ministered to him by Mr. Balley when the latter charged him with supporting the Chicago platform. He marvelled that the mouthpiece of the administration had fallen so low. No portion of the president's message met with more hearty endorsement from him than that relating to the civil service, and he warned his colleagues that if they put through a bill in antagonhim to the law it would be vetoed,

Moreover, he said, it was a mistake to imagine that the sentiment of the country opposed it. The law was heartily approved by all except a few "degenerate politicians," who opposed it from selfish motives. The trouble was not with the law, but with its administration by spailsmen. During the progress of the debate

Messrs. Walker and Johnson had consplied with Mr. Dingley and a modifleation of the resolution of distribution was agreed mon. It struck out the words "the national finances, the public debt, the preservation of the government credit." and gave the ways and means committee jurisdiction over all matters in the message relating to the revenue, the bonded debt of the United States and to the treatles of the United States affecting the revenue." The house then adjourned.
