POST-CHRISTMAS AFFAIRS.

Occuring at Several West Scranton Churches Last Evening.

An informal gathering of the members of the Washburn Street Presbyterian Sabbath school was held in the lecture room of the church last night. In a sense it was the observance of the Christmas time though following the day itself. Joseph.A. Mears was chairman of the evening's exercises and was assisted by Professor D. A. Stone, superintendent of the school. The first part of the evening was spent in the carrying out of a short and appropriate pro-There were recitations by the Misses Lillian Tewksbury, Ethel Bevan, Edith Lindabury, Margaret Powell, Ethel Jones, Helen Bauer, Olive Rambold, Eva Weisenfluh, and Jessie Miller, The Misses Bertha and Mabel Colvin sang a duet, and solos were given by the Misses Margaret Phillips and Olwen Jones, and songs by the members of the primary department, Then Santa Claus, in the person of C C. Batenberg, appeared, and, to the happy little children, boxes of sweets were distributed. The older ones received their share later.

Although Santa Claus did not visit the members of the Sabbath school of St. David's Episcopal church, there were small gifts from him to be distributed, and it was done in the lecture of the church by the teachers. Devotional exercises were conducted previous to the distribution, consisting of ritualistic work and the singing of hymns and carols. The services were in charge of Rev. E. J. Haughton, rector of St. Mark's church, Dunmore, Frazer with a set of articles for use on a library table comprising a desk calendar, pen tray and paper knife. The beautiful cantata, "The Story of the Star," was repeated last evening at the Sumner Avenue Presbyterian church for the benefit of the many who could not see it Friday evening, when was first given. The members of the Band of Hope were much better than at their first attempt. Chorister Bezaleel Davies was in charge, and Mrs. John L. James acted as accompanist.
