(Johnnie) says he is commonly called, says there is no use of other local sports being out now for game, as it will "fall" have to succumb to the winter season. On last Friday evening, Nov. 5, the wife of Commander Capwell, with the assistance of Quartermaster Reynolds and the secretary of Mrs. Sarah Rice circle, surprised the members of Captain E. J. Rice post at the close of their regular meeting with some light refreshments. It being well known that the inspecting officer would be with them, there was a goodly number present. The look of surprise portrayed on the faces of the "old boys" as the ladies entered the room, each bearing a tray of good things well repaid them for the slight effort made. After devouring theainties in a way best known to the old soldier, they were noticed doing what surprised the ladies. As they had never seen men whisper to one another and keep it up for so long a time. As a result of all this they, in return, gave the ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic at the close of their meeting last Tuesday night as pleasant and as great a surprise as had been given them, only they went far ahead of the ladies in their menu. Also in serving and the abundant supply making preparations for seventy-five. You ask me where these "old boys" learned to serve so nicely and so well, and I will answer by asking where were the "boys" from 61 to '65 if they were not learning to serve?

WEDDING AT NANTICOKE. Miss Elizabeth Craig and James A. Glasson United.

Wednesday Miss Sarah Elizabeth Craig, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, of Nanticoke, was married to James A. Glasson, of the same town. The wedding ceremony was celebrated at the residence of the bride's parents, 40 Noble street, Nanticoke, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 9.

The wedding took place at 11:30 a. m. in the presence of a very large number of interested spectators. The bride and groom were both dressed in white, and the bride was especially interested in the celebration of the nuptial union.

The bride was most tastefully attired in a white costume, richly trimmed with lace and ribbons to match. She looked very charming and was greatly admired by all present.

The bridesmaid, Miss Roberts, was also elegantly dressed in white, somewhat relieved with suitable colors. The best man was the brother of the bride, and Master Delbert Craig served as page boy—Delbert is son of William Craig and nephew of the bride. Though a child of only 4 years of age, he attracted considerable attention on account of his neat apparel and his self-possession and general alertness. The bride, bridesman and page boy had each a bouquet of very choice flowers.

The wedding presents, both by their number and quality, show that Mr. and Mrs. Glasson are very highly respected by a very large number of friends.

The bride and groom, and the bride's parents, all admitted of the presents. It is sufficient to say that they were numerous, costly and useful.
