From Silkman's testimony it dupeared that both men were at the Cryne house, in the central city, and Phillips had with him a turkey. As both men are friends Sillman thought both men are friends Silkman thought it a good joke to spirit the much-cov-eted bird away. He finally sent it over to Phillips' home. In the meantime Phil-lip's wrath waxed warm, and to alle-viate his feelings he decided to cause the arrest of Silkman. Alderman Fidler, after hearing the case, discharged the dant.

Great Break In Cloak Prices

Today we confine our remarks to top-notch, high-grade Jackets, Blouses and Collarettes, but as you know we've got Cloaks, etc., at all prices, and the reductions here spoken of affect every garment in the department. In other words, the price break begins with the finest garments in the place and runs right down till the Capes and Jackets, that sold at say $2.00 or $3.00, are reached and in all cases the new price is far, far below what it was a week ago. charge of Miss Morgan.

In Our Cloak Department

Our constant aim has been to produce as finely finished garments as skilled labor could turn out. Year by year the betterment has been obvious to the most casual observer, and now we think the limit of perfection in tailoring, cutting and finishing has been reached. In a word, if the get up or materials used in the manufacture of the Jackets. Blouses, and we are about to mention in detail can be improved upon, we want to know the how and the where.
