UNION LABEL BEFORE BREAKFAST. Many "Fresh Air Fund Children" have been received into the families of kind hearted farmers in the rural localities surrounding Schanton for several summers past. One of these little ones to whom every object on the farm was new and fascinating, was discovered not long ago looking with awe and admiration upon a cow placidly engaged in her customary chewing operations. "Landy sakes," exclaimed the small visitor to the housewife as they stood at the farm yard gate where the cattle were gathered, "Oh Misses, what a heap it must cost you for chewin' gum!"

It is a wonder that the crusaders against the nude in art do not make a protest against certain advertisements that greet one from every high class magazine in the country. The advertising pages of such magazines as the Century, Harper's, etc., furnish interesting matter, but about this time of year and particularly this year they are simply swarming with people who emulate Trilby with the slight difference that they have sat for photographs in the simplicity of a toilet consisting exclusively of a suit of extremely well fitting union underwear. Patent medicine advertisements frequently come under the head of obscene literature but surely the pictures of bicycle girls, and others in still more scanty attire are growing to be so startling as to give rise to the question as to where it is all going to stop. Even the holy Ladies' Home Journal where Mr. Bok gives discreet and eminently proper advice to young "ladies and gentlemen" publishes these remarkable pictures.

J. W. L. Brock, who is in this city as the representative of a Yorkshire (England) woolen manufacturing concern, and is seeking to arrange for the establishment of his company's manufacturing plant here, gave a late supper for a few of his friends in the breakfast room of the Hotel Jermyn last night. The guests were some of the business friends Mr. Brock has made here and their wives.

BURGLARS BROUGHT BACK FROM CHICAGO

Are Supposed to Be the Men Who Entered Bogart's Residence.

ALL THE PROPERTY RECOVERED

It Was Sent in a Cigar Box to Chicago and When Bixler and His Pals Called for it They Fell Into the Hands of the Police—Will Be Given a Hearing Today Before Alderman Miller.

Frank Bixler, alias "Shoney Joe," 37th St. and 12th Ave., and Harry Johnson, who are accused of burglarizing the residence of Garrett Bogart, on the night of Sept. 20, are now lodged in the central police station. At 10:20 Saturday morning, in the custody of Chief of Police Frank Robinson, Jr., Detective John W. Moir and Sergeant Robert Deiter, the trio of crooks left Chicago, where they were captured Oct. 16. Mr. Bogart, who accompanied Detective Moir to Chicago last Monday to identify the stolen goods, also arrived with the party yesterday morning at the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western road. The prisoners were taken at once to the police station and locked in separate cells. They will be given a hearing at 10 o'clock this morning before Alderman W. S. Miller, at which office the warrant based on Mr. Bogart's information was sworn out.

AT THE HEARING. It is not likely that either of the men will be placed on the stand. The evidence of Mr. Bogart and the police officers will be heard and the prisoners are to be remanded to the county jail in default of bail, if they are unable to secure bondmen. The burglary of the Bogart residence was the most daring of its kind ever attempted in this city. While Mr. and Mrs. Bogart were absent entrance was effected by breaking a pane of glass and lifting the lock on a rear window. Jewelry and money to the value of nearly $2,000 was secured. The work was done between the hours of 6:30 and 8 o'clock p. m., and was so well executed that the police department suspected local thieves of the job. A most aggressive search was made but with no results.

Last Monday morning the police department of Binghamton informed the local department that a gang of burglars had been captured at Chicago. Among the booty recovered was a ring inscribed "From Pa to Ma." This particular piece of jewelry had been widely advertised by the local department.

WENT TO CHICAGO. Word was sent to Chicago with a list of the articles stolen here, and further information was asked for. The reply came back that the descriptions tallied. Detective Moir and Mr. Bogart left immediately for Chicago, arriving there Tuesday. The goods being identified Sergeant Deiter was commissioned to secure requisition papers and proceed to Chicago for the prisoners. At Pittsburgh Chief of Police Robinson joined Sergeant Deiter, and together they reached Chicago Friday morning. Sergeant Deiter secured the final papers at Springfield, the capital city of Illinois.

At Chicago Mr. Bogart was obliged to obtain a writ of replevin and file a bond in the sum of $3,000. Robert Law, agent for the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company at Chicago, became his bondsman. Upon securing the prisoners the utmost precaution against escape was taken. In the train Bixler was handcuffed to O'Neil and Johnson was chained to the seat. The officers in charge sat in surrounding seats. The only thing during the trip which looked like an attempt to escape was when Bixler, who is the oldest in crime, asked to be released from O'Neil so that he might go into the vestibule. "This was when the train had stopped at a small station a few miles out from Chicago. Bixler's wish was not granted. Several other times the crook made the same request, and always when the train was at a standstill. He was accompanied at each move by one of the officers.

