TO BE SENTENCED TODAY.

Abbate Will Hear How Long He is to Stay in Philadelphia. Sentence will be imposed today on Saverio Abbate, who was adjudged guilty of murder in the second degree by Judge Edwards, on Tuesday last. There is much speculation as to what the length of his term will be. Twenty years is the maximum that can be imposed. Van Horn will not be sentenced until next Saturday, if then. The rule for a new trial, granted Thursday, will be argued next Friday morning. If no new trial is granted, sentence will be passed upon him the next day. Others who will be sentenced in court today are Oscar Aronson, assault and battery; Dominick Yankowski, assault and battery; Harry Courtright, larceny; Charles Jacobs, assault and battery; William Tyson, criminal assault; John S. Bortree, assault and battery.

SECURED HIS CERTIFICATE.

M. J. Kelly, County Treasurer-Elect, Preparing to Take Office. County Treasurer-elect M. J. Kelly yesterday received his certificate of election from Prothonotary Pryor and the certificate which he must receive from the county commissioner is being prepared for him. That Kelly will be any opposition to his taking his office when his term begins—Jan. 1—is nothing more than idle rumor. There is no movement to put any barrier in his way, and even if there was it would cause no worry, as there is no question as to his right to assume his duties when the term for which he was elected begins.

LOAN OF $120,000.

Secured to Pay the Board of Trade Building Bonds. On Jan. 1 the Board of Trade real estate company will redeem its bonds to the extent of $120,000 and make 1 per cent. in the operation. The bonds were to have been redeemable on or after Jan. 1. They bore interest at 6 per cent. To redeem them the company has arranged, through its attorneys, Warren & Knapp, for a loan of $120,000 from the Equitable Life Assurance society at 5 per cent. The Board of Trade building is the security.

To Avoid Colds.

In these days of changeable weather it is difficult to avoid colds unless the system is kept thoroughly purified. An essential feature in this respect is to keep the pores of the body open. There is nothing so efficacious in this line of treatment as the Turkish bath. At Purcell's bath house, on Lind street, Court House square, the best of service is always given. The establishment is in charge of experienced rubbers and massageurs. For a gratis cold try a Turkish bath and you will rejoice in the forenoon.

LONGS' BIG STORE WAS INSPECTED

Thousands Visit Scranton's New Mammoth Department Establishment.

WILKES-BARRE EMPLOYEES ON HAND

The Firm Furnished Them a Special Train to and from Wilkes-Barre. Over 12,000 Persons Looked the Store Over and Marvelled at Its Completeness and Extent—Floor Space of Five Acres Contains $300,000 Worth of Goods.

The opening of the new and mammoth department store of Jones Long's Sons was accompanied with great display of interest for weeks, and last night the event occurred. At 7 o'clock the doors were opened and constant streams of people passed in and out of the Lackawanna and Wyoming avenue entrances for several hours. It was estimated that over 12,000 persons inspected the big establishment.

A special train of eight cars brought 315 clerks of the firm's Wilkes-Barre store to Scranton and there were in addition many visitors from the latter city. No goods were sold during the evening, although this morning the store will be opened for business.

A unique feature in connection with the opening and one immensely enjoyed by the seventy or more persons privileged to participate in it, was the inspection of the place by the newspaper men of all the towns from Carbonate to Wilkes-Barre and the excellently prepared wine dinner that was served for them in the store's restaurant. The large party began its inspection on the fourth, or upper floor, about 5.30 o'clock. The six members of the firm combined the offices of guides and hosts.

When the basement was reached soon after 6 o'clock tables were found arranged in square banquet form and the discussion of the dinner began. The menu included blue points, celery, olives, quail, saratoga chips, chicken salad, confectionery, coffee and cigars. The evening was a most enjoyable one and was under the presiding offices of Charles J. Long, the senior of the six brothers.

GIFT FROM EMPLOYEES.

The company had not been long seated when a clerk appeared bearing an immense floral anchor, the firm's insignia, on a floral base. Roses largely composed the elaborate design. J. C. Hawthorne, superintendent of the Wilkes-Barre store, presented the piece to the firm on behalf of the Wilkes-Barre clerks, and Charles J. Long for the firm acknowledged the token.

