RETAIL CLERKS' ASSOCIATION.

The local organization in this city of the Retail Clerks' association expeet to welcome the national secretarytreasurer of the order, Max Morris, tomorrow evening. He is now in company with M. W. Burke, the national organizer, making a tour through the Eastern cities. The organization which they represent comprises 58,-0000 members in the United States and is established in all the larger cities in the land. A sick benefit plan will shortly be organized. The great feature now urged is the matter of closing all stores at 6 o'clock. All can understand the hardship of standing behind the counter from 7 o'clock each morning until late at night giving some fifteen hours of service each day. Now that women are employed in stores it is for their advantage that the early closing movement should succeed.

CYCLE CLUB.

The Cycle club gave a complimentary smoker at their rooms on North Church street on Tuesday evening. A large number of invited guests were present and all enjoyed the evenng.

JERMYN.

Mayfield council held their regular monthly meeting on Tuesday evening, McGarry and Williams were absent; Burgess Duffy was present and wanted to know whether or not he had or was to have control of the chief of police. He said the chief had refused to take orders from him and that he was neglecting his duties. He was informed that he had complete control of the police and if they were not doing their duty to remove them at once and appoint others. The committee appointed to confer with Jermyn council in regard to furnishing and putting in lime stones marking the dividing lines. between the two boroughs reported everything in readiness and waiting for Surveyor Dunning. From the Chicago Chronicle. At frequent intervals during the long reign of Queen Victoria statements have been published showing the great loss of the royal family to British subjects, or, as they have now become, British citizens, for the queen is a sovereign only in name and the English are but nominally subjects. Upon her accession to the throne Victoria made the easy concession of all the hereditary revenues of the crown and the proceeds of the royal estates in exchange for a permanent civil list amounting to something more than $2,000,000 annually. These revenues were greater than this sum, but the cost and annoyance of collection were such that the trade for the queen was a good one. These millions are to the queen, but the British people fully, and found them in a short time must, in addition to supporting queen thus handsomely, contribute to the support of the immense number of Hanoverians of the royal house for whom she is responsible. The expense of these amounts to nearly $1,000,000 more annually. Certain of the princes of the blood royal, headed by the heir apparent, are chargeable upon the army and navy as generals, admirals, colonels, etc.; they also have various allowances for keeping up palaces that appertain to their place. In a word, the cost of the royal family to the British taxpayer is large, but, though the matter has been repeatedly agitated, such is the conservatism of Eng-
