The others were only slightly injured. It was amounted today by the assigness of the Chestnut Street Trust and flaving Fund company, who are cettling the affairs of that institution. and the Chestnut Street National bank and William M. Singerly, that the assents to the plan proposed by them will close on Jan. 8. The creditors and depositors are still signifying their willingness to the plan proposed, the reptance of stock in the Record Pub-Hishing company, and should sufficient assents be obtained by the time above mentioned, nothing will stand in the way of the plan becoming operative at that date. Bank Examin r Hardt is of the opinion that all can be arranged by that date, and says that there are only two ways in which the bank's affairs can be would up, by a receivership, which will be very costly and require many years, or by assent to the acceptance of stock, which will probably not take over one year to settle all claims without a loss to the depos-

Region Where the Very Dust is of a Cleansing Nature.

From the Pail Mall Gazette. Furtunate Islands, the ancients called them. What measure of good fortune they associated with cleanliness is, indeed, uncertain. From the duration and elaboration of their baths one might presume that the Romans-not the holy, but the pagan Romansplaced it at least a degree above god-liness; yet some influence surely must have traversed the law of heredity, for they scarcely seem to have transmitted this disposition to their posterity.

Whether, however, the title of Fortunate, given to these islands, had or had not a reference to this quality. which we place proverbially only next to godliness, the quality itself is strik-ingly conspicuous. The islands had other names. The Hesperides is the most familiar of them, and in Teneriffe the original "dragon" tree may be seen beneath which that sleepless dragon coiled himself who acted as watchdog for the maidens guarding the golden apples. Today we call 'golden applea" oranges-in the language of the country, narangas. We have changed the name of the islands, too, and call them the Canaries, No canary birds seem to live in them, however, and there is a notion that the name is derived ultimately from "cans," the dogs, especially those of the island of Lanzerote, the most easterly, being famous. The flora of the islands is sub-tropical, with palms (is not the chief town of the Grand Cunary Las Palmas 7), bananas, eucalyptus, cactus, and the aforesaid "golden apples." Luxuriant vegetation is the glory of Teneriffe; a climate equable is pommon to them all, but Grand Capary is especially blessed in its described and fresaness. At Orotava is more grandeur of gardens and spacious hotels; at Las Paimas, facing he northeast trade winds, is the con-A Brideg oom of Two Weeks in Jail Frant fresh breeze of the sen, accomdesired, and the quality of cleanliness in its saperlative degree. Where all is so dry it is difficult to be dirty, and a positive triumph of innate instincts over circumstances on the part of the proletariat that so many of them continue to be fifthy. The Englishman may even be astonished at their dirt. as he will be astonished at his own cleanliness. The astonishment is the grenter because the place is pervaded by a fine dust. very properly applied just now to the threatened war in Europe. The first beneficial results of the outbreak to the American farmer are up-parent in the great demand for horses in the European parkets. It is making itself felt on this side already, and almost every steamer which left here for European ports during the past scek carried an equine contingent. In Cermany especially the demend for horses suited for cavalry and artillery purposes is unusually great.

The North German Lloyd steamer Muenchen, which will sail on Thursday next for Bremen, takes twenty horses and thirty mules, all consigned from Jasper, Ind., by one dealer, who ccompanies the animals to Germany. where he will put them on sale. steamer Crefeld, which arrived at Bremen yesterday, had forty horses on board for the German market. American farmers do not yet appear to thoroughly appreciate the advantages offered for the sale of horses in Europe, but it is probable, should a European war break out, they will speedily recognize the opportunities offered and may be looked for. The average price for a good strong horse, suited for military uses, in the western states is about $20. The freight is something like $15. They can be shipped from here to Bremen for about $20, and a low price there is about $100. The freight to Liverpool is much less, and in case England is embroiled in a European war, it is probable the market for horses there will be very high.

method of embarking horses on a steamship the process is a very interesting one, and may be witnessed at the steamship piers at Locust Point any day henceforward, as horses are seing shipped to Europe almost daily. The stall in which the horse makes his transatlantic journey is a portable iron cage-like structure. This is lifted from the ship by a crane, and while it rests on the pier the equine is led into it and secured firmly. Then the stall is lifted back into the whip, and placed in the position it will occupy antil the steamer arrives at its destination. Then it is taken out by the same process, and the expatriated quine is permitted to prance about on
