UNION LABEL BEFORE BREAKFAST.

Do you know that Scranton women need less sermonizing on the subject of birds in their hats than residents of most cities? There are few birds in the millinery stores in this town. In New York but little else is given preference on street hats, and the most enormous arrangements imaginable with the shape of birds that never were on sea or land, cover and hang over the headgear of the milliner's victims. A woman came into the theatre one night with what might about as well have been an entire turkey gobbler, in a very aggressive mood, overtopping her head. Everybody behind her groaned at the view of the far-reaching bird, which was surely composed of dun-colored turkey feathers. They didn't suppose that a woman who would wear such a hat as that could be induced by urgent and repeated request to remove the offending object, but lo! when the curtain went up off went the hat and the sigh of felicity that arose from the surprised people in the rear greeted the feathers of the fearful and wonderful bird on the next seat.

Isn't it odd that the people who usually write the most illegibly do the most howling about the way their literary efforts get into the paper. Oftentimes they would have a succession of fits if their work were not published, while nobody else would miss it, but if they find an upturned letter or a minor error in the proof-reading they make loud and long complaints that would lead one to suppose that the irreparable wrong had been done them and the public.

There was universal complaint against the management of the Lyceum last evening because of the Egyptian darkness in which the large audience found itself during the entire evening. There is no excuse for such parsimony at a concert where the scenic effects of the stage do not demand that impenetrable gloom should preclude even the satisfaction of reading the programme. The manner in which people stumbled in and out of that theater in endeavoring to reach their seats or the door was certainly a disgrace to somebody.

Rev. John R. Paxton, of New York city, will deliver his war lecture "The Pavilion of Mars" this evening in the Penn Avenue Baptist church. A recent issue of the Churchville, (Md.) Times says of Dr. Paxton and his address:

Dr. Paxton was a captain in the Federal army, and his audience was composed largely of southern sympathizers and a sprinkling of Confederate soldiers. The audience was bewildered into one by the memorio power of the orator. One of his hearers declared the next day that he felt as if he had been hypnotized. Several of the soldiers said of the lecture, "That's it," meaning that war had been depicted exactly as they had known it. The most striking moment of the evening was the opening of the great struggle, in his native town in Western Pennsylvania, of his enlistment, of the drilling of the troops, of camps and battles. He portrayed the comedy and tragedy of battle in such a manner as to excite great laughter, and to stir the deepest emotions. At the close, James D. Watters, who sat on the platform, shook hands before the audience, with the speaker, and this action of the ex-Confederate created a deep impression. Other ex-Confederates crowded around Dr. Paxton, remarking that they would be glad all the remainder of their lives for having heard this oration. The effect will be beneficial in bringing men of divergent views together.

OAK TANNED Leather Braces The most comfortable and economical method of the workman. Will wear for years. 25c., 50c. and 75c. WATERS, THE HATTER, 303 Lackawanna Ave.

Kohnstamm, George Le Grant, Phil and Arthur Lovison are spending the week at New York city. Miss Kate Reap, of Eynon street, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. D. M. Gillman, in Wilkes-Barre, has returned home. Attorney R. J. Murray, of this city, and Miss Bessie Butler, of Wilkes-Barre, will be married in St. Mary's Catholic church in this city this morning.

JOHN VARETTA CREMATED Fatal Result of a Big Fire at Jermyn. The Victim Had Already Escaped from Another Fire.

About 11:20 o'clock Sunday evening fire was discovered in the double house north of the Delaware and Hudson bridge, owned by the same company. The fire started in the part occupied by Frank Beemrock, and destroyed nearly all the furniture. The other part was occupied by George Leeshuschock, but none of his furniture was saved. Before the Crystal Fire company arrived upon the scene, Foreman Hunter had a gang of men within the building with a small hose. The flames had gained such headway that it was impossible for the fire company to save the building and centered its work upon the adjoining buildings.

At the time it was supposed that everyone had left the house, but upon investigation yesterday morning there was found a charred human body. After inquiry it was found the body was that of John Varetta, one of the boarders. Varetta was a boarder at the Gooch building and at the time of the fire escaped by jumping from a window. After the fire at Gooch's he went to the company house to live. The remains were removed by Undertaker Bartenberg. The funeral was in charge of Poor Directors Soby and Mutton. Interment yesterday afternoon.

TO DYE CARPET RAGS. A Simple and Easy Way to Color Carpet Rags, So They Will Not Fade.

