Election day, November 2.
The election of the Democratic ticket will be a victory for clean and honest methods in politics—Scranton Times.

Stand by the Party.
The continuance in the local field of three independent candidates asking for Republican support in order to strengthen the Democracy will not in our judgment affect the result of next month's polling; but it is at least deserving of casual notice.

When Mr. Okell's name was presented to the recent Republican convention the gentleman who made his nominating speech assured his hearers that Mr. Okell and his friends, whether successful before the convention or not, would loyally abide the convention's decision and give their best support to the regular party nominees.

On the other hand, when a candidate enters a convention agreeing to abide its result and afterward takes the field against its nominee it is as surely subjects his course to criticism if not contempt.

Those who appreciate the good government capabilities of the present city hall gang will of course vote next month to give it control of the court house also.

"Concerning Advertising."
Elsewhere appears an interesting communication from an enterprising local firm of clothiers, Messrs. Boyle and Mucklow, criticizing the daily papers of Scranton (mention is made in the letter of The Tribune only, but the criticism offered applies to all, for printing an advertisement, offered in the regular course of business and paid for, by a firm of clothiers characterized by the local firm as fakirs.

We do not know the merits or demerits of the firm to which our correspondents allude; but we do know that the regular, fair-dealing local firms, among which we gladly accord our correspondents a prominent place, are quite likely to withstand successfully any new competition and in the long run thrive on it.

organization to name a candidate against him in self-defense, so that Tammany might win, and the odium of it be used later on in an effort to elect an anti-Platt successor to Senator Murphy and thus smash the so-called Platt machine.

Already the Bryanites are confessing defeat. The Times' howl about Republican hoodlums is a never-failing symptom of chagrin.

Patriotism and Party.
Replying to a recent editorial in this paper expressing surprise that it should wish to weaken the Republican party in New York city and state by opposing the regular Republican candidate for mayor of New York, the Chicago Times-Herald defends the Republicanism of Seth Low and some of his present supporters, affirms that Mr. Low voted for Blaine in 1884, and adds:

The Scranton Tribune has discovered a new kind of "mugwump." A Republican who refuses to endorse the Platt machine and its candidate for mayor is a "general mugwump." According to The Tribune Mr. Platt is the Republican party of New York, and the thousands of Republicans who are going to register a mighty protest against bossism and one-man domination constitute "a band of guerilla mugwumps."

We admire our western contemporary's courage but deplore its bad judgment. If Mr. Platt is the Republican party in New York then Mr. Hanna is the Republican party in Ohio and the Times-Herald, to be consistent, ought to be supporting McLean or whoever the anti-Hanna candidate is.

Today at Lake Geneva, Wis. Charles T. Yerkes of Chicago will formally present to the University of Chicago the largest refracting telescope in the world and there will be added to science an astronomical instrument of unprecedented power and cost.

Coming, though, to the merits of the question, here are the facts: Mr. Low was petitioned to become a candidate in New York as a unifying force. Instead of doing that he elected to become a dividing force.

The late George M. Pullman was unquestionably a man of wonderful energy and extraordinary business ability; but none of the good points in his career nor all of the stains on his fame can obliterate the stain on his fame caused by his inexcusable inhumanity to his employees at Pullman.

When the Times said that Clarence E. Pryor fought Thomas D. Davies three years ago of course it said what was untrue and what it knew was untrue. But in the desperation of the Bryanite cause apparently anything goes.

Unless there is an epidemic of lying among the Cuban leaders something Spanish may be expected to drop about the time congress re-assembles. Americans hope that it may drop and drop hard.

It will cost $10,000 just for the printing of the official ballots in greater New York. The campaign in that city, when ended, will doubtless represent a total outlay of little less than $5,000,000.

SIGNS.
The melancholy days are here;
The signs are everywhere;
The woodland leaves are turning here,
And fluttering through the air;
The cricket chirps its mournful lay
Beneath the window sill;
The buckwheat field is turning gray
Upon the distant hill;
A dreary silence seems to spread
O'er all the country side;
The flowers that bloomed, alas! are dead,
But 'e'en without such signs as these—
The hills immersed in haze,
The turning leaves upon the trees—
We'd recognize the days;
For now the arctic college "men,"
With hanks of hair to spare,
Are on the campus again;
And raising hoes there;
They're rolling flags and rushing canes,
And also raising hell;
And elsewhere showing that their brains
Continue out of plumb.
—Cleveland Leader.

