I wouldn't have minded in the least if you'd said 'sank you'-oh, do you get off here? Good day, ma'am-mever mind the thanks?" And the stout lady flounced down the

POSTAL BANKS IN FRANCE. Are Very Popular in all Parts of the Republic.

From the Chicago Record. The system of postal savings banks in operation in France is known as the Calsse Nationale d'Epargne, (Lietrally, "Case, or box, national of savings,") It is constituted mainly under the laws passed in 1881, with a few important changes in 1895. The system is made o extend over all of France, Corsica, Algeria, Tunis and Beyrout and in the principality of Monaco. Its branches banks has been found to be a great sucess. The government stands as absolut- guarantor to the depositor against and the result of the workings of Mo. Every postoffice under the manage-ment of the French government is a N. savings bank. At each postoffice may that part of the business especially or in connection with the regular postal work, according to the importance of the office and the importance of esponding officials in ordinary savings institutions.

There are in all about 8,000 offices at which savings may be deposited under he protection of the French government. In the provincial districts all he savings business is transacted immediately in connection with the postal usiness, but in Paris and in the other argo cities of France the savings department is so important that separate headquarters are a necessity. The method is simple. Any person may become a depositor. This admits hildren of any age whatsoever, thus assisting the all-disired development of the savings idea at the earliest age. In the matter of reimbursements the only restriction comes in the requirement that minors must be 16 years old or over in order to be permitted to withdraw without the authority of their legal representatives. Interest is paid on deposits at the rate of 216 per cent. This interest starts from the first or the sixteenth of the month after the day of deposit. It ceases to operate from the first or the sixteenth which precedes the day of withdrawal. On

A NEEDED INVENTION. A Plan to Show It a Paper Has Been

Sold and Read or Not. There is a comfortable fortune in store for the man who will perfect a good, inexpensive and rapid plan for showing whether a paper or magazine has been sold and read or not. The margin of profit on the sale of any single copy of a newspaper is so small in most cases that the publisher allows the retail dealers the privilege of returning a certain percentage of unsold copies, so that the dealer may be saved from loss. This return privilege is conceded by most, if not all, the magawestern zines. Some dishonest people make a business of gathering up all the old copies of papers and magazines they can put their hands on, and returning such as bear no marks of rough usage to the publisher. The dealer thus makes a double profit.

A patent was taken out in 1835 for a machine which threaded a light tape or ribbon through each paper. This the reader must remove before he can read his paper, and its absence in the returns of unsold copies can be detectthe appliance does not seem to have been taken up with much enthusiasm lishers will be able to defy the cheats For newspaper offices it must be something which can be applied to a printing press, so that the papers will comout ready for sale. In magazine offices the attachment could be applied after the magazine is printed and bound.
