SCHANK & SPENCER,

410 SPRUCE STREET.

CITY NOTES.

Today and tomorrow are donation days at St. Joseph's Foundling home.

Tomorrow evening between the hours of 5.30 and 8 o'clock supper will be served in the parlors of the Penn Avenue Baptist church.

The Volunteer Firemen's association will hold a meeting tonight in Durr's hall. A final report on the Wilkes-Barre excursion will be made.

Elisha Hodge, of Archbald, was held under $300 bail by Alderman Wright yesterday for threatening to kill his wife, Frances Hodge.

William Dunn was fined $5 in police court yesterday morning for assaulting a man on Penn avenue Monday night. Patrolman Johler made the arrest.

Vacey Gerish, of Duryea, a miner at Simpson & Watkins' colliery, was received at the Lackawanna hospital yesterday suffering from painful injuries to the back caused by a fall of roof.

E. B. Hall was arrested yesterday for besprinkling the sidewalk near the corner of Mulberry street and Penn avenue. When arraigned before Alderman Howe Hall asserted that he was innocent and was allowed to go upon his paying the costs of the prosecution.

A largely attended meeting of the Junior Republican club was held last night and at which it was decided to go to Dunmore Thursday night to take part in the meeting at Odd Fellows' hall in that place. Friday night the club will go to the South Side and Saturday night to Hyde Park.

The Scranton Clerks' association will hold a regular meeting this evening in their hall on Spruce street. President Julius Abraham will preside and he requests a full attendance of the members, as their is considerable business of importance to be considered. Officers for the ensuing term will also be elected.

Kellam & Conrad, the local agents for the Pope Manufacturing company, have received a consignment of 1898 Columbia chainless bicycle catalogues. The book is a marvel of beauty from an artistic point of view, and is replete with fine illustrations showing both the exterior and vital parts, also the mode of construction of the chainless Columbia. The catalogue is attracting nearly as much attention as the sample wheel which has been and is now on exhibition at the agency, 243 Wyoming avenue.

Marriage licenses were yesterday granted to Henry J. Rosenbaum, of Archbald, and Jennie M. Gesford, of Peckville; George B. Finch and Augusta Slote, of Scranton; Patrick F. Farrell, of Mechanicsville, N. Y., and Anna E. Hennegan, of Archbald; Charles W. McCarty and Ann Hughes, of Scranton; Antonio Fusello, of Pittston, and Emily F. Griffin, of Scranton; William W. Swales, of Peckville, and Esther A. Bonfield, of Scranton; Frank A. Prenatt, of Buffalo, and Oneida Carter, of Carbondale; Charles E. Newell and Lyda Hanawalt, of Scranton; John J. Creedon and Margaret Walsh, of Scranton; John Coggins and Katie Reilly, of Scranton.

EXCITING SCENE AT SMITHVILLE

John Bolandey Lay Down on the Trolley Road and Was Killed.

HIS NEIGHBORS WANTED REVENGE

They Made a Rush for Conductor Coggins and Motorman James, Who Had to Run for Their Lives, Leaving Their Car on the Road--Mob Delayed Travel on the Road for Several Hours.

John Bolandey, a middle-aged man, was run down and killed by a Scranton Railway company's car at Smithville shortly after 9 o'clock last night and, stricken to a frenzy of passion over the fatality, friends of the dead man, to the number of 100, assembled about the body on the track and blocked the Pittston line for nearly three hours.

With drawn revolvers and knives the mob made a vain search for John Coggins and John James, conductor and motorman, respectively, of the car.

The men had to abandon their car and after an exciting experience with the avengers they reached Moosic, over two miles away, by running along the tracks of the Delaware and Hudson railroad company.

The mob, finally, after the first passion for violence was spent, permitted three cars which had been held up, to proceed. The Scranton contingent from Pittston reached here at 12.30 o'clock this morning.

RUN OVER A MAN.

