PASSION PLAY ILLUSTRATED. To Be Given by Lecture and Stereopticon at the Y. M. C. A. Rev. J. J. Lewis, of Chicago, will appear in his great lecture on the "Pas-sion Play of Oberammergau," tomorrow at the Young Men's Christian association. This lecture is the fourth number of the Standard Course, Patrons should make a special effort to hear this intensely interesting lecture, on a subject admittedly wonderful, universal, and which has an unparalleled influence on moral and national

The dissolving stereopticon views used as illustrations enable one to understand more clearly the different acts, as they are supposed to have occurred in the wonderful drama of the Crucifixion of Jesus Christ. A comment made by a noted Boston clergyman, Rev. Dr. Bowers, shows what may be expected of the lecture. He says: "The Passion Play has none of the accessories of a theatrical performance. It is simply a marvelous representation of the most remarkable series of events in the history of human-

WEDEMAN STILL WORKING Van Horn's Counsel Striving Hard to

Save His Neck. L. P. Wedeman, one of the counsel or George Van Horn, vesterday seured permission from Judge Archbald to take and present depositions of newly discovered witnesses for the de-

One of the witnesses is a fireman who was employed at the Nay Aug engine house, and who, it is claimed, talked with Van Horn in the engine house shortly before the latter went over to the Wescott cellar on the evening of the killing.

It is proposed to show by this witness that Van Horn did not sneak over to the Wescott house, but openly admitted his purpose was to go there meet Mrs. Wescott, which, it is claimed, is not the likely act of one contemplating murder.

By another witness, Frank Sweeney, a hatter, who knew Van Horn well, it is intended to prove that Van Horn was working in a cellar at the corner of Linden street and Oakford court on the day of the killing; that a woman answering Mrs. Wescott's description brought him a lunch at noon, and that along towards evening this same woman came to the cellar and spent some time talking to Van Horn. Another witness, Thomas Howley, mployed at the rolling mill, will, it s claimed, corroborate Sweeney's testimony. These witnesses were known of at the time of the trial, but Van Horn, it is claimed, could not remember their

ACT OF HEROISM BY A MINE ENGINEER

Threatened by Fire and Dynamite He Sticks to His Post.

HE RISKED HIS LIFE FOR OTHERS

InaBurning Head-H ouse Containing Dynamite and Exploding Fulminating Caps, Engineer Williams Hoisted Twelve Men Up the New Cox Shaft of the Newton Cont Company, at Pittston .- Flames Were Finally Quenched by the Pittston Fire Department.

One of the most herold rescues in the recent mining history of this region was performed yesterday by Thomas Williams, the hoisting engineer at the head house of the Newton Coal company's new Cox shaft at Pittston With the head house aflame and containing a large quantity of dynamite, Williams stuck to his post and hoisted up the shaft twelve men who were threatened with the annihilation or suffocation that might have followed it the dynamite had exploded, or if the flames had spread to the shaft.

The head house is divided into three apartments, one of which at the real contained several boxes of dynamite and a large quantity of fulminating caps. The fire in the head house was discovered about 8 o'clock, and a city alarm quickly sounded. Access to the part of the structure containing the dynamite was cut off by the flames which quickly spread to nearby build-

Engineer Williams signalled to the twelve of them. Williams did not rethe carriage or on their arrival at the sufficient in quantity to wreck everything in its vicinity.

CAPS WERE EXPLODING.

The signal came that the men were Meanwhile the fulminating aps, which were stored next the door leading to that part of the structure in which the flames were raging, had begun to explode. Williams alone knew of this fact. He knew, also, that if a concussion from the caps or a spark from the fire reached the dynamite he would be blown to atoms, along with the hoisting machinery, and which would mean certain death to the men if the carriage was in transit.

With grim death at his shoulder, Williams staid by the machinery. Probably the carriage never made such a fast trip to the surface and never before did the engineer live a lifetime in a few minutes. However, the carriage finally appeared at the opening, which, by this time, was a mass of flame and smoke, and the rescued men and engineer were able to seek places of

The Pittston fire department had responded quickly to the alarm and came to the aid of the mine employes, who had been trying to quench the flames with the insufficient means at their command. The fire in the head house was quenched and the adjoining struc-tures saved, but not until after the blaze in the former had communicited almost to the boxes in which the dynamite was stored.

MAYOR WANTS $7,707.

For Some Much Needed Improvements in the City Hall.

