SCRANTON, NOVEMBER 25, 1897.

Newspaper discussion of the gubernatorial problem in this state has evolved another name, that of Hon. Charles E. Rice, prosident judge of the edge as to whether Judge Rice would for one campaign, but for a term of accept the nomination for governor if years or a whole generation. Hence it it were proffered to him; but we cordially place on record our belief that he would adorn the chief magistracy of the commonwealth no less acceptably to all honest men than he has graced the bench.

The nation is full of men who have made great and honorable careers for themselves from the humblest beginnings; just as it is beginning to be full of men who, having had equal opportunity for personal success, have wasted it and now try to blame their failure upon others, It is cause for thankfulness today that there is one country on earth where merit has a free and open path.

Not Yet Out of the Woods.

An analysis of the voto cast on belligerency but of Cuban independ-Nov, 2 is made by the magazine called ence. Spain, having failed to terror-"Money" in a fashion not calculated lize and coerce Cuba with Weyler, and to reassure Republicans. It draws to trick and beguile her with Blanco comparisons between that vote and and Pando, will have left but one althe vote cast in 1896, reducing both to percentages, and the inference we shall soon perceive.

Summarizing its review we note first that in Greater New York, last year McKinley polled about 49 per cent. of of which they have already paid so the total vote and Bryan nearly 44 dear a price. per cent. But notwithstanding Tammany's enormous plurality this year the vote for Van Wyck was a smaller percentage of the whole vote than Bryan received. Inasmuch as it is prepased by the Citizens' Union element to keep up the fight on the regular Republican organization, dividing the forces who in 1896 supported McKinley, the only inference to be drawn from this situation is that the next New York city delegation in congress will reveal a large Democratic gain. In New York state, in the municipal elections, the Democrats upon the whole stood firm while the Republicans split up, with the result that the majority of the interior cities of that state, although Republican last year, have now gone over to the party of free silver, strengthening it materially for the congressional battle next year.

In Pennsylvania Eeacom got only 49.32 per cent, of the total vote, against 60.98 per cent. for McKinley. True, in this state the Democratic percentage also fell from 26.28 to 32.14, but much of this fall was due to the Swallow movement. Here again we find the great bulk of the Democracy standing Princeton by the presence of a tap up for Bryanism while the sound money majority scatters its fire. In Ohio the reaction is even worse. Here the Republican percentage drops from 51.86 to 50.28, while the Democratic percentage rises from 46.83 to 47, a sufficient fluctuation to give the Ohio Democrats double their present representation in ultaneously open the door to evils percongress. In Nebrasia the Fusionites this year polled 52.55 per cent, of the total vote as against 51.81 per cent. for Bryan last year, and the Republican vote fell .04 per cent. In Towa McKinley got 55.47 per cent. of the total vote while Shaw, the Republican candidate for governor, this year polled only 51 per cent., the Democratic percentage rising from 42.89 to 44. In New Jersey McKinley's plurality of $7,692 fails to 10,000. In Kentucky, the Democrats poll 50.01 per cent. of the total vote as against 48.86 per cent. last year, and the Republican percentage falls from 48.92 to 45.21, and so on down the portunity to exercise a restraining inlist. Speaking broadly, the Democracy almost uniformly holds its own as compared with the Bryan vote last year, while the Republicans, thanks to the futility of the notion that virtue is factionalism, indifference and sulking, a negative quality, to be preserved by fall far behind the vote cast for Me-Kinles

On the other hand, if this last desperate effort of Spain shall fail, as we hope and believe it will, then can congress or the president or both in hearty conjunction scatter to the four winds the last vestiges of consideration for Spain and declare, with one accord, the recognition not simply of Cuban of Niagara Falls only a bare precipice with a few insignificant streams of waste the assumption that the course of the administration has pursued the lines just indicated, it is not impossible to reconcile American public opinion to a orief delay, but it will need to be a brief one. In this swift age humanity does not long stand still to let ignorance and tyranny, in death-bed penitence, strive with palsied hands to push back the dial hands.

Spain has lost Cuba through her own riminal stupidity and she must soon ace and accept the inexorable consequences.

Reports have been put in circulation y Spanish agents at Washington that General Gomez is a boodler who will soon sell the Cuban cause out. His record and actions belie the charge, but even if it were true, could he deliver the goods"

Apropos of the Princeton Inn discussion, which yet rages, a Mr. Isitt writes o the Philadelphia Press with evident truthfulness that the moderate indulgnce made possible among students at oom in the now-famous hostelry i utterly venial contrasted with the normous dissipation and robust froliesomeness characteristic of university life in most European 'varsity centers. He argues that the asceticism which would close this inn would simhaps twice as bad.

And that, by the way, is not a bad tarting point for another thought. If the so-called higher education which is supposed to be imparted by our universities is insufficient to fortify the young men who seek it against the temptations of so slight an evil as a carefully conducted bar room, where only wines and malt liquors are sold, and these only to students who have entered or passed the junior year, can its usefulness be improved by the adoption of a policy which would still fur-ROGERS' GROUPS, FANCY BRONZED ther remove from the faculties the op-CHINA NOVELTIES, AND BRIC-A-BRAC rom all parts of the world.