The scene of the excitement was in Smithville on the main road within one hundred yards of the Florence company store and opposite John Fabian's saloon. The road at this point is a level stretch and car No. 116 was making good time to reach Pittston at 9.30 o'clock. On the right of the road is a slight embankment.

The half dozen passengers in the car suddenly felt the brakes being applied and an instant afterward an ominous crunch told that the wheels had passed over something.

The car came to a standstill and Motorman James rushed through the car. Back about ten yards on the track Bolandey was found. His legs and body lay upon the small embankment and his head and left arm had been crushed by the car wheels. He had evidently fallen asleep in the position. His skull was crushed, his arm was severed and he was dead.

The report spread through the Smithville settlement and in ten minutes a dozen excited people had assembled. They saw the dead body and as if by magic the whole populace came rushing to the scene.

A crowd of men gathered about Coggins and James and threatened to kill them. Then, as the crowd grew larger, the shouts for vengeance became more villainous and general. A revolver was brandished by one man on the edge of the crowd. "Kill them! Kill them!" he cried.

THE CAR MEN RAN.

At this the two car attaches cut and ran down the road, a number of men following. They outstripped their pursuers and made the railroad, stumbling along over ties and ash heaps until Moosic was reached. Here they waited until the cars reached them at 11.45 o'clock.

The mob, increased now to one hundred persons, men, women and children, after the escape of Coggins and James, gathered about at a distance from the body and gave vent to loud lamentations and curses. No one was allowed to touch the remains; they rested where the wheels had crushed life out.

Two cars from Pittston arrived on the scene and the passengers, numbering about fifty persons, gathered about at a respectful distance from the clamoring crowd. One Conductor Rozelle, of one of the cars, attempted to force a passage, but the mob drove him back.

The local street car officials were communicated with by telephone and the order was given that the body be looked after at the expense of the company. This news was spread about by the willing tongues of the stranded passengers and had a great deal to do with calming the crowd. They selected Peter Locuta, one of their number, as the undertaker who should take charge of the remains.

JURY EMPANNELLED.

Previous to this, however, 'Squire William Brown had empannelled a jury to investigate the death. The jurors are: Robert Curtis, John Engle, John Fabian, Edward Kelly, John Barrett and John Benedict. A meeting will be held this week to hear testimony.

After the body was removed the sullenness of the crowd seemed to abate and at 11.30 o'clock the cars were permitted to pass.

William Connors, a shoe agent, was one of the passengers on the first car to reach the scene ten minutes after the accident. Mr. Connors to a Tribune reporter this morning said that the excitement can hardly be imagined. "Why," he said, "if that mob ever got hold of Coggins and James they wouldn't have lived four seconds. They were crazed, that's all."

Bolandey, the dead man, was married and is survived by a wife and two children.

PROPERTIES TRANSFERRED.

Pennsylvania Central Company Now Has Deeds of Breweries.

Brewers Charles Robinson, A. J. Casey, P. J. Casey, William Kelly, Michael Hand, James Crogan, Edward Robinson and Philip Robinson, of this city; Peter Krantz, of Carbondale; George Hufnagel, of Dickson City, returned last night from Philadelphia where the final papers were signed transferring the breweries owned by these men to the Pennsylvania Central Brewing company. They were accompanied by their legal advisers, ex-Judge H. A. Knapp, C. H. Welles, Joseph O'Brien and John P. Kelly.

In the law offices of Bullet & Dickson, Philadelphia, the transfer of the properties was made Monday and checks for one-third the value of the plants handed over. While the money from the properties was not paid until Monday the Pennsylvania Central's ownership of the breweries actually dates from Oct. 1.

WONDER HE WASN'T KILLED.

Boy Run Over by a Heavily Loaded Barouche.

Frank Howell, a boy living at 340 South Main avenue, while carelessly romping across Washington avenue near Spruce street, last evening at 7 o'clock, was knocked down and run over by a barouche filled with people.