Schadt at Williamsport.
The continued silence of the Times justifies the conclusion that its present candidate for sheriff, Mr. Schadt, was the same man who two years ago went to the trouble to get substitute credentials in order that he might go to Williamsport in a capacity to do mischief to the candidacy of Hon. P. P. Smith for a seat on the Superior court bench.

eratic state convention. His candidacy had the cordial support of the masses of his party, as was shown in the extraordinary vote which he subsequently received. Yet Schadt, holding office in gift from Judge Smith's friends, by virtue of that office representing himself as a spokesman of the Democracy of Lackawanna, goes out of his way to deliver a blow at his fellow-townsmen and fellow-Democrats; a cowardly blow, such as even factional bitterness would not excuse.

What was Schadt's objection to Judge Smith? What was his objection to Burke? What was his objection to Duggan? Why did he decline to help McDonald? Why is his whole career in politics strewn with evidences of disloyalty to fellow Democrats of Irish descent? Can the Irish-Americans of Lackawanna support such a candidate or endorse by their votes his present set-up in county politics?

A POLITICAL POINTER.
If you endorse the free trade and free-silver Chicago platform as the Lackawanna Democracy does, "fully and without reserve," then work and vote for Schadt, Horn, et al. If you believe in McKinley, protection and prosperity, turn these agents of Bryan

This revival of talk in favor of Cuban annexation to the United States is merely a phase of a ferment in public opinion caused by the general recognition that Spanish sovereignty in the pearl of the Antilles is rapidly approaching its doom.

The Tribune acknowledges with pleasure the receipt of a beautiful volume from the Peter Paul Book company of Buffalo containing under the title, "The Fugitives and Other Poems," a collection in permanent form of verses written at odd times by Hon. John E. Barrett, the editor of the Truth.

NEWSPAPERS AS TEXT BOOKS.
From the Washington Post.
The superintendent of the Kansas City schools has introduced newspapers as text books. It is not altogether a new idea, because here in Washington many of the school teachers invite their pupils to discuss the topics of the day, as gathered from the press, and the result has been most satisfactory.

It may be said that newspapers do not always print every detail of the truth and that sometimes they are guilty of absolute mendacity. So it may be said of histories, that they are not always a correct or an unprejudiced record of the periods and events which they profess to chronicle.

We make history rapidly in these times. The world is interlocked by the telegraph wire and the cable, and the fall of the Spanish cabinet is known in Washington almost at the same moment that it is announced in Madrid.

It is the trick of the Bryanized Democracy this fall to make false charges against Republican methods, raise a big dust, hire Republican malcontents to organize Republican bores and then coax individual Republicans to desert their party on the representation that "party life needn't count for anything in an off year." By this trick, if it shall work, the Bryanites will get a foothold for a hopeful fight in national campaigns, and make just so much more trouble for McKinley, the Republican congress and the cause of sound money.

Good Journalism Versus Cheapness

Through intense rivalry the price of two of the newspapers of Rochester, N. Y.—the Democrat and Chronicle, and the Herald—has dropped to one cent a copy. Both are expensive papers, the former being published in the largest, best edited and most influential journals in the United States. It is a business impossibility to print in a community the size of Rochester which has a reading population, city and suburban, about ten times as large as that of Scranton—a first class paper for one cent and earn a fair profit on the money and brains-power invested. Only a few of the penny papers in the very largest cities are today making any money, and it would be better all around if they would charge two cents and use some of the thus increased revenue in still further improving their contents. This would add to their value as agencies of public education and enable their proprietors to earn a deserved profit as an encouragement in their good work.

In this connection we desire to quote with hearty indorsement these words from the Elmira, N. Y. Advertiser: "Any cost has invaded the newspaper world of western New York. In New York city it has wrought such havoc that but three or four of the whole array of newspapers are self-supporting and some of them have become the grave of millions of money. A modern daily cannot be printed profitably at the price of one cent and maintain its quality as a leader of public opinion. It must run more and more to sensationalism, to the kind of sensationalism that scandal and make nauseous display of it, must cater to the slums. Such is the uniform course of such journalism."

"Its tendency is constantly downward, for it cannot be otherwise. This newspaper war in Western New York has led newspaper managers to offer their wares at a cent a copy. After a brief experience of them no man who values clear reading in his family paper will tolerate one of them in his house. The policy of cheap journalism of that sort is ruinous as a matter of business. One of these competitors announces that it is prepared to sink $100 in its futile effort to make money one is figuring in the county records as causing mortgages to grow when they were unknown."

"The simple questions with a sensible man are whether he wants to get for a cent what he will be advanced to have in his house, whether he thinks that a policy of bankruptcy should be encouraged, whether he wants ever more and more of the vulgar yellow journalism is the reproach of the metropolis. Does he want to reduce himself to the same alternative in the country by encouraging the mad scramble in western New York? There is something besides one cent to think of."