BIXLER'S COMMENT. During all the trip the crooks maintained a discreet silence on the burglary question. Bixler made the only break. As the train was speeding along he suddenly awoke from his reverie and abruptly said to the police officers: "I suppose you fellows will railroad us through when we get to Scranton." Up to this time he had said nothing of the burglary. Detective Moir stated to a Tribune reporter last night that from the time they were arrested and placed in prison the crooks were not given the slightest inkling as to the negotiations with the Scranton police. Immediately upon arriving at Chicago, Detective Moir visited the police station and talked with the prisoners. He did not disclose his identity, however. The crooks did not know of their destination until they were taken upon the train Saturday morning. Moreover, no Chicago paper discovered that the Scranton officers were in the city, although these same papers had announced the arrest of the crooks with much display. The amount recovered, it was stated, was worth $25,000 and the gang had been operating in a dozen cities from Maine to Illinois. Mr. Bogart stated last night that the property recovered belonged solely to him and that no evidence was produced which implicated the crooks in any other burglary but the one here. Several articles were recovered which Mr. Bogart had not missed. Only $18 of the $100 taken was lacking. The Chicago press stated also that John A. Collier, chief of detectives, of Chicago, had brought about the arrest.

STORY OF THE ARREST. The truth is that the coup was made through the agent of the American Express company at Chicago, who is Mr. Bogart's cousin. Bixler had expressed the package of jewelry from New York and addressed it to himself at Chicago. Upon receiving the package the Chicago agent became suspicious of its contents and when Bixler called to claim the package he was questioned. He said the package contained medicine. He was informed that identification would be necessary and left the office, returning shortly afterward with O'Neil and Johnson. In the meanwhile the express agent had discovered, by opening a corner of the package, that packed inside a cigar box was not medicine but a quantity of jewelry. The police were summoned, and when Bixler, with his pals, entered the three were placed under arrest. Lists of the recovered property were then sent to several cities, one of which was Binghamton. The result has been told.

When the three prisoners reached this city yesterday they presented a tough appearance. So strict had been the surveillance in Chicago that the men had been in their cells for eight days without being allowed to shave. At the police station Bixler's only request was for a barber to shave him; O'Neil wanted cigarettes and Johnson cigars. No other than officers were allowed to see the prisoners. O'Neil and Johnson last night made open claims of innocence. O'Neil said he never knew Bixler in his life. Bixler was silent. He is a middle-aged man of a very shrewd appearance. O'Neil is about 35 years old and Johnson 28 years. They will be photographed this morning before the hearing.

WILL TRY TO IDENTIFY.

At the hearing this morning George Jay, the young man who saw a man standing on the porch of the Bogart house, on the night of the burglary, will make an effort to identify the fellow from among the prisoners. O'Neil is suspected of being a local crook. Bixler is wanted at Youngstown, O., for jail breaking.

GRADY WAS BADLY USED

He Had an Altercation with the Bartender of the White House, with Serious Results.

Excitement ran high for about an hour around the corner of Penn and Lackawanna avenues Saturday at midnight. A drunken man, who gave his name as James Grady and his residence, Priceburg, got into trouble with the bartender at the White House, E. J. Phalen, and was bounced bodily and in no gentle manner. Not satisfied with knocking the unfortunate drink-paralyzed fellow to the sidewalk, the bartender fell upon him when he was down and brutally thumped his already blood-beamed face. The crowd which was attracted by the cries of the victim drove the assailant to cover. Two policemen, upon perceiving the thing up Grady took him to the station house.

Those who witnessed the assault were highly indignant at the outrage. Had Phalen put in an appearance it would have gone pretty hard with Grady. The departure of the two policemen with Grady left the locality unprotected. There are two sides to every question and the unrighteousness of the bartender's act was no exception. A colored man espoused the cause of the bartender and as might be expected in that excited crowd he was doing a very indiscreet thing. Every second man wanted to get a thump at him, but after much jabbering and wrangling a compromise was effected whereby the bartender's character was argued it out with a stalwart young man from the South Side.

A ring was formed and for fully fifteen minutes the two combatants pummeled each other in lively fashion. The colored man, who was the worst of it and a companion of his, unable to contain himself longer, interfered. Just then, as a general melee was imminent, Patrolman Neus hurried up on an adjoining beat and caused a cessation of hostilities. Grady, the colored man, the officer with drawn club backed his way out of the crowd and marched off towards the station house. The appearance of the two patrolmen returning from the station house, where they had deposited Grady, caused the mob to scatter and in a very short time there was nothing left to tell the tale of turbulence except blood-spattered asphalt here and there.

