WITNESS CAUSED A BIG SURPRISE

His Testimony Was Not What Was Expected from Him.

GAVE DEFENSE A BLACK EYE

Motorman Walsh, Who Ran the Car Which Injured Miss Gilmartin. Was the Witness Who Disappointed Those Who Called Him--Non Sui

Granted in Case of Lowry Against Wenzel--La Bar Trespas Case Settled Yesterday Morning.

When the defense in the suit of Lizzie Gilmartin, of Carbondale, against the Lackawanna Valley Rapid Transit company, started in to make out its case, yesterday morning, somewhat of a surprise was encountered by Attorney Hand in the first witness he called, Patrick Walsh, motorman of the car which ran over Miss Gilmartin.

Walsh was placed on the stand to combat the testimony of the plaintiff that the headlight was not burning and that the bell was not rung. He did just the opposite. The headlight was defective and would not keep lit, he said, and the bell was in such bad order that it would only occasionally be heard.

Mr. Hand confronted Walsh with the sworn statement he made to the company at the time of the accident and asked him to account for the assertion therein contained that the headlight was burning and the bell kept ringing almost continually. Walsh replied that he told the man who was writing out the statement that he kept pounding the clapper of the bell continually but that it would not always ring and that the man fixing up the statement said "that will never do" and put it down that the bell was kept ringing almost continually.

ABOUT THE HEADLIGHT.

As to the headlight he explained that it was lit as the statement averred but the lamp was so defective that the jarring caused the wick to keep constantly dropping down and most of the time, the instance in question included, the light was so dim that it cast scarcely any reflection, if indeed any at all.

Mr. Hand gave the witness up in disgust and the grounds of "surprise" asked Judge Gunster to withdraw a juror and continue the case. The judge refused to do this saying it would be unfair to the plaintiffs and directed the case to proceed.

Mr. Hand went on to show that the car was brilliantly lighted with incandescent lamps and could be seen a distance of several miles. In his argument he contended that the fact that the plaintiff walked on the track in the face of known danger was in itself negligence and the fact that she was run down was proof she had not exercised care sufficient to avoid that danger. The case was given to the jury at 3:30 o'clock. No agreement had been reached at adjourning time.

Mr. Vosburg evaded up for his defeat by non-suit in the Zurich case of the day before by securing a non-suit in the case of C. W. Lowry against August Wenzel. Wenzel was charged with having disposed of some goods which Lowry had caused to be distrained. Mr. Vosburg raised the point that it was the contending, if anybody, who had caused for action, and the judge agreed with this contention.

LA BAR TRESPASS CASE.

The trespass case of Isaac E. LaBar against the Greenwood Coal company for the burning of some several thousand tons of culm was settled while on trial during the morning.

Miss Rose Tyler, music teacher, of Honesdale, was plaintiff in a case against Judge Edwards, during the afternoon.

In December, 193, while passing along Salem street, in the Pioneer city, she tripped and fell on an uneven place in the sidewalk, sustaining injuries to her arm which prevents her from following her occupation and for which she demands $500 damages. Attorney Burr and Butler represent the plaintiff. City Solicitor Parsons and I. H. Burns looked after Carbondale's interests.

The case of Ada Jodrey against B. F. Killam and others was decided in favor of the defendants, but Judge Edwards forthwith awarded a new trial on motion of the plaintiff's attorney.

Just previous to adjournment a jury was selected to try, once more, the complicated case of A. J. McHugh against Bridget McHugh, executrix of the estate of Richard McHugh, deceased. At the former trial it was decided in favor of the plaintiff.

Joe Bolink received several slashes from the knife across the face as he wrestled with Streitzky and when Stephen Bolink, the third brother, came up the two assailants caught him and as he was swinging around Streitzky planted the knife deep in Bolink's back.

Dr. C. E. Thompson was summoned to the Bolink house and found that Stephen's wound in the back was at a point between the collar bone and the spinal column. The left lung was split by the point of the knife. Dr. Thompson stated last night that Stephen Bolink's condition is very critical, but he is of the opinion that the man's robust physique will bring him back to health.

