DAILY NEWSPAPER.

Population Appears to Have Little to Do with Their Distribution.

There are 20,000 newspapers in th United States, of which 2,250 or more than ten per cent., are published daily These daily papers, however, are not distributed uniformly throughout the several states, and there seems to be no clear rule for the discrepancies to be found in some states. New York, for instance, the largest of the states in respect to population, and the one, too, having the largest number of newspapers, has only 183 dailles, whereas Pennsylvania, the population of which one million and a quarter less than New York's, has 201. Missouri, with a population of 2,600,000, has only 87 daily apers, while Indiana, with a population of 500,060 less, has 137 yet, the Hoo sier state, with Illinois on one side and Ohio on the other, has not usually been noted for its public enlightenment. On the other hand Missouri has 709 week ly papers, whereas Indiana has 577 the last census taken-the state census of 1895-was 2,500,000. The population of California at the same time was 1,250,000, or just one-half. Massachu setts has long had a high rank in all matters connected with education and public enlightenment. It is the state of several universities, it is prominent in all educational matters, and it is one of the very oldest of the states of the country in point of settlement. Yet Massachusetts has only eightyeight daily papers, whereas California with one-half the population of the Eay state, has 113. These are some of the discrepancies which seem to reoutre explanation.

The distribution of daily papers throughout the country is in other respects singular. Mississippi, with a population of 1,250,000 and with large percantile and agricultural interests has only nine daily papers, whereas Arixona with a population one-twelfth as large and much of it made up of persons wholly illiterate or nearly so, has ten daily papers. Delaware, including the thriving city of Wilmingtor, and with no foreign population numerous enough to be considered, has the same number of daily nemspapers as New Mexico with a population of 25,000 less, and a considerable portion of it Indians and half breads. There state of Tennessee, only fifteen in West Virginia and twenty-nine in Kentucky. But in North Carolina, a state destitute of large cities, there are twentyone daily papers and in Arkans is there are twenty-six. New Hampshire and Vermont are neighboring states: their population is about the same-between 0,000 and 375,000. Yet New Hampshire has fifteen daily papers and Vermont has four only. Connecticut has, relatively,more daily papers than, has Massuchusetts. Iowa hus more than Tex-us and Idaho has fewer than any other state or territory with the exception of Alaska, though this condition may not be permanent when the belated returns have been received from the Klondike, were heretofore journalism has not flourishd. The United States have more daily papers than any other country, but their distribution is peculiar.

usquehanna County Etchings -- E. R. Gray's Remarkable Rooster-Hen. Education and Hash at Montrose. Fate of the Starruca Valley Oil

pecial Correspondence of The Tribune Susquehanna, Oct. 19.-There come: from hilarious Hallstead the probably-too-true tale of a double-headed owl. According to the veraclous Herald, a denizen of the Smoky Hollow section of Great Bend township went toward the river to an old chestnut tree that vas loaded with the nuts. He saw what appeared in the distance to be a cock fight, but as he went nearer he noticed feathers lying about the road, and the strange looking object proved to be a arge owl, with one head on the right and one on the left. Both were covered with blood. Sticking from between the bill of the right head was the tail of a mouse. The two heads of the bird were fighting with each other, and atter a few more moments the strange combat ceased, and the freak dropped nto the road and died from exhaustion. The Smoky Hollow man examined the cemains of the owl, and he came to the inclusion that the bird had caught a nouse with one head and the other head filed a claim. The fatal fight with itself ensued. The remains of the bird have been placed in the hands of a York museum

SUMMONED SUDDENLY.

Dr. Edward L. Benson, a well known and popular young physician, died very suddenly at his home in Jackson at an arly hour on Monday morning, aged years. He had just returned from a ck call. Starting for his room to retire he was seized with heart failure and fell to the floor and expired. Deceased, who was a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Benson, of this place, studied edicine with Dr. Samuel Birdsall, of Susquehanna, afterward graduating from the University of New York. About four years ago he located in Jackson, where he built up a large and lucrative practice. He was a member f the Susquehanna county Medical so lety. His sad and sudden death is leeply regretted by a very wide circle f relations and friends. The funeral will occur at 1 o'clock on Wednesday from the Jackson church. Interment will be made in the North Jackson cemetery.

A GREAT BEND VERSION. Pretty nearly every mineral deposit mown on this earth has been found on Mt. The general store of Julius Freedman as entered some time Sunday night or Monday morning by burglars. cracksmen pried off the combination knob of the safe and in a very bungling manner, and had just started to drill a hole, when they were evidently frightened from their purpose by so that they heard. That they left in a hurry is indicated by the fact that Tenn., C. & Iron .. nothing in the store was taken, although many articles of value were at hand to carry away. The men gained cutrance by a basement window and used a pick to pry off the combination knob. Mr. Freedman does a banking business among some of his customers and there is said to have been about $5,000 in the safe at the time. During the past two or three years there have en a number of burglaries and attempts at burglary here and in Vandling, and the work done has been of a uniformly bungling nature. The opinion is general that the whole series of depredations have been committed by an organized local gang. Thus far they have eluded justice, but if they are ever caught in the act they will be dealt with summarily and should their identity be disclosed otherwise, they will be given the full penalty of the law. It is the trick of the Bryanized Democracy this fall to make false charges against Republican methods, raise a big dust, hire Republican malcontents to organize Republican bolts and then coax individual Republicans to desert their party on the representation that "party ties needn't count for anything in an off year." By this trick, if it shall work, the Bryanites ress, 4000 sacks; wheat, 28,000 bushels; trick, if it shall work, the Bryanites will get a foothold for a hopeful fight in national campaigns, and make just so much more trouble for McKinley, the Repullican congress and the cause of sound notey.
