All the big college elevens had a contest Saturday, those of the first-class contesting with the second-raters. Lafayette, which took Pennsylvania unawares last year and won a place in the first rank, went up against the Quakers to make such a showing as rould give the college world to understand that her victory last year was no accident. The defeat was the greatest humiliation Pennsylvania ever suf-fered and she was just "laying" for Saturday's opportunity. The detailed reports of the contest would indicate that the drubbing which Lafayette received was even worse than the 46 to 0 score tells of.

Morice, Minds and Jackson, Pennsylvania's back field, fairly tore La fayette's big line to pieces and Over field, McCracken and Hare simply toyed with the Easton center, though that same center is the heaviest play ing ball and its left wing is personific in no less a mound of humanity than "Brownie" Rhinehart. One of the largest crowds that Franklin Field has ever contained, numbering over 18,000, witnessed the slaughter. The line-up and scoring was as follows:

Yale also had a score to settle with the Indians for the fight the Aboriginess gave them last year, but unlike Pennsylvania, she failed to square accounts. She played a good game however and possibly should have scored more than she did- 24 to 9. The Indians tallies were made on a touch down and a drop kick from field by their doughty little quarter back, Hudson. It was made from the thirty yard line and went over the bars as clean as a whistle. Yale did her scoring through the line and was aided not a little by various clever tricks. The big crowd shouted almost to a man for the Indians.

It would have been infinitely more pleasing to Princeton adherents had the Tigers made a better showing with Cornell, in Ithaca. Cornell and Lafayette played a tie game on the previous Saturday, and while Pennsylvania was piling up forty-six to the Eastonians' nothing, the Tigers were touchdowns by the Cornellians. It was a hard contest at that and Princeton is lucky that she was not scored on. Lathrope, of this city, is credited with excellent work in all the detailed reports of the game: Cornell

BUNCOERS ABROAD : BEWARE !

It is the trick of the Bryanized Democracy this fall to make false charges against Republican methods, raise a big dust, hire Republican malcontents to organize Republican bolts and then coax individual Republicans to desert their party on the representation that "party ties needn't count for anything in an off year." By this trick, if it shall work, the Bryanites will get a foothold for a hopeful fight in national campaigns, and make just so much more trouble for McKiniey, the Republican congress and the cause of sound morey.

You now see through this trick. Are you going to let it work;

NO. 28 SCHOOL INSPECTED.

Is a New and Model Building in the Thirteenth Ward.

Several members of the board of control on Saturday inspected the new No. 28 school building on Wyoming Avenue in the Thirteenth Ward. A distinguishing feature of the erection of the structure is that it has been accomplished within the original appropriation and without expenditure for extras. It is a plain and substantial structure with approved interior arrangement and heating and ventilating facilities. It cost $22,000.

Limestone is the material used in Eastonians' nothing, the Tigers were being held down to a pitiable two The roof is shingled. There are five entrances, three of which are on Wyoming avenue. Sheet steel has been used in finishing the cellings. Each room is floored with hard maple and contains a book case and commodious and seperate cloak rooms for boys and girls. Sanitary, cupless drinking fountains are situated in the lobbies,

There are two extra class rooms which may be used if the building becomes overcrowded. Those present at Saturdays inspection were Controllers Jacobs, of the Thirteenth Ward, Francais, Davis, Walsh, Carson and Casey. Secretary Fellows of the board of control and Architect J. E. Duckworth.

The station of the Delaware and Hudon Railread company at Minooka was terday morning and among the things were a case of ladies' shoes and a watch-dog. The depredation was discovered when the agent began business yesterday morning.

The burglars were probably tramps. Entrance was effected by smashing the side window with a large stone. The sash was forced in and every pane of glass broken. Blood stains on the window-sill showed that the glass had gotten in its work as the men were passing into the station.

Only the dog and the case of shoes were missing. The telegraph instruments were damaged by the stone. The ocal police are at work on the case, It is the fifth time in a year this station has been burglarized.

JUDGE ARCHBALD AND MR. JONES

They Figured in an Interesting Little Scene in Court Saturday.

GAVE THE JUDGE A SURPRISE

The President Judge Took Occasion to Publicly Censure the District Attorney, and After the Latter Had Explained His Position in the Matter at Issue He Complained with Some Bitterness of Judge Archbald's Fondness for Attacking Him.

President Judge R. W. Archbald in court Saturday publicly called District Attorney Jones to task for violating the rules of court by drawing two indictments in a case where one would have been sufficient. Mr. Jones quietly explained his position in the matter to the judges on the bench and then with some bitterness of the judge's opportunity.

There was no mistaking the tone in which the District Attorney spoke and Judge Archbald somewhat embarrassed, said that it was unusual to make a charge of that nature in such a public place. Judge Edwards cut the scene short by directing the dis-trict attorney to call up the prisoners to be sentenced.