Although he was violently thrown to the pavement and two of the wheels passed over his left leg he got up with the assistance of Patrolman David Parry, and after a minute or so walked home unaided.

The driver of the barouche, James W. DeLong, an employe of Liveryman M. J. Carobine, of Pittston, was exonerated from all blame by eye witnesses of the accident.

VIOLENT GIRL STRIKERS.

Disorder Follows Their Quitting. Sheriff Called Upon for Help.

One hundred girls employed at the Avoca Silk mill went on strike for an increase in wages yesterday afternoon and when the mill owners refused to grant their demands upon their return to the mills at six o'clock they began to stone the factory.

The crowd which had followed them joined in the attack and before they left there was scarcely a whole window remaining in the building.

The borough police were powerless to cope with the crowd and fearing a repetition of the riotous conduct, today called upon Sheriff James Martin, of Luzerne county, to give them assistance. He promised to be on hand in the morning and will assume charge of affairs if conditions warrant it.

Thirty-five girls refused to join the strikers and should they attempt to return to work this morning it is feared trouble will ensue.

Warrants have been sworn out for a number of the leaders of the attack and arrests will probably be made today.

Last night David Dick, who is accused of being one of the ringleaders of the girls' allies, was arrested on a warrant charging riot and malicious mischief. Some of the girls, it is said, will also be arrested.

ON TO VICTORY.

Every indication points to a rousing Republican victory for the entire ticket next Tuesday. The party's fighting blood is up at last and that portends a Waterloo for the enemy. But no individual Republican should relax his efforts. This is the chance of a life time to rivet and clinch Republican supremacy in once Democratic Lackawanna.

HUMAN BONES FOUND.

Discovery of Workmen in a Sand Pit at Priceburg.

While digging sand from a hillside near the Johnson Coal company's breaker at Priceburg Monday, the workmen uncovered two coffins containing the bones of persons who were buried years ago. The oldest inhabitant thereabouts does not remember ever having heard of that plot being used as a burial place.

The remains had evidently been properly and decently interred and the size of the bones indicated they were those of full grown persons. The bones were all carefully gathered together and reinterred.

THE FREEMAN MANUFACTURING CO.

A Growing Industry.

The wave of prosperity seems to have struck the Freeman Mfg. Co., of this city, at least such a conclusion our representative arrived at after making a visit to the plant of this enterprising concern. The factory here is a branch of the Binghamton Overall Co., both of which are owned solely by Mr. Reed B. Freeman. Together these factories employ over three hundred operators. In an interview, had today with Mr. H. F. Barrett, one of the first board of county commissioners of this county and who now is the general manager of the Binghamton Overall Co., we learn that they now have orders booked for spring deliveries sufficient to insure steady work at both factories for the entire year. Arrangements have already been made to double the capacity of the factory in this city, and fifty additional machines are now being put in. The shafting is now in and they expect to be ready to operate the entire new equipment inside of five days. The company are ready at all times to give good sewing machine operators steady employment and it is a class of work which women are particularly adapted to. The factory is situated in the new Gould building on Linden street, the company occupying all but the ground floor. It is admirably lit and well ventilated and struck our representative as being a model establishment and a great addition to Scranton galaxy of manufactories.

ONE OF THE SIGNS OF THE CAMPAIGN

It Shows the Way Voters of the County Will Act Tuesday.

AN ABUNDANCE OF ENTHUSIASM

Speakers Who Have Addressed the Republican Meetings Thus Far During the Campaign Say They Never Saw Such a Wonderful Display of Interest and Enthusiasm--Old Order Reissued from Democratic Headquarters--Schadt's Lieutenants Paying Out.

One of the signs that indicates the way the voters of the county will act next Tuesday is shown in the enthusiasm displayed at all of the Republican mass meetings. It is wonderful. Not even the great demonstrations for the national standard bearers last year have exceeded those given to the county candidates whenever meetings have been held.