John Bolink's wound on the hand is also quite serious. It is likely that the tuggeries are now in Plymouth, where Streitzky has relatives.

DAVIS' THEATER. The Current Class of Attractions to Be Discontinued.

Davis' theater will close on Dec. 4, and thereafter no more of the current class of attractions will appear.

On Dec. 12 the house will reopen and a genuine surprise will be offered. Manager Davis says he is prompted to the change because his present business, though large, is extremely distasteful to him.

For Nervous Headache. Use Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

Dr. F. A. Roberts, Waterville, Me., says: "I have found it of great benefit in nervous depression, neuralgia, and think it is giving great satisfaction when it is thoroughly tried."

Wash your dog with FELS-NAPTHA soap. It neutralizes the doggy smell and kills the fleas, use cold or lukewarm water.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES.

A charter was granted the Polish Catholic congregation of Dickson City.

In the case of Elizabeth Richards against John J. Jenu, the rule is to allow an appeal without payment of costs was made absolute.

The rule for an interpleader applied for by the plaintiff in the case of Joseph and Mary McNamara against Patrick McDonald was allowed.

Nov. 29 was fixed as the time for the hearing of the Bennett and Kenough divorce cases. A rule for a decree in divorce was granted in the case of David Williams against Ella Williams.

In the case of Kinsey & Co. against W. H. Tyler and McNamara and Co. against L. E. Tennant, the rule to vacate notice demanding affidavit of defense was made absolute by Judge Edwards.

The judgment rendered in an attachment suit by Casey & Kelly against Anna Kilmartin was reversed by Judge Edwards on the ground that judgment was given after the case had been indefinitely postponed.

The judgment secured by default in the case of the Berlin Iron Bridge company against W. H. Rose for a decree in divorce was struck off, at the request of the plaintiff company, an error having been made in the form of the judgment.

Because it was not shown that the affidavit was in full accord with law, the rule to strike off the appeal in the case of A. J. Talle against William Garman and George Bolt against Vincenzo Casuel was made absolute by a decision of Judge Edwards.

Judge Lynch, of Wilkes-Barre, will come to the city Monday to argue arguments on the rule to show cause why the non-suit should not be struck off in the celebrated conspiracy case of John G. Jennings against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company and some thirty others.

A rule was granted by Judge Edwards to dissolve the attachments secured against William Sheaffer, proprietor of the Bell clothing house, by Max Ernst, Mendelsohn & Swartz, Mack Bros. & Co., Hasinberg & Gosson and Levy, Houets & Co. It was made returnable at argument court.

THREE BROTHERS CUT.

Desperate Work Done by Joseph Streitzky with a Butcher's Knife. Stephen Bolink's Condition.

Stephen Bolink lies at his home in Johnson's patch, Dunmore, with a stab wound in his left back, two inches wide and reaching to the spine. The wound was inflicted Tuesday evening by a butcher knife in the hands of Joseph Streitzky.

Yesterday, Mrs. Stephen Bolink bears a big abrasion on her forehead. Joseph Bolink, a brother to Stephen, has cuts upon the face and head and John Bolink, another brother had a wound on the right hand, made by the same butcher knife which injured Stephen.

Streitzky, the assailant of Stephen Bolink and John Streifnik, an accomplice, immediately after the fracas disappeared. No effort has been made to capture them.

The cutting was the result of trouble at a wedding Monday night when Bolink's sister, Mary, was married to George Kohl. Tuesday night Streitzky and Stefanik invaded the Bolink home. They met Mrs. Bolink in the yard and threw her against a fence inflicting the wound on the forehead.

Proceeding toward the house Streitzky and Stefanik accosted the three brothers on the rear porch and defying them to enter. Streitzky had the butcher knife in his hand and from his pocket he took a revolver. Thus armed the two men began the assault.

The main target was Stephen Bolink and toward him the assaulting party moved. Joe and John Bolink interfered. They had no weapons, but struck out with their clenched fists. The result was that John's right hand came down on the sharp butcher's knife.

Instinctively he closed his hand over the blade and as he attempted to wrench the knife from Streitzky's grasp a long and deep gash was made in the fleshy part of his hand.
