

Tell Us About It

If anything goes wrong with the shoes we sell you tell us about it.

If you find equal grade shoes anywhere else at prices lower than ours, tell us about it.

If any clerk in the store doesn't give you polite attention tell us about it.

If you can't find here just the sort of shoe you desire tell us about it.

We are here to serve the public rightly, and to do so we must know what is not right about our store, our stock and our prices.

CITY NOTES.

The Young Men's Hebrew association of this city will hold their eighth annual dance at Music hall this evening.

The Delaware and Hudson company paid its trainmen and other employees of the main line south of Scranton yesterday.

A regular meeting of the Fraternal Mystic circle will be held tonight in Raub's hall, Wyoming avenue. All members are urged to be present.

John Griffiths has removed his store for the sale and purchase of books, rare and new, from Washington avenue to Linden street, opposite the postoffice.

At 11.30 o'clock last night all the sleeping rooms in the Hotel Jermyn were occupied by 250 lodgers and twenty cots had been assigned to late arrivals.

The Antracto Glee club, of West Scranton, will render several selections at the Penn Avenue Baptist church this evening during the course of Dr. Dixon's lecture.

The funeral of Charles Widdon, of Bellevue, will be held from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Stricker, this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, the Rev. F. P. Doty officiating.

The ladies of the Green Ridge Presbyterian church will serve an autumn loaf supper in the church parlors Thursday evening, Oct. 15, from 6 until 8 o'clock. Supper 25 cents.

Klaw & Erlanger, of New York city; Joseph Brooks, of Los Angeles, Ca.; Nicholson & Zimmerman, of Philadelphia; Frank Howe, Jr., of Philadelphia, all theatrical men, are in the city.

Miss Lydia Hamawalt, evangelist, began a series of lectures at the residence of Tresslarville, Pa., assisted by C. F. Newell. Much interest is manifested and a gracious word expected in both saint and sinner.

Joseph M. Saloz and Mary O'Boyle, of Scranton; Frank Kennedy, of Scott, and Pearl Franklin, of Benton; Samuel H. Purvis, of Scranton; and Mollie A. Simms, of Priebeburg; Allan A. Scott, of Dunmore, and May M. Keen, of Scranton, were yesterday granted marriage licenses.

Lester Mitt, the Chinchilla farmer, who was arrested several days ago for retaining a horse, wagon and harness, the property of Thomas McAndrew, of this city, was given a hearing by Alderman Millard in the city court yesterday.

A meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Domestic and Foreign Missionary society is called for this afternoon at 4 o'clock in St. Luke's church. The auxiliary includes in its membership, according to the terms of its formation, all women who are members of the church, by baptism. All, therefore, are invited, and a very large attendance is hoped for by the officers of the auxiliary.

This is the day set apart by the international committee of the Young Women's Christian association. There will be three services, 8 a. m., 12.15, 7.30. Women and girls of this city are cordially invited to attend these meetings at the association rooms. Many will be pleased to hear that Miss Stella Seymour, who was at one time a great helper in the association, but has been traveling throughout the foreign countries for the past eight years, will speak at our Sunday meeting, Oct. 17. There are some vacancies in the German and French classes. Please register at once.

JUDGE ARCHBALD AGAIN DISSENTED

This Time It Is the Jury with Whom He Does Not Agree.

A BIG DAY IN CRIMINAL COURT

Simon Rice Found Guilty of Assault and Battery, but the Judge Shows His Displeasure at the Verdict by First Imposing a Nominal Sentence and Then Recalling It Altogether.

One of the juries that served in quarter sessions yesterday is likely to come in for a rebuke or at least a mild criticism from Judge Archbald ends his week's labors in No. 2. From outward and certain circumstances which at this time are only hinted at the judge is, to put it mildly, not altogether satisfied that they gave a full and fair consideration to a case which went into their hands. He gave them to understand that he was not in sympathy with their finding by making the sentence a merely nominal one, and, later, after some consideration, went so far as to recall the sentence entirely, at the same time indicating by his manner that there was every likelihood that the verdict would be set aside.

It was in the case wherein Simon Rice, the well known Lackawanna avenue merchant, was charged with assault and battery on O. J. Nichols. Last spring the prosecutor's wife agreed to purchase an organ from Mr. Rice, the understanding being that she and the husband would execute a lease for the same. The organ was taken to the Nichols home and when Mr. Rice appeared with his lease, the husband refused to sign it. Mr. Rice, some time later, returned with two or three more leases for the organ, but the prosecutor would not allow him to take it and ordered Mr. Rice off the premises. Mr. Nichols and his wife swore that Mr. Rice thereupon committed an assault on the prosecutor. Mr. Rice and the husband went to court yesterday to recall the sentence entirely, at the same time indicating by his manner that there was every likelihood that the verdict would be set aside.

JURY WENT CONTRARY.

The evidence and the charge of the court, to a disinterested person, warranted an acquittal but the jury went contrary to all expectations by returning a verdict of guilty in manner and form as charged in the indictment. Judge Archbald entered a sentence of $5 fine and costs, but later in the day recalled the sentence. Today or possibly on Saturday, which is sentence day, he will be in all probability heard further on this matter. Attorney George D. Taylor appeared for the defense. Jessup sent down an amusing case. It was one in which the daughter-in-law charged her mother-in-law with being a common scold. The prosecutor was Mrs. Margaret Walsh and the defendant Mrs. Catherine Walsh. Several times the witnesses and parties became so badly mixed up in scolding matches that the stipstaves had to be appealed to and one woman, a Mrs. Gahard, who was a witness for the prosecution, became so turbulent that she was ejected from the room by order of Judge Archbald. She kept up her scolding all the way to the door and did not even cease when she was deposited in the corridor. The jury didn't feel like singling out any particular one from the bunch and so brought in a verdict of not guilty; costs divided. Attorney P. E. Timlin appeared for the defense.