To color carpet rags so they will not fade, one should use the new Fast Diamond Dyes for cotton. There are some twelve fast and special colors, while for wool there are about thirty. All of the Diamond Dyes that are marked fast will make colors that do not fade or crock. It is impossible to get satisfactory colors on both wool and cotton with the same dye, although some cheap dyes claim that they will color a few colors, claim that their dyes will color both cotton and wool. A trial soon shows by ruined goods the falsity of these claims. Take nothing but the original and reliable Diamond Dyes that have been used in thousands of homes for the last twenty years.

HOME OF JONES IS VERY MUCH IN LINE

Olyphant Has the Most Enthusiastic Meeting of the Campaign.

HUNDREDS WERE TURNED AWAY

Hall was Packed with a Crowd that Brought Along Boundless Enthusiasm—Pandemonium Breaks Loose When District Attorney Jones Appears to Address His Neighbors—In the Same Hall on Last Thursday Night the Democratic Orators and Candidates Were Welcomed by a Vacant Gallery and Empty Seats.

Olyphant never had such a rousing political meeting as that conducted by the Republicans in Father Matthew Opera house last night. It was in striking contrast to the one held under the auspices of the Democratic county committee on the Thursday evening previous when more than three-fourths of the 400 seats on the main floor of the house were unoccupied.

No campaign coloring is needed in a description of last night's meeting. To exaggerate it one whit would make it almost surpass belief. Easily 1,200 persons were in attendance and hundreds of others came late, turned away upon discovering that the grand standing room was not available. And of all the meetings so far held it was the most demonstrative in the way of enthusiasm. They came there for the purpose, among others, of showing the county committee that "John R." town was sold for the ticket and when they had finished with their demonstration there was no room left for doubt. It is almost needless to say that Mr. Jones was given a roof-raising ovation.

When the speakers and candidates made their appearance on the stage the cheer that went up from the crowded hall showed that there was unbounded enthusiasm on top and it had the effect of inspiring the speakers and everybody else. The speaker, after making to go off with a dash and a hurrah that would certainly have struck terror into the hearts of the promoters of the frosty affair of the preceding week.

Frank B. Brown called the meeting to order and by a unanimous vote Samuel J. Matthews was chosen to preside. He named as vice presidents, D. L. Berry, W. H. Davis, John Penman, Dr. W. E. Lloyd, D. C. Phillips, Watkin Davis, T. D. Evans, Thomas Weaver and James Pettigrew.

THE OPENING REMARKS. In opening the meeting Mr. Matthews said that the issues were so clearly defined and the result so assured that any great amount of speech-making was unnecessary; a few words would not be amiss if only as a clincher on a foregone conclusion.

He then introduced Fred W. Fleitz as the first speaker of the evening. Mr. Fleitz gave them one of the clear-cut, straight-from-the-shoulder arguments with which he has been turning many weary ones into the right track and bringing dissenting orators back to the fold from which they were tempted to stray by the allurements of the enemy or the connivings of traitors within the ranks. The importance to this nation of the battle fought and happily won, last fall, was dwelt upon at length and then in a manner which left no room for a logical contradiction, it was contended that now as much as then it is necessary to be up and doing as the same question indirectly comes before us. The same issues are involved. The beneficence of the party was shown by many an example, but possibly by none was more effective—judging from the applause—than the statement by Mr. Fleitz on the authority of Paymaster Hissel that the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company paid out more for September wages than for any month in the history of the company.

Mr. Fleitz asked his hearers to particularly note the glaring inconsistency of the local Democracy, which unqualifiedly endorsed with emphatic resolutions the whole Chicago platform and when they awoke to their foolish hardness sent forth to their campaigners binding instructions to avoid all reference to the question of national policy and if asked where they stand have on that there are no national issues in this campaign that local issues alone are concerned. This weak effort to detract attention from the real issue is proving futile, Mr. Fleitz asserted, and on election day its futility will be bitterly demonstrated to those who fathered it.

CAUSED LAUGHTER. In discussing the question of dissenters the speaker evoked an almost unbroken run of laughter and applause by his witty analysis of the subject. In classifying the kicker race he described one branch of the family as those who seek political preferment and when the people neglect to recognize their unwarranted claims, they kick over the traces and put themselves forward as martyrs of an unappreciative party.

There happened to be a man in the hall who is standing but not a successful candidate for petty ward and election district offices up in Olyphant and thinking that the county committee had sent a man up there to give him an especial dressing down, he arose in his wrath and addressed the speaker and everybody else to understand that he could have had any office he ever ran for if he wanted to work for it, or words to that effect. The interruption set everybody in a roar and it was some time before Mr. Fleitz could proceed.

