PREACHERS WILL MEET.

A meeting of the Preachers' alliance of Carbondale and vicinity, will be held this afternoon in the lecture room of the Presbyterian church at half-past two o'clock, William Vokoleck, esq., of Scranton, will make an address. He will give some interesting facts and statistics that have been arranged by the speaker at the request of foreign governments. The object of the alli ance is to aid pastors so that their work may be more effective. All preachers should feel an interest in the organization.

TRINITY CHURCH.

The services at Trinity church were conducted yesterday by the parish lay reader, Mr. George Hart. The rector, Rev. C. L. Fitchett, is absent upon his vacation. He has resigned the rectorship and his resignation has been accepted by the vestry, to take effect De cember L. No clergyman has yet been called and it is probable that no choice will be made until after the election of a bishop for the diocese. The special convention meets at South Bethlehem, Nov. 9, to choose a successor to the late bishop,, Rt. Rev. N. S. Rulison,

RUN OVER BY THE CARS.

Peter Cerra, an Italian, employed at the Delaware and Hudson coal pockets, was quite seriously injured Friday. Cerra had boarded a train at the pockets and in attempting to jump off at the Dundaff street crossing he was thrown under the cars and his right foot caught between the wheels. He was picked up and taken to his brother's home. Dr. Jenkins was called, and after an examination the man was taken to Emergency hospital. In the evening Dr. Jenkins, assisted by Dr. H. C. Wheeler, amputated Cerra's leg.

PLEASANT SOCIAL.

Upwards of Two Thousand Persons Followed the Remains of James Jor. dan to the Grave.

The funeral of James Jordan of Olyphant, took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from his late residence on Dunmore street, and was attended by fully 2,000 persons. The remains reposed in a casket in the parior, where they were viewed by hundreds of the persons who had known him in life, At 3 o'clock the remains were conveyed to St. Patrick's Catholic church. where the absolution of the body was performed by Rev. John Loughran, of Minooka. Within the sanctuary were Rev. N. J. McManus, of Providence; Rev. T. J. Comerford, of Archbald; Rev. J. J. Coroner, of Forest City; Rev. James O'Malley, of Kingston; Rev. J. J. B. Feeley, of Scranton; Rev. James F. Jordan, of Rendham; Rev. J. L. Shanley, of Dickson City, and Rev. M. J. Millane, of Dunmore,

The sermon was delivered by Rev. P. Murphy, pastor of St. Patrick's church, who took for his text the words "Take order with thy house, for thou shalt die, not live." He spoke in part as follows:

To die is to pass from a lower state of existence to a higher rank of subsistence. It is a coming forth from darkness to light. It is the spreading of the wings of the spirit that were circumscribed by the body. It is going home and he who thinks wisely of death will think of im mortality. We have more friends in the next world than we have in this. When the voice of the Lord came to our friend that he must die, he did not turn and weep with great weeping as Ezeklas did, but he said thy will O Lord be done. I am willing to go bome to that rest that I sighed for from the time I laid my head n my mether's breast, Olyphant is in mearning today. A good man has gone to his reward. He came to this country from that beautiful little island that God blessed, but a nation by its selfishness and lust of power has cursed. He came here in the prime of life to seek those opportunities in the land of fair play that were dealed him at home. He came here filled with ambition, brawn and brain. He at once say opportunities of achieving success, i with a determination of will power, adustry and frugality he has accumu

There is nothing more recommendable to a young man than the virtues of frugality and economy. He was honored, loved and revered by his fellow citizens not only by his success in a financial sense, but for his manly Christian charicter. It is a very poor recommendation n our days for a man to say, he died a millionaire, if he has not left any other gacy to recommend him to the com-unity. In fact it is looked upon as a disgrace to have boundless wealth at death and doing no good with that which was given to him as only a trust. Wealth eft in such a manner is not a blessing t a misfortune and is generally square meathed. It is a just retributive justice of the Lord that such things should hap-en. Our dear friend had the happy faculty and the manly heart of not negling the supernatural interests of ligher nature, while he was wise, visi and and prudent in his administration of his temporal interests.

He was not great because of his wealth, but of his love for his fellow man. He was great because he loved justice and bated iniquity "and the Lord anointed with the act of gladness." He was great because he loved the orphans and widows. the poor and afflicted had in him a father and a friend. He neither closed his heart nor his purse to the deserving poor, and if every one in this valley whom he be-friended could place a blossom on his grave he would rest tonight in his side ill home beneath a forest of flowers.
It was his motto that his left hand uld not know what his right hand did He did not wait for death to distribute his wealth. He did this while living. He was his own executor. He not only laid up treasures on earth but he also had a good banking account in heaven, where thickes cannot break through and steal

He was full of sympathy for his fellow men. Suc-cess in life did not make him arrogant and overbearing. He was simple and democratic in his habits and had no pre-tentions to any superiority because he vas more successful than they were He loved his church, and was liberal in his donations to its maintenance. a deep spiritual nature. He was found not only in church on Sunday, but he loved to be present at the morning de votion. He loved to commune with God before he spoke to man. He found his delight before the tabernacle of God with men. He was a man of action and not of words. The deep is dumb, but the shal-lows murmur, so it was with him. Actions speak louder than words. By their fruits you shall know them.

We all feel his loss, but there is one place that it will be more keenly felt, viz., his home. Our heartfelt sympathy goes at on this occasion to his wife and children. Such scenes are beyond the reach of our human sympathy and we must imis gain. We know that of this our earthly habitation is dissolved we have a habitation made not by hand eternal in heaven. Let us cherish his memory in our hearts and let us remember him in our prayers. Farewell, friend, sleep then in peace, and near future we may meet in the land of the living.