FELL INTO BOILING WATER.

Another Little Child Meets Death from Hot Water Scalds.

Another little innocent yesterday met death from hot water scalds, the manner of the accident being much similar to that which caused the death of the little Winters girl in Dunmore last Friday. This latest victim is Eva Lewis, aged 2 years and eleven months, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis, of 2017 Margaret avenue. Saturday about 2 o'clock p. m. the little child with her older sister, was playing about the house. On the floor in the kitchen was a tub of hot water, prepared for the father's bath when he would return from his work in the mine. In romping about the tub the little one stumbled, and before the older sister could grasp her, she tumbled backward into the steaming water. Her back and sides were badly scalded, and despite the strenuous efforts of Dr. W. D. Donne she passed away at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, after sixteen hours of the greatest suffering.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence. Interment will be made in Washburn street cemetery.

CRACK SHOT MURPHY.

New Yorker, Famous at the Traps, Is Here for Shooting.

Edgar Gibbs Murphy of New York city, the famous gentleman trap shot, is in this city and will spend a week or more in the vicinity hunting part-ridges. Mr. Murphy, accompanied by Walter Gibbs Murphy and Elvin R. Green, both of New York city, reached here on this morning's 12:10 Lackawanna train and registered at the Hotel Jermyn. Mr. Murphy's first hunting expedition to Scranton was made four years ago in company with Fred Hoyt, another of the leading trap shots of the country. Since that time the former has made an annual pilgrimage during the hunting season. Ex-Police Patrolman Thomas V. Lewis will act as guide for the present party. They will begin their shooting today and will remain in this vicinity until Saturday probably.

PERSONAL.

P. M. Bailey, of Chicago, is the guest of his brother, Mayor Bailey. Mr. and Mrs. John S. Donnell, of St. Louis, are visiting Gibson street friends. Llewellyn Jones, of Powell's music store, visited friends at Binghamton yesterday. William F. Bramblum, a student at Wyoming academy, spent Sunday with his parents in this city. Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Lillie Farnham, of Nay Aug avenue, to Richard A. Williams, of East Market street. The event will take place Oct. 27 at Miss Farnham's home. Dr. W. H. H. Bull, of Atlantic City, proprietor of the Hotel Eimhurst sanitarium, was in this city Saturday. He was accompanied by Major James P. Downey, of the New York Sun. Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Bullard, of Brooklyn, Susquehanna county, who have been visiting their niece, Mrs. J. W. Hayley, of Green Ridge street, near Jacob Palmer, of Church avenue, returned home Saturday.

REPORTS WERE ALL ENCOURAGING

Indications Are That a Large Vote Will Be Polled.

ENTHUSIASM FOR THE TICKET

Republicans Will Give Their Candidates a Hearty, Loyal Support. Meeting Tonight at Olyphant. Speakers That Will Address It. Schadt Referred to Fahey as a Dub but Afterwards Regretted It—Burke Threatened to Say Things.

At Saturday's meeting of the Republican county committee the reports received were of a highly encouraging nature. Committeemen from all parts of the county were present and made reports concerning the progress of the campaign and the sentiment of the people in the neighborhoods they represented. These reports indicate a large vote for an "off year," and show that the alleged disaffection about which Democratic orators and newspapers have so much to say, will produce a most disappointing crop for these same newspapers and orators.

The Republican voters of the county appreciate the merit of their candidates and propose to give them a hearty, loyal support. On the West Side, notwithstanding the most strenuous efforts to divert Republican votes to at least a few of the Democratic candidates, little or no success has been met with. A week ago the surface indications were that some Republican votes in that part of the city would be lost to the ticket because of the convincing of the men, year after year sell their influence to the highest bidder.

They are men who always have a grievance as a part of their political creed. When sufficient Democratic inducements are offered these grievances are brought forth against individual candidates or the whole ticket as the occasion seems to warrant. This is a bad year for our kind of a Republican. The events of last week demonstrate that if there was any wavering among the Republicans of the West Side it is a thing of the past.

MEETINGS THIS WEEK.