The speakers say that never in their experience have they addressed more attentive or enthusiastic gatherings. At Republican headquarters requests for speakers come from all parts of the county. There are so many applications for meetings now on file that Fred W. Fleitz, is in a quandary as to the best method of solving the difficulty. In another column will be found a schedule of the meetings arranged up to date. The meeting at Dalton which was originally set down for Friday night has been changed to Saturday night and it gives promise of being one of the largest held north of the mountain in recent years.

THE ORDEDS ISSUED.

about the party's platform" were the about the party's platform were the orders again issued from Democratic headquarters yesterday. Some of the speakers were honest enough to say a few words about the platform on which the candidates are running and this news was received with anything but pleasure at headquarters as may be inferred from the above order directing the whole force of campaign orators to fight shy of the platform and the issues it endorses.

Where they will get more money is one of the knotty problems that is causing much figuring on the part of Fitzsimmons, Boland, et al. Schadt is the only one willing to disgorge and he gives up with the distinct understanding that the money is to be used to further his interests only. Most of the other candidates feel they are engaged in a hopeless fight and are averse to getting any deeper into the mire.

Fred Warnke declares that he has nothing more to give and Mathew Norton says he has put all he proposes into a losing game. Koch has several times passed the hat around among his friends to secure the sinews of war and feels that he has played the game close to the limit.

LAW'S POSITION.

When Thomas Law of Archbald, went on the ticket he did so with the understanding that his assessments were to be light. They have been heavy instead and is beginning to seriously object to the strain. Kelly and Horn have had liberal drafts made on them but can afford to pay another assessment better than any of the other men on the ticket say Schadt.

The latter is spending money more lavishly than any candidate who ever run for an office in Lackawanna county. For the last two weeks his lieutenants have been paying out money with an unstinted hand and they are very much sought after by the political heelers and strikers. Schadt's managers say there are several thousand purchasable votes in the county and they propose to capture them if money can do the work. They know they need them and will try at all hazzards to land them.

SUPPER AT HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Over Twelve Hundred Persons Were Served Last Night.

The supper which was held in the basement of Holy Cross church in Bellevue, last evening, far exceeded in results the fullest expectations of those in charge. An approximate estimate showed that between twelve and fifteen hundred persons were served between the hours of 6 and 10 o'clock, and even then about half as many more never got inside the doors. As a proof of the rush of people, Rev. W. P. O'Donnell, rector of the parish, was forced to announce the postponement of the entertainment and the orchestra found it an impossibility to get sufficient space to play in.

The basement which is over 75 feet long and 30 feet wide was a scene of beauty. The decorations consisted of bunting and flags and each of the twenty-two tables was artistically arranged with flowers.

The general committee consisted of the following ladies of the church: Mrs. John J. O'Hara, chairlady; Mrs. Martin O'Hara, Mrs. W. A. Grady, Mrs. M. Hart and Miss Mary Doyle. The foreladies at the tables were: Mrs. W. A. Grady, Mrs. P. Caffrey, Mrs. Thomas Ruddy, Mrs. J. Dougherty, Mrs. M. Reagan, Mrs. D. Mannix, Mrs. M. Gerrity, Mrs. A. Nolan, and Mrs. John Quinn, of section one; Mrs. John Messitt, Mrs. John Lee, Mrs. P. J. O'Donnell, Mrs. James O'Malley, Mrs. J. Buckley, Mrs. J. Cawley, Mrs. G. Hanlon, Mrs. W. Cullen and Mrs. C. Cawley, of section two; Mrs. P. J. Gilroy, Mrs. James Shea, Mrs. W. McDonough, and the Misses Richards, of the centre section.

The supper will be repeated this evening.

Talk

Costs Nothing,

But Facts

Are Stubborn Things.

It is easy to say things in print, to assert that the values offered are the lowest, to endeavor to create a belief on the part of the reading public that there is only one good house in this particular line of business, and that the house making this assertion is, of course, the only one. All this may be done, and is done, in every city.