After the meal had been finished there was a period of speech-making, during which C. Ben Johnson, Dr. E. C. Johnson, of the Wilkes-Barre Record; B. H. Pratt, of the Truth; R. M. Seranton, of the Republican; L. V. S. Richard, of the Tribune; J. T. Richard, an executor of the Handley estate, which owns the building, and Arthur L. C. Hedges, who planned the building, congratulated Seranton and the Longs on a venture of magnitude which would prove of mutual advantage. Toasts were drunk to the firm, the architect, the builder, Conrad Schroeder; "the gay old boy," John Benson, and the Handley executors. A flash-light photograph of the company ended the affair.

The doors were opened to the public about the time the dinner was ended and in a few moments hundreds of persons were on foot in the five floors and admiring the modern arrangements and extensive stock of goods. Bauer's hand was located on the second floor and played during the evening, the open away from the lower floor to the present some facts about the sound to every floor. What goods the store contains and how they are displayed will be ascertained by Scrantonians through personal visits. But the Tribune cannot do more than present some facts about the firm and the building and its arrangements. The six Long brothers, or Jones Long's sons, as they are better known, are, in the order of seniority: Charles J., Bernard, Louis, Arthur, Edward and Harry. The father was probably the most successful and one of the most highly respected retail merchants in the Lackawanna, Wyoming and Lehigh valleys and his foresight, his energy and his integrity, his qualifications which any successful man must possess, have been inherited by his sons. There has for years been the largest department store in Wilkes-Barre. The opportunity was offered to acquire a long-term lease on a building to be erected by the Handley executors in a larger and growing city and they did not hesitate to make the venture.

BIG FLOOR SPACE.

An idea of the magnitude of the establishment may be gleaned from the fact that its floor space if spread over one surface would cover five acres, as much as would be occupied by 55 stores of the average size now located on Lackawanna avenue. It requires nearly 125 incandescent arc lights and 700 incandescent of 16-candle power to light the building. Five floors are $200,000 worth of goods on sale. This big sum does not include show cases, shelving, appliances or store furniture and furnishings. The store's own electric and power plant is now being erected in the rear and will contain machinery for running the elevators and the pneumatic cash system and lighting the place. It will require about 400 employees to conduct the business. This fact cannot be realized from an exterior view of the building or a visit to the street floor but after one has made an inspection from roof to basement and observed the army of salespeople, office employees, buyers, heads of departments and shipping and transfer employees, the number necessary to operate such a business will be appreciated. For its employees, the firm has no rules other than the most ordinary kind, preferring to employ only such people as can be left to their own honor and common sense. This liberality and wisdom is appreciated in the Wilkes-Barre store as attested by the esteem in which the six brothers are held by their employees in their native city. Newspaper men do not permit mention, even in a general way, of the goods on sale. Someone asked of Mr. Arthur Long last evening: "You don't sell locomotives or telephones do you?" "We haven't any in stock," was the reply, "but we can get them for you." This little scrap of conversation indicates the great variety of goods the store contains, groceries, smoked meats, furniture, wall paper, carpets, bedding, crockery, toilet articles, millinery goods, books, toys, shoes—and so on, ad lib. and in never-ending variety.

DEPARTMENT SYSTEM.

Each department is a store in itself and her a head who is responsible to the firm for satisfaction to patrons and profit. The millinery department, for instance, represents in value, appointment, quantity of stock and extent an average city millinery store. The same is true of the cloak, shoe, grocery or any other department that might be designated. Any department is very accessible from the fact that the building does not contain a partition nor a counter except near its four walls. Goods near the center of any floor are displayed in show cases or are contained on racks.

FOR A NATIONAL UNIVERSITY.

Efforts Being Made to Carry Out George Washington's Idea. Few people probably are aware of the amount of work that has been done toward realizing George Washington's idea of a great national university of the United States. For years he talked and wrote about it, and at his death bequeathed $25,000 as a first endowment. But in spite of the recognized need of such an institution, more than a century has gone by without seeing it established.

The plan has had the endorsement of many of the presidents since Washington's time. John Hoyt several years ago presented a memorial in regard to a national university to the senate, and explained what had been done toward establishing such a university. In this document he shows that a great and true university is the leading want of America, that its realization should now be possible, that the hindrances of the early years had almost disappeared. At the last session of congress the committee to establish the university of the United States, at whose request Hon. John W. Hoyt's memorial was presented, brought in their report recommending the passage of the bill providing for the establishment of a university.

