THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Pec. 6 -Although speculators in stocks have sought to in-fluence prices for several weeks by curplises on the contents of the president's message, the actual publication of that document today had little effect on the market. There was nothing in it that came as a surprise, almost every wint having been accurately foretold in detail. Prices of stocks had been advanced to some extent in anticipation of the message, and there was some expectation that its publication would be met by a decline caused by realizing saics. But the market held fairly steady after its publication until a raid by the bears in the final hour which was encouraged by the weakness of New Jersey Central and the coalers. Union Pacific was directly affected by the paragraph devoted to it in the message and declined nearly a point. Most of the day's movement of prices were, however, due to special causes and was marked in the specialties. Total saler were 319,300 shares.
