A DELIGHTFUL RECEPTION.

Scranton Conservatory of Music Faculty.

It is not often that one is privileged to attend a reception more artistically arranged and carried out than that given last night at the Conservatory of Music and Art by Director J. Alfred Pennington and his corps of instructors. The conservatory rooms which occupy the whole of the third floor of the Carter building, corner of Adams avenue and Linden street, were thronged with guests, representing the city's best known social element, from 8 to 11 o'clock.

The many rooms used for class, instruction and reading purposes were decorated and beautified with a taste that evidenced the artistic calling of conservatory's instructors. Mr. and Mrs. Pennington were assisted in receiving by Mrs. William Connell, Mrs. H. J. Anderson and Miss Grace

The faculty was assisted as follows: Miss S. Louise Hardenbergh, planoforte and Virgii Clayler, instructor, by Mrs. P. G. Coursen, Mrs. F. P. Price, Miss Burnham and Mrs. Charles Burr; Miss Hester A. NEW IMPROVEMENTS IN CONTEMPLATION

South Side and Bellevue Sewers Are Among Them,

PROVIDENCE PAVING IS ANOTHER Colonel Sanderson Delights an Au-

In Common Council Last Night Action Is Taken to Prevent the Killing of the Twelfth District Sewer Assessment, Which Indicates a Reopening of the Sewer Campaign. What the Bellevae Sewer and Paving of West Market Street Will Cost.

The South Side sewer campaign was again indirectly opened in common council last night, with a resolution by Mr. Sweeney, directing the city solleitor to withdraw the appeal that had been made to the assessment and ask court to confirm it. It was stated by Mr. Sweeney that the action was merely for the purpose of keeping the assessment in existence, so that the city may avail itself of it when the time comes for building the sewer and not have to spend several thousand dollars for a new one. There was some objection offered by Mr. Keller, who feared the city would be assuming a responsibility of some kind, but when the matter was explained by Mr. Swceney he ceased to argue. However, he de clined to vote for the resolution.

City Engineer Phillips communicated that he had completed plans and an estimate of the cost of the proposed new Nineteenth district sewer. sewer will be 56,197 feet long; house connections will be 26,260 feet more. The total cost will be $114.644, or about $55 an average lot. The blds, he says, will in all likelihood be less than the estimate. He also gave notice that the estimate for paving West Market street, between Main and Brick avenues, is as follows: Asphalt, $15,152 vitrified brick, $11,917; stone block, $14,-882. All are figured with concrete base

The ordinance for asphalting the unpaved portion of Lackawanna avenue, between Washington and Adams avenues, was referred to the paving com mittee with instructions to report forthwith. The committee objected to reporting on the matter until it had en given mature consideration, and it was finally agreed to give the committee until the next regular meeting to make its report. Mr. Keller wanted to rush the ordinance through, but Messrs, Sweeney, Regan and Flanaghan raised their voices against this and blocked it by calling attention to the fact that the property holders there had put up with a cobble stone pave for thirty years and could be expected to at least be content for a couple of eeks longer.

The question of exonerating a portion of tax on real estate was brought up by Mr. Sweeney's objection to several petitions of this nature, and on motion of Mr. Zeidler the matter was referred to committee for investiga-

New measures were introduced proriding for a heating stove for the Relief Engine company; instructing the cuilding inspector to repair the Provi dence station house; granting permission to the property holders on Hickory street, between Irving and Crown avenues, to grade in front of their houses, by private contract; directing the replacing of the fire hydrant removed from the corner of Cedar aveand River street.

The committee on public buildings eported the ordinance providing for the repair of the Center street station house favorably and it was referred to come up in its regular order. The ordinance had been printed in anticipation, and when the seventh order was declared the ordinance was called up. It passed first and second readings. It was discovered that the printed ordinance did not agree with the copy passed upon by the committee and amendments were offered covering the changes necessary, This cut the emount down from $600 to $475.68 and Building Inspector Nelson was called upon to state whether he could get long with this amount. He stated that the contract price for the work was $1,975 and that $1,400 was already appropriated. This would only give $1,875.68 to work on.

Action on the amendment was deferred, it being tabled.

The ordinance providing for the curb-ing of Webster avenue between Mulberry and Linden streets passed on first and second reading. The ordi-nance providing for repairing Relief Ergine house passed third and final reading.