This report, No. 429, covers about one hundred and fifty pages and contains information that will be of the greatest interest to those who wish to go into the details of the plan. In order to further the work, a national university committee, composed of the leading men of the United States, has been appointed and local George Washington memorial committees are being formed.

Mrs. Ellen Richardson, Copley Square, Boston, Mass., is the national chairman. The local chairman for Pennsylvania, Mr. William T. Carr, 315 Walnut street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Girard S. Mead, 633 Market street, has been appointed chairman of the Scranton work and is now trying to interest all organizations, associations, clubs, schools and colleges.

It is believed that from all over the country, small and large sums will come from contributors for the George Washington memorial certificates beautifully engraved and bearing a cut of George Washington, signed by chairmen of central and state committees and their secretaries and treasurers, will be given to every contributor as a beautiful souvenir of their contributions. Each certificate will have a coupon attached, which will be detached and forwarded to Chief Justice Fuller, L. D., of the United States Supreme court, for filing in the new building when finished, making a permanent record of every given name, and all the sum given by each. The certificates will be ready for distribution at the December meetings.

RYAN MAKES A KICK.

Says He Was Treated Unfairly in His Bout with Judge. The complaint in an evening paper of Tommy Ryan, who was defeated by Jimmy Judge in Thursday night's boxing contest, comes with very poor taste from one who was as clearly whipped as Ryan. Those who witnessed the bout know that at least three and possibly four times the going spoiled Judge's chances of sending Ryan to hospital.

Ryan alleges that Referee Ed. Coleman permitted Judge to hit in the clinches. There never was a contest when an agreement not to hit with one arm free was not broken. Judge broke it Thursday night—that is admitted—and so did Ryan, but in the case of the former the damage was always done when the men were closing and not after they had clinched. That Ryan is a good, clever man cannot be questioned, but he was against a better man than he was, and under these circumstances his criticism of so good and honest a referee as Coleman hurts the complainant and does no harm to the latter. Allowing a reasonable time for Ryan to secure forty money his willingness to meet Judge again cannot be denied. He has been in the business long enough to know, however, that a challenge without the collateral is bombast and unless he posts a reasonable sum to acquire a long-term lease on a building to be erected by the Handley executors in a larger and growing city and they did not hesitate to make the venture.

POWDERLY'S FRIENDS WILL STAND BY HIM

Ready for Any Fight Against the Senate's Confirmation.

SOME LABOR LEADERS OPPOSE HIM

Among These Is Secretary-Treasurer Hayes, of the Knights of Labor. Alleged That the American Federation of Labor Will Offer No Opposition to the Noted Leader—Much of the Fight is Said to Be on Personal Grounds.

The friends of Commissioner Powderly of the immigration bureau are preparing, in Washington, for any fight which may be made on his confirmation by the senate. They confidently predict that the fight will not be successful, although they admit that a number of influential labor leaders throughout the country oppose his confirmation. Among these is J. W. Hayes, the secretary-treasurer of the Knights of Labor. It is claimed that no opposition will be made by the officials of the American Federation of Labor. It is alleged by Mr. Powderly's friends that the fight by Mr. Hayes and others is on personal grounds. There has been some talk that the Knights of Labor would relax their opposition provided C. J. Corey should be appointed chief of the bureau of engraving and printing, but there appears to be no ground for such a deal, and nobody able to confirm it.

As a matter of fact, it is authoritatively stated that Mr. Corey has withdrawn the application filed at the treasury for appointment. While there has long been talk about a change in the management of the bureau nothing has been decided upon, and there will probably not be for a long time. Mr. Johnson, the present incumbent, is protected by the civil service law, and his work so far has been satisfactory. Any change made in the office would be by the secretary of the treasury and not by the president, as is generally supposed.

A Washington dispatch in yesterday's Philadelphia Press confirms the substance of the foregoing—that the opposition to Mr. Powderly's confirmation will amount to nothing—and says: "Mr. Powderly has been in office a sufficient time to demonstrate his fitness for the place. His administration promises to be unusually strict and with a view to the full enforcement of the laws as they now stand."
