One Northern Soldier's Daring Escape from Libby Prison.

TRUE ROMANCE OF THE CIVIL WAR

How Lieutenant Kupp, of the Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers, Passed Himself Off as a Rebel in Butternuts Who Was Anxious to Get a Look at the Yankee's—A Pennsylvania Dutchman's Clever Escape and Self-Possession in Making It.

From the New York Sun.

Leut. Kupp, of the Eighty-eighth Pennsylvania Volunteers was captured with many of his regiment, at Gettysburg. He was known as a Pennsylvania Dutchman and came from Berks county, where German colonists settled nearly two centuries ago and where their descendants cling to the old customs and the mother tongue even unto this day.

As it was summer at the time of Gettysburg, the men captured in that battle were in light attire, and the long journey down to Richmond and the wear and tear on their thin blouses reduced their hair and mustaches to a most ragged of all.

Kupp was considerably over six feet in height, lank, long limbed, and inclined to be round shouldered. He was about 34 years old, and the gray eyes, which I saw in his prison, were pale and gave him the appearance of a North Carolina mountaineer. His comrades jokingly called him "the tar heel," but he took it good naturedly. The resemblance was much in his favor when he made up his mind to leave Libby, and, to use his own language, "make a bee line for God's land," as the prisoners called the North.

THE NEWS SPREADS.

Meantime the news of Kupp's escape had spread among his late associates. The excitement was all the greater from the fact that it had to be suppressed. Instead of glass there were iron bars in the front windows. Prisoners were not permitted to come within a few feet of these bars. Of course, all knew the order, and that Captain Forsyth of the One Hundredth Ohio, had been killed a few days before for unintentionally violating it. yet the men forgot all about this in their anxiety to see Kupp leave.

The next flag of truce boat brought through a letter from Kupp. Five days after leaving Libby he fell in with Butler's troops from Fortress Monroe, and at the time of writing was about to take passage for God's land.

Not the Right Thing.

SONG AND TIME.

Go, little song where labor sleeps
When toil is done; where sorrow keeps
Her midnight watch; where pity weeps,
Go, whisper low the toll and care,
And love abide not everywhere;
That nothing lasts—as night has fled
Against the downward-sweeping flood
That sets to the dark drops of time,
Nought lasts—except a foolish rhyme
That men about the wine is bright,
Or girls sing to the spindle's tight,
Or women crouch to babes at night.

While kingdoms perish, faiths decay,
And men and gods are swept away,
A spot of song, a wreath of rhyme
Floats on the eolian side of time.

ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD.

A NEW DISCOVERY WHICH IS WORTH THAT MUCH.

To Anyone Afflicted with Piles.

The Pyramid Pile Cure, the new painless remedy which has been so remarkably successful in curing every form of piles and rectal diseases, has recently been placed on sale at drug stores the great advantage of which its extraordinary merit becomes fully known, there will be no such thing as surgical operations for the cure of this obstinate and common trouble.

Mrs. M. C. Hinky of 601 Mississippi St., Indiana, writes to say that she had been a terrible sufferer from the piles for 15 years and no remedies benefited her, until I saw an advertisement of the Pyramid Pile Cure; I got a package, also a package of the Pyramid Pile Cure, and used both according to directions. I was astonished at the immediate relief obtained and now I honestly believe the Pyramid to be the only certain cure for piles.

"That you may believe how bad I was, I will say that I was confined to my bed and went before the college physicians here who said my case was a new one to them and wanted seven or eight hundred dollars to undertake the cure, but I refused to pay a cent, and I knew an operation would be death to me on account of blood poisoning. Nearly everyone here knows of my terrible suffering from piles and I feel that I cannot praise the Pyramid Pile Cure enough, and the Pyramid Pills also. My husband will join me in highly recommending the Pyramid, my daughter was cured by one box only. For several years I weighed but about 90 pounds, now I weigh 120 and feel in perfect health."

This seems to be the universal testimony of every sufferer from piles who has ever tried the Pyramid; it is the safest, most painless pile cure yet discovered; contains no opium, morphine, or any other poisonous ingredient whatever, has a soothing, healing effect from the first application, and the moderate price places it within the reach of everyone needing treatment.

The Pyramid Pills Cure hemorrhoids, hemorrhoids at 50 cents and $1.00 per package and the Pyramid Pills at 25 cents per box.

Send to Pyramid Co., Albion, Mich., for free book on cause and cure of piles.

He kept safely to the rear until the sergeant of the guard had reported to the officer in charge. When the guard had passed the sentinel at the door, Kupp walked over and saluted Turner, who by this time was seated at his desk inside of a railing. Hearing the shuffling of feet on the floor, Turner looked up and demanded:

"Who the devil are you?"

"I'm from North Caliny," responded Kupp.

"How did you get in here?"

"Followed the guard, and I've been a waitin' to talk wid you. Ain't yo' Mistah Turner?"

"That's my name. Now, what do you want?" asked Turner, as he arose angrily from the desk.

"I've been in hospital, jest got out yesterday, an' though I left fo' the front I'd like to see the Yankee prisoners, s'ar."

"Go to the front, confound you, and you'll see more Yankees than you'll like," shouted Turner.

"Then that ain't no show fo' me to see any of them Yanks I helped gobble at Gettysburg, an' I'm bound to go."

"No get out!" and Turner pointed to the door, where an armed guard stood listening and laughing.

"Waal, I didn't know you uns was so cussed particular," dr. wiled Kupp, as, obeying the direction indicated by Turner's extended hand, he made for the door.

Kupp saluted the guard, who exchanged winks with him as he passed through to freedom.

Once beyond the guard, a man of ordinary nerve would have started off with all speed, but Kupp did not. He was far behind, and even the steeps of Richmond out of sight; but Kupp was not an ordinary man. Standing before the entrance to the prison, the lieutenant shouted in to Turner:

"Say, mistah, hev ye any objections to the fellow's standin' across the street an' kinder peekin' up at the buildin'?"

Of course, Turner made no response, but the guard continued down his post and laughed, as if he thought the tall man in butternuts a very funny fellow.

HIS PLAN FORMED.

As old soldiers will remember, the uniforms of the Confederates were anything but uniform at about this time. The citizen clothing was put aside at the beginning of the war, and sent to the front from home, though a gray hat, gray trousers, or a gray coat had been retained whenever possible. Hundreds of Confederates in "butternuts" passed the prison along Carey street on Tuesday night, and those who were about Libby, and those who were every morning to count the prisoners, were dressed in the same material.

Miss Maud Kelly has returned home from a visit at Plymouth.

John Pettigrew will spend today at Wilkes-Barre.

Mrs. and Mrs. Samuel Lloyd, of South Gibson, are visiting relatives here.