The battle of Griffin Lake, which caused such a big sensation up in Scott township last summer was all gone over again in court yesterday. Griffin Lake, as will be remembered, was purchased by a fish and game association, duly incorporated under the laws of the state, the members of the corporation being for the most part farmers living in and around Scott. Parties from this city, particularly from the North side, went to fish in the lake and after the association secured control of it continued to do so either being unacquainted with or ignoring the fact that this was illegal.

ARRESTED FOR FISHING.

April 26, last, Charles Headden and Arthur Lake, of Providence, were fishing at the lake when one of the members of the association, Giles White, espied them and had a warrant issued for their arrest. Constable S. O. Johnson proceeded to serve it and then occurred the bother. The two Providence men, together with Michael Hennihan, Matthew Reilly and Patrick Davitt, who were quietly fishing at another point on the lake, all aver that White and a gang of farmers swooped down on Headden and Lake, broke their poles, grabbed them roughly and unceremoniously hustled them to a wagon, and when Headden protested against the seeming outrage, White knocked him out of the wagon with a blow on the head from a club.

White, who is made the defendant in the case; Constable Johnson, Truman Ackerly, Benjamin Hunter, Alvin Setzer and Lorin Ackerly agreed on the story that the two prisoners resisted and fought like demons and that it was only after Headden had escaped once and after recapture was viciously struggling to escape again that he was hit by White. The authority for using a club was vested in him, White claimed, by his being deputized by Constable Johnson to assist in the arrest. The jury was out but a short time and returned with the verdict, not guilty; costs divided.

Gray-haired James Finley was returned guilty, at the opening of court, of being a pickpocket, and a short while later 12-year-old Lizette Pietra was convicted of a like offense. Lizette is the Italian flower girl who, with her married sister, Mrs. Lupo, was picked up by Lieutenant Davis for stealing goods from shoppers in the large and crowded dry goods stores during the holidays and who again on Aug. 16 last stole a pocketbook containing $29.06 from Mrs. Thompson, of the West Side, while she was shopping in the Leader.

THE GIRL CONFESSED.

The girl was convicted on the testimony of Detective John Mitt, who testified that she was seen about the Leader and forthwith proceeded to her home and after some persuasion she took him to an ash heap, near the Robinson brewery, where the stolen pocketbook was discovered. Attorney C. B. Ballentine was assigned to the defense.

Mrs. John Kearney appeared as prosecutrix in a case against Patrick Kearney, wherein she charged him with assault and battery. The Kearneys live on adjoining lots, between which there is no fence. They were in the habit of storing their coal in the same bin, located on the property occupied

POOR DIRECTORS WILL LEAVE TODAY

That each district present at the next meeting special laws relating to the poor districts, that proposed topics for discussion and questions should be sent early to the programme committee in order that they may be properly considered and perhaps included in the annual programme; that a committee of three be named by the president-elect to confer with a committee from the County Commissioners' State association for the purpose of an understanding upon points differently construed in the new "Poor Law."

It was voted that the corresponding secretary and finance committee be authorized to eliminate whatever they thought proper in the minutes of the meeting in their preparation for publication, this on account of the growing expense of printing the minutes.

The resolutions committee recommended that whatever thanks the convention wished to express should be in the form of motions. This was done and thanks were voted the Young Men's Christian association for the use of its hall, the Scranton poor directors and the officers of the association.

Hon. John R. Farr, of the West Side, moved to request that a similar law be passed in a few years. He approved the Wisconsin county insane asylum plan. In that state, he said, there is not an overcrowded asylum for an insane person in an almshouse. The state board of public charities came in for his condemnation for not taking sufficient interest in the convention to be represented therein.

Dr. Walk congratulated the association on its having successfully handled every item on the programme. He pronounced the session the busiest in the association's history and the one most distinguished for general discussion. The convention was closed with Dr. Walk's plea for continued interest in the association and a large attendance at Harrisburg next year.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES.

The will of Frederick Nothacker, late of this city, was yesterday probated and letters testamentary granted to his son, Nathaniel Nothacker. He divides his estate equally among his seven children.

Catharina Hughes, through Warren & Knapp, yesterday instituted equity proceedings against Bridget and Sarah Gilligan to enforce a partition or sale of a jointly owned piece of property on Franklin's avenue.

In the case of E. E. Everhart against the Throp estate, court yesterday appointed Horace Hand to referee the dispute. Attorney James J. O'Malley was yesterday appointed guardian of Anna Jordan, minor child of Patrick Jordan, late of Scranton.

Yesterday a new trial was granted in the case of the Onondaga Dynamite company against the Halstead Textile company.

THE SIGNS OF THE TIMES.

Will Be Discussed by Frank Draper in Raub's Hall.

Frank Draper of "Zion's Watch Tower" Bible and Tract society at Allentown, Pa., will deliver two discourses on this matter. Attorney George D. Taylor appeared for the defense. Jessup sent down an amusing case. It was one in which the daughter-in-law charged her mother-in-law with being a common scold.

The Knickerbockers today. Excelsent Company Will Begin an Engagement at Davis'. "The Knickerbockers," Louis Roble's spectacular extravaganza company, which has been playing to packed houses everywhere, is generally pronounced, by all who have seen it, to excel all rivals in this line besides presenting extravaganza in its best forms with magnificent scenery, costumes, effects, irresistible comedy, and a host of good things in the way of music and dancing.