There will be meetings nightly this week in various parts of the county at which addresses will be delivered by well-known Republican orators. Tonight a meeting will be held in Mathew hall, Olyphant, which will be addressed by F. W. Flitz, Hon. John R. Farr, District Attorney John R. Jones, W. Gaylord Thomas and M. W. Lowry. The attendance at all of the Republican mass meetings thus far has been an indication of the enthusiasm of the voters and their earnestness for the ticket. Prominent orators from other counties who will address meetings here this week are Marwood Maust, of Chester, and J. Jeremiah Boyd, of Altoona.

The Democrats have also arranged a series of meetings for this week, and will do their utmost to stir up some enthusiasm. Their last meeting will be held in the armory, one week from tonight, when addresses will be delivered by Colonel Fitzsimmons, Hon. P. J. Dugan, C. G. Boland, Hon. M. E. McDonald, Attorney Joseph O'Brien, D. J. Campbell and others.

All the Sunday papers of the city contained affidavits from the three independent candidates for county officers in which they set forth that they have not received money from any one either directly or indirectly, to stand as independent candidates for the respective offices for which they have filed nomination papers, and they will not do so until the race until the polls close on Nov. 2, 1897. It will be observed that they discreetly avoid saying who bore the expense of preparing the petitions on the strength of which they became independent candidates. They do not say anything about promises of future reward. Still another point untouched on the subject of one of the trio who only became a candidate after he had failed to negotiate a deal with the Republican campaign managers. They refused to consider any proposition from him, and thereupon he became an independent candidate.

FAHEY NOT A DUB.

Ex-Sheriff John J. Fahey and Candidate for Sheriff Schadt were the central figures in a very interesting scene in Democratic headquarters the other night. Three years ago to fill a gap in the Democratic ticket Fahey, much against his wishes, was nominated for probate judge. He ran against Clarence E. Pryor and was defeated. One day early last week Candidate Schadt was in Backus' with several friends. "It's going to be a close race between you and Pryor," said one of Schadt's friends, addressing him, "but I'm afraid Pryor will beat you out." "Well, maybe he will," replied Schadt, "but at all events he'll know he has not got a dub running against him this year."

The story was told to Fahey and he hunted up Schadt at headquarters and proceeded to tell him in the plainest of plain language that he is no "dub," and knew something about the game of politics a long time before he (Schadt) began to play it. Schadt saw that he had made a sad mistake and was profuse in his apologies to the ex-sheriff, assuring him that if he did use the offensive word "dub" he meant it in no disrespectful way.

W. J. Burke caused a sudden change in the policy of the Democratic campaign orators last week. Mr. Burke believes that candidate Schadt slaughtered him in the interest of Demuth a year ago and he has not neglected to tell Schadt and his friends as much.

WAS A BIG SESSION.

District Attorney Jones Had a Busy Two Weeks of Criminal Court.

District Attorney John R. Jones placed 292 cases upon the trial list in his criminal court which has just closed. There were 147 cases on the trial list for the first week which were disposed of as follows: Cases tried, 131; cases continued, 12; bail forfeited, 4. For the second week there were 145 cases upon the list which were disposed of as follows: Cases tried, 137; cases continued, 10; bail forfeited, 8. The total number of cases tried was 258, which is the largest number ever tried in one session of criminal court since Lackawanna county was organized. All the old cases have been disposed of, and many of the cases recently returned by the grand jury. This shows remarkable work on the part of the district attorney. The juries of course were expeditious in deciding the cases submitted to them, which assisted the district attorney considerably in the dispatch of business. Perhaps the most remarkable session of criminal court that he ever had was in the federal building about one year ago, when he disposed of 200 cases by trial with only one court room and one judge upon the bench and without an assistant.

ORIENTAL RUGS AND CARPETS.

We will give unusual bargains in rugs this week. Buy your rugs now and save considerable. Michael Bros., 148 Washington avenue, Mears building.

THE STORY BECAME NOISED ABROAD and the campaign orators thought it well to deny the grave charge against the head of the ticket.

BURKE SERVED NOTICE.

At one of the meetings last week C. G. Boland, while delivering an address, solemnly assured his hearers that Schadt was loyal to Burke, as he had always been to every Democratic candidate. He knew this personally, he said, for he served on the county committee a year ago with Schadt during the campaign when Burke was a candidate. This statement came to the ears of Burke and he went to see Boland. "Now, Christy," he said, "you know you didn't tell the truth when you said that Schadt was faithful to me and you know that I know you did not. If you tell any more of that kind of stuff to the people I'm going to attend your meetings and sit right in the front row and when you tell about Schadt's spotless political character and how he befriended me, I'll have something to say that I think the people will listen to."

"Surely you wouldn't do that," gasped Boland. Boland now leaves Schadt and Burke severely alone when he talks.
