromptu concert on this rather elevated stage.

At the Hook and Ladder house there was quite a pretentious reception tendered, ex-Sheriff Robinson and Charles D. Wegman being conspicuous in the entertaining. On the way over a sere nade was tendered to Select Councilman Fred Burr, chairman of the joint fire decartment committee.

At 11 o'clock the return to the Nay Aug house was made and for an hour or so an informal banquet was conducted under a tent erected in the lot adjoining the hose house-the rules of tainment such as is relished by firemen being furnished in the engine houses. "Gee! This is a hot town" is the way the visitors expressed themselves as they tumbled into bed sometime later on

The Neversinks are proud of some sixty-eight years of existence, having been organized in 1829 and in continuous service ever since. It is a strictly volunteer company, the only paid man the driver, receiving his salary from the company's treasury. Every member is on the active list and there is not a feather-bed fireman on the rolls. Their dress uniform is of gray material much after the pattern of that worn by the Scranton Hook and Ladder com-The company is thoroughly drilled in marching and military tac

BOTH CLAIM THE PLACE.

Interesting Struggle for the Possession of the Faurot House---Officers Had to Be Called.

There was a minor state of seige at the Faurot House, on Washington avenue, yesterday morning between two opposing forces, each claiming a right to occupy the place as tenant, and before the action had subsided, an alderman, a lawyer and a representative of the owners of the property took a hand in the engagement, which didn't entirely quiet down until the police were called to keep the vanquished party away from the place.

Mrs. John Faurot retired from the Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Raisley, who lived across the avenue, and on the 24th the Raisleys made an agreement by the city appropriations. to dispose of the lease and contents of the place to Samuel Overfield, of Delaware Water Gap.

Overfield assumed the proprietorship of the Faurot House Oct. 1, There was considerable dispute as to payments on the lease, the Raisleys contending that Overfield was in arrears, and the latter admitting it, but claiming that many articles which were to removed.

Early yesterday morning the Raisleys ordered provisions necessary for at 9 o'clock came to the house, accompanied by a Miss Boofman and a third woman. The former is a sister of Mrs. Overfield and her daughter.

The One Should Be Suppressed and the Other Enterced in Case of Infectious or Contagious Disease. Food Inspector Cullen Makes a Big Confiscation Record During the Past Month -- An Opinion on the Eight-Hour Law.

A stated meeting of the board of ealth was held last night. President M. J. Kelly and Attorney George S. Horn were not present. Dr. W. A. Paine was chosen to preside. The other members in attendance were: Dr. J. K. Bently, Dr. W. E. Allen and Henry Ziegler.

Secretary Murray's mortality report for September showed 127 deaths from all causes, which is compared with previous years as follows: 121 deaths. 1893; 113 deaths, 1894; 140 deaths, 1895; 126 deaths, 1896. There were 144 births. all white; 42 marriages, all white, and 46 reported cases of contagious diseases, distributed as follows: diphtherla, 29; typhold fever, 13; scarlet fever, 2; measles, 1; membraneous

Dr. W. E. Allen made a verbal report as health officer. A hundred personal complaints had been made and 59 reported nuisances regularly recorded in the complaint blotter. All had been properly investigated and abated excepting in locations where the streets or alleys had not been accepted by the city. Dr. Allen commented upon the difficulty of making proper inspections with only one sapitary officer.

COMPARED WITH TOLEDO. He compared Scranton with Toledo O., a city of less area than Scranton, but which is divided into ten health districts, each being under the care of a sanitary officer. He impressed the proprietorship on Sept, 23 in favor of board with the necessity of employing at least one more sanitary officer at as early a day as would be permitted

On account of the close approach of winter and the season of infectious and contagious disease, Dr. Allen recommended an early enforcement of the law and board regulations regarding public funerals end house fumigation when death has occurred from diphtheria, typhoid fever, scarlet fever and similar diseases. The matter was in formally discussed to a general opinhave been left in the house had been | ion that Sanitary Officer Burke and the secretary should enforce the law in all cases that come under their notice and if necessary prosecute negligent parties dinner at the large establishment and who fail to comply with the board's
