CHRISTMAS EXERCISES.

Little Ones Made Happy at Churches

Christmas Evening. Methodist, Presbyterian Bereau Baptist Sunday schools held Christmas exercises Saturday evening The edifices were handsomely decorated and the enthusiastic little ones enterest heartily into the spirit of the METHODIST The Methodist auditorium was adorned by a large evergreen star, with colorest electric lights suspended above the altar, two large, handsom by tummed and brittlantly lighted Christmas trees and other arrists creations. An interesting programme of must and recitations was carried out. Superintendent J. M. Alexander presided and Miss Ida Snyder acted as accompanie at the plane. Among the very enjoyable numbers were a recitation by Rex Myers, a vocal solo by Min Frank, address by Homer Smith, recitation by Jennie Pengelly, recitation by Lucy Robinson and recitation by Robert Menker. Then the children were delighted by the presentation of gifts.

BEREAN PAPTIST.

BEAUTIFUL PLAY.

Charming Presentation of "Friend

Fritz" Christmas Day. Carbondalians could find no fault charmingly presented at the Grand Opera house Christmas afternoon and exeming by Markon Marko vening by Marion Manela and John Mason and company. The marinee was not largely attended, but the vening performance was witnessed and listened to by a good sized audience which responded freely to the climax-Manola is one of the sweetest singers ever heard in the city. She has a voice of remarkable power, purity and scope and she sings with grace and care. Her dramatic work in delineating the innocent country maiden was consumately artful in that her naturalness eclipsed her avi.

Mason sang in the voice and with delighting finish. His dramatic efforts were effective. The bright purticular stars were surrounded by luminous satellites, among whom was Ade laide Uldom, a perfect Venus in figure, Sol Aiken did some very elever acting as a rabbi suffering an attack of 'matrimerimania." According to the lines he will be very unhappy in heaven be-cause in the Heavenly Kingdom there is no marriage ner giva in marriage,

Alsace-Lorraine is the scare of the piece and the costumes and stage auttings were in perfect harmony with the custom of the coveted provinces.

The Manola - Mason aggregation should be warmly greeted wherever it appears.

TONIGHTS PLAY.

One of the greatest theatrical suc cesses of this seazon is William Gill's comedy, "My Boys," in which those popular coincidans, Richards and Canfield, are starring. The piece is said to be exeruciatingly funny without resorting to horse play, but replete with the wittlest of dialogue, and the funniest and most complicating situa-tions, Music of the catchiest order has been supplied, so much so in fact, that at times the piece is said to take on an air of comic opers. The costumes and stage accessories are reported as being most elaborate. The piece will be presented in this city at the Grand Opera house tonight.

IMPROVING THEIR PROPERTY.

The Palace Creamery proprietors are gradually effecting a big improvement and materially increasing the valuation of their property, corner Church street and Salem avenue. In a few days they will have completed a twelve foot cellar under their entire building. They have put in a forty horse-power boiler and will shortly have a thirty-five horse-power engine in operation. Then they will make their own electric light again and their business place will assume its old time brilliancy.

ONE EXCEPTION.

With one exception everybody was pleased with Christmas weather, it was cold enough and clear enough, but there wasn't quite snow enough to satlefy the liverymen. Some attempts at sleigh riding were made, but the mantle of white was a little too thin. fall of four inches of snow Friday night would have neited the local liverymen a thousand dollars.

Cleaning-Up Time

Has come-with it, cleaning out time here. The rush and crush of Christmas shopping, and the multitudes of buyers played havoc with the great stocks here. Almost like a prairie fire, they swept through this big store, leaving hardly a semblance of gift articles in their wake. Yet, there are always some few things which escape customers' attention; thus we find ourselves with little lots of this thing, and that thing, which must go-and at once.