The second speaker was John R. Jones. By actual timing he stood upon the front of the platform five minutes before he was able to make himself heard. There was cheering, more cheering, most cheering. In the midst of his speech he addressed them for a time it was a fight between the band and the people to see which could make the most noise. The band thought it was a winner when the cheering eased down for a moment, but it had counted without its help, for the people were only stopping for breath and as soon as the band quit the people started in again and shouted until they were hoarse. The band wanted to start in again for a finish fight, but Mr. Jones held up his hand deprecatingly and the leader called off his pug-nacious wakin-wakers. After many gestures beseeching a cessation of the demonstrativeness the crowd quieted down and contented itself with shouting "John R. forever," and the like.

MR. JONES' REMARKS. Mr. Jones thanked them most heartily for the manifestation of loyalty and earnest endorsement of the ticket of which he was a part and by way of seconding the nicely put sentiment there was another outburst of wild enthusiasm and above the din could be heard cries of "Fryer!" "Langstaff!" and all the rest of the candidates. All through his speech he was thunderously applauded and when he digressed briefly to refute the slanders that his political enemies in and out of the party are heaping upon him there was a demonstration that betokened that it would not go well with the man who would report them in or about that particular neighborhood.

Just before Mr. Lowry was called upon, Chairman Matthews read the following resolution, which was adopted with a rousing "aye": Whereas, John R. Jones, esq., our esteemed townsman, is a candidate for reelection for district attorney of Lackawanna county, Mr. Jones is very much respected and esteemed in this community, having favored every public movement which had for its object the advancement and welfare of our people. He has always been the highest authority to the oppressed and the poor, as all the people, irrespective of partisanship, will cheerfully attest. We believe that he has political majority here and that this county has ever had. He has been faithful in the discharge of every duty. Honest, fearless in the discharge of his official and personal duties, he has always been true and loyal to Republican principles, and he is of invaluable service to the Republican party.

His political opponents realizing that he is near and dear to the hearts of the people, and that the political signs of the times indicate his election by a overwhelming majority, have and are endeavoring to use every means, however dishonorable and despicable, to stay the tide of public opinion in his favor. We desire the recent attacks made upon him as unfair, unjust and savoring of persecution. Therefore, be it by the Republicans of Olyphant, Bakolety and vicinity, in mass meeting assembled, that we pledge our earnest and enthusiastic support to District Attorney John R. Jones, and to the whole Republican ticket, state and county. That we will use all honorable means to bring about an enormous majority for the ticket nominated upon the Republican county ticket.

THE OTHER SPEAKERS. Hon. John R. Farr, Milton W. Lowry and W. Gaylord Thomas also spoke and were all accorded a hearty reception. The latter two dwelt particularly on the personnel of the ticket. The mention of a candidate's name was the signal for ringing applause, hand-clapping, whistling, cheering and tossing of flowers. The speaker, after the window in a continuous rattle. The candidates voted in the hottest meeting that has so far been conducted.

TRYING TO SAVE CANDIDATE SCHADT

Orders Given to Concentrate on Him and Let the Others Slide.

BOLAND HANDLES THE COIN

Inexcusable Attacks on John R. Jones Have Caused Such a Reaction That Horn Has Been Practically Abandoned to Pay the Freight and Is Therefore Given the Right of Way.

The situation in the Democratic camp has reached exactly the phase that good judges have all along expected. Yesterday orders were quietly given to concentrate on Schadt and let the remainder of the ticket slide. Boland has taken charge of the real work of the headquarters. He is hereafter to be the principal cashier and the fund placed at his command to expend for Schadt is ample enough to attract a rush of visitors eager to share in the grand distribution. This will of course be vigorously denied, and most vigorously by the Democratic managers in the confidence of the Democratic managers know it to be true and are shaping their actions accordingly.

The reaction among the people in favor of John R. Jones caused by recent inexcusable attacks upon his good name has reached such proportions that reluctantly the city hall gang has abandoned Mr. Horn to his fate. It was realized by the Democratic managers that the sheriff's office was the one place in the list that, if captured, would strengthen the Democratic party machinery and make possible hopeful campaigns for the Democratic tickets in elections to come. It was also recognized that Schadt, having thus far paid the bulk of the freight, and being prepared to stand the strain until the end, ought to have the right of way. The plan is, if Schadt is elected, to make Horn once more the sheriff's enemy.

Democrat who has been prominent at the Spruce street headquarters, said yesterday: "I thought at one time that we might be able to get our party together this campaign, but the fool break of the county convention in making so emphatic its indorsement of Billy Bryan and the Chicago platform, and later, the crassest kind of management at headquarters, added to Schadt's unpopularity and the lack of confidence shown in him by the other nominees on the ticket have dashed us, I guess. There will not be a Democratic party in Lackawanna again. I fear, until we get a leader who can lead and be trusted over night. The amount of playing at leadership indulged in on our side by half-done amateurs makes me tired." This man finally admitted, when pressed, that Schadt stood no show.