A communication was received from the American Fire Engine company quoting prices for the leasing of an engine, to be used while the Franklin company engine is being repaired, with an option on its purchase. The prices quoted were for a second size engine, $4,500, payable quarterly, $380 to be paid yearly income of $2,000, guaranteed to each quarter beginning Jan. 1, 1898, and ending Oct. 1, 1900. A third size engine would be sold for $4,320 on the same terms. The engines can be purchased during the year 1898 for $4,200 and $4,000 respectively.

dience at Eim Park.

Colonel George Sanderson last even ing entertained a good-sized audience at the Elm Park church with his lecture on "Granada and the Albambra." The subject was of special interest at the present time when Spain is of such vital interest to Americans. Colonel Sanderson's treatment was instructive and interesting. He showed Spain particularly in the picturesque grandeur of its sluggish character-a character which has permitted the survival of old customs and relies of past centuries of which the Alhambra is a type. The scenes in the land of the Castanet were illustrated by

WEDDING AT AVOCA.

Miss Elizabeth Dixon Becomes the Bride of Hugh Jennings, of Baltimore Club-Brilliant Social Event.

The most notable and brilliant social event in the history of Avoca was the marriage there at 8 o'clock last night St. Mary's Catholic church of Miss Elizabeth Dixon to Hugh Jennings, of the Baltimore base ball club, A half ur before the time for the ceremony the guests began to throng into the little church, which had been beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums. At 8 o'clock the sacred edifice was crowded and as the music of the wedding march pealed forth from the choir loft the bridal party entered the church. First came the ushers, Prof. C. F. Hoban, Frank Jennings, M. J. Garvey and George Weber, all of Avoca, followed by the maid of honor, Miss Minnie Cawley, of this city. Next came the bride leaning on the arm of her brother, Attorney M. J.

The bride wore a charming creation ' white duchess satin, cut en train and trimmed with pearls and chiffon A tulle vell caught with a diamond fell in graceful folds from her head. Her maid of honor wore a gown of white satin, trimmed with muselin de soi and pearl satin ribbons and ornamented with nearl. The bride carried a bouquet of bridal roses and maiden-hair fern and the maid of honor white chrysanthemums. The hat of the maid of honor was pearl gray with white dumes and aigrettes.

In the sanctuary the bridal party was met by the groom and his best man, Dr. J. A. Jennings, his brother, and the ceremony was performed on the second step of the altar, a privilege seldom accorded to those not married with a nuptial mass. Rev. George J. Dixon, of Pittston, brother of the bride, was the officiating clergyman. Others present were Rev. M. F. Crane, pastor f the church; Rev. J. J. McCabe, Rev. M. F. Loftus, Rev. P. F. Quinnan, Rev. P. H. Lavelle, Rev. Father Broderick, of Wilkes-Barre; Rev. Father Coroner, of Forest City, and Rev. James Boland, of St. Bonaventure's college,

Allegheny, N. Y As the nuptial knot was being tied he organist, Miss Anna Durkin, played the refrain "O Promise Me." The recessional was the wedding march from Lohengrin. In the assemblage that saw the ceremony performed were a number of the groom's associates on the ball field. After the marriage a reception was held at the Dixon residence, which was attended by about sixty of the close personal friends or relatives of the bride and groom. The floral decorations at the house were similar to the church decorations, paims and chrys anthemums. At midnight Mr. and Mrs. Jennings left for Pittsburg, where Mr. Jennings will join the Baltimore base ball club and accompany it on its tour of the west and Pacific slope. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings will return to Avoca about the first of the year and later will leave for Baltimore, where they will reside. The bride's traveling dress was of two-toned covered cloth, with hat to match. Mrs. Jennings is one of Avoca's mos graceful and accomplished daughters and her family is one of the most prominent of that place. She was educated in St. Cecilia's convent in this city and has a large number of warm admiring friends in the various towns and cities of the Lackawanna and Wyoming valleys, The groom is known to every lover of the national game, the country over, through his superb work for the Baltimore club, The presents received by the bride were without number. Among them were a solid silver service which came from the Baltimore Base Ball and Exhibition association; a tea and coffee set of silver and gold from the students of St. Bonaventure's college, of Allegheny, N. Y.; beautiful colonial cabinet for silverware from the members of the Baltimore club,