Mr. Jones was about to call the prisoners after court opened in the norning when Judge Archbald stopped him and said:

Wait, a minute, Mr. Jones. There is a matter to which I desire to call your attention. I have noticed that in two or three cases that have come under my ob-servation during the past week there is a departure from the rules recently promulgated by court governing the manner in which indictments must be drawn. The cases to which I refer are those in which Honesdale on a seventy-yaru run. Captain Hannahue, of the Lackawannas, charged with robbery. These cases grew out of one and the same transaction, and under the rules of court should be includ-ed in the same indictment. Instead of that you have drawn two indictments. I feel, therefore, that it is my duty to call your attention to the matter, as you are responsible under the statutes to see that the rules of court are properly observed.

EXPLAINS HIS CONDUCT. After listening to Judge Archbald, Mr. Jones asked leave to reply, and spoke as follows: The district attorney of course is responsible, under the law, the same as is Your Honor upon the bench; I have my responsibilities as well as Your Honor. I have endeavored to comply with the court rule in every particular. With one thousand cases to be heard by the grand jury, with the corridor filled with people all clamoring to be heard, I did the best that I could to dispose of the business of this court expeditiously. Instead of the transcripts being filed as they should be at least ten days before the convention of the grand jury, the great bulk of them come in during the week the grand jury is in session, when all these parties are out in the corridor waiting to be heard. A good many of the indictments take more or less time the indictments take more or here to draw, in some cases it is absolutely to draw, in some cases it is absolutely necessary to interview the prosecutors to get the facts in order to draw indictments which would not be quashed.

It is not surprising to me that in one or two cases possibly that parties who might have been joined in one indictment were not. The last grand jury disposed of over one thousand cases. I have endeavored to the best of my ability to comply with this rule of court. In these Pietro and Felona cases on the day the cases were to be heard by the grand the chief of police came and informed me he was only ready in one case; there-fore the indictment against Pietro was drawn. I have endeavored to comply with the rule of court; in every case I have followed the practice of my pre-decessors. Two weeks before my nomination this rule of court was made.

TRIED TO DO HIS DUTY. I say upon my honor to this court I ave endeavored to comply with this rule. If Your Honor were placed in my position, with hundreds of cases coming in, and the prosecutors and witnesses in the corridor clamoring to be heard, probably Your Honor would appreciate my position. During the last session of the grand jury I worked until 11 o'clock nearly every night in drawing these indict-ments. During my term of office the aldermen and justices of the peace have falled to file their transcripts at least ten days before the convention of the grand jury in order that the district attorney might have all the indictments prepared so as not to necessitate wit-nesses and prosecutors waiting in the corridor to be heard day after day; this is not my fault. The proper way it seems to me should be to have the transcripts filed in time to give the district attorney time to prepare the inlictments.

I have endeavored to carry out this rule of court as the indictments which I have drawn during my term of office will show, and I will say to Your Honors here that out of four thousand indictments drawn, probably over one-half of them true bills. I do not think there has been one indictment quashed by this court. I use the utmost care in the drawing of these papers. It is not surprising to me—and of this I wish to make particular emphasis—that out of this large number of indictments possibly one or two or three violations of the rule might have been made. It does not, however, astonish me. We have a very large amount of business. In regard to this case which Your Honor quotes the chief of police came to me and informed me he was only ready in some of the surprised. I have endeavored to carry out this this case which Your Honor quotes the enier of police came to me and informed me he was only ready in one case; the witnesses were clamoring to be heard, the indictment was drawn by my steno-grapher and the case heard.

HE KNOWS THE LAW. It was my intention to make a motion to call that case and make a motion to consolidate the two cases, taking one fee for both cases, but the prosecution of the case was not conducted by me, but came up in court room No. 2. The law, which allows me a fee in each case, I am, Your Honors, perfectly familiar. law, which allows me a fee in each case. I am, Your Henors, perfectly familiar with. The decisions of the couris in county after county have so decided. I have my duties to perform and I have endeavored to perform them faithfully to the people. I work early and late: I have given up all my civil practice and given up my time to the business of the district attorney's office, and I say upon my honor that I have performed my duties faithfully.

Judge Archbold to

Judge Archbald-It was not in a spirit of criticism that reference was made by me to the cases which I have called to your notice, Mr. Jones. In disposing of the cases the matter came under my observation, and as it was against the statutes, I deemed it my duty to call your attention to the fact, The proper course to pursue in a matter of this nature was to have both cases tried together.

Mr. Jones-It seems to me, your honor, that you are inclined to take advantage of every opportunity that presents itself to you to humiliate me before the court. Judge Archbald-Mr. Jones, it is unusual to make a charge of that nature, and in such a public place. Mr. Jones-It is absolutely true-Judge Edwards-Are there any cases for sentences, Mr. Jones. We have some work before us which we wish to dispose of today.