Another of the increased city estimates being submitted daily to the city controller for presentation to councils was one of yesterday from Mayor Bailey under the established head of 'maintenance of city buildings and grounds." It was as follows:

Tiling of city hall corridors and improvements to building ....... $4,000 One janitor at $50 per month ...... 720 Three janitresses at $25 ..... Heating as per contract ...... 1,337

Repairs of building and grounds... 1:50 $7,707

The total is $4,150 in excess of the amount appropriated last year, $3,557, for this purpose. The sum of $4,000 asked for tiling and improvements is meant to cover renovations which have for several years been needed about the city hall. The corridors in their present state are a disgrace to a building so splendidly appointed in other particulars, but it is extremely doubtful if the estimates committee will be able to provide for the improvements

BAUER'S BAND CONCERT.

Rush for Seats Began Yesterday and Continued Throughout the Day.

There has been an unusual demand for seats for Bauer's band concert at the Lyceum tomorrow night. The sale began with a rush at the box office at 9 o'clock yesterday morning and continued steadily during the day In order to afford every possible facility for hearing the concert the committee has decided to keep the gallery price down to 25 cents. Some good seats remained unsold in all parts of the house last night, but all will undoubtedly be engaged during today.

CORBETT IS DELERIOUS.

Police Station Prisoner the Victim of Too Much Liquor.

William Corbett, arrested in South Scranton last Sunday for drunkenness has, since his detention, been a sufferer from acute delirium tremens at police headquarters. His condition, instead of improving, has become more serious, and yesterday the police were considering the advisability of send ing Corbett to the Lackawanna hospital for treatment. At the hour of going to press he was raving madly in his cell. His catch-words are "Whea!" "Git up!" Corbett used to drive a beer wagon. The halfcrazed man has not eaten a bit of food since his incarceration. He has visibly wasted away in strength.

Corbett was arrested some weeks ago in company with James Murray for drunkenness. Murray is the man who, at the time, gave the police so much trouble. He, it will be remembered, viciously attacked Patrolman Sartor, and the latter was forced to use his club so vigorously that Murray was taken to the Lackawanna hospital to have his wounds dressed. While making the return trip to the police station Murray made an unsuccessful attempt to escape from Patrolmen George Jones and Bloch. He was fined $10 in police court the next day.

Yesterday Murray called at police headquarters to see his friend, Corbett. He wore a skull cap to cover the wounds on his head.

As the result of an exciting runaway experience, William Jones, of 1337 Sanderson avenue, is lying at the Lackawanna hospital suffering from a dislocated shoulder, scalp wounds and bad contusions. His young son, who was with him at the time, was also severely shaken up and bruised, Neither of the injured persons are in danger. The horse took fright and started to run away on Linden street, near the bridge, shortly before noon yesterday. The elder Jones, who was driving, lost the reins in some manner and the animal, feeling no restraint, dashed madly up Linden street. At the corner of Penn avenue the horse veered suddenly into the curb and the vehicle to which he was attached collided with a telegraph pole. The shock shattered the buggy and hurled Mr. Jones and his son to the The horse, freed from the ground. buggy, dashed on up Linden street, but was captured on Washington avenue. Mr. Jones was taken to the Lackawanna hospital and his son went to his Six Olyphant men, members of the vigilance committees which conducted or "was"—the recent Democratic primaries in that borough, were arrested yesterday on a general charge of fraud. The prosecutors were ex-Representative Loftus, who was an unsuccessful candidate for the nomination for justice of the peace, and P. F Dempsey, who failed to win for councilman in the First ward.

These men, under oath, allege that James Casey, P. J. Farrell, Thomas Reddington, John Fadden, Joseph Kelley and Michael Hastings, members of the vigilance committee, did several unlawful deeds in their conduct of the primaries. In the information sworn out yesterday before Alderman John Howe, of this city. Loftus and Dempsey refer to a dividing up of the ward, the work of the committeemer which, they allege, was unlawful, Other charges are "false returns," "destroying ballots," "false count of voters," and a general conspiracy to

The story of the prosecutors is that after taking in the ballots the vigilance committees threw them out of the window and otherwise playfully abused their solemn trust. Loftus got seventeen votes in the ward, while his opponent, Martin Cannon, was given something like 140 on the tally sheets For purposes of evidence Loftus, after the primaries, went about the ward and, he says, counted over fifty

NEW DESK SERGEANT. One May Be Required for the Center

Street Station. A permanent desk sergeant will be located at the remodelled police station in Centre street, when the place is reopened Feb. 1 for the reception of prisoners. It is known that the police authorities favor the idea. The only obstacle is the appropriation from councils requisite to the employment of a patrolman to take the place of the patrolman, who, it is said, will be promoted to the new position. Chief of Police Robling to a Tribune reporter yesterday said: "The matter has not been definitely decided upon. In the present estimates to councils have made an item for ten additional officers. The creation of the new position will depend largely upon the treatment of this item Chief Robling thinks that a permanent man at the new station will be necessary. For a while, the chief stat-ed, the station will be in charge of men selected from the force. If, as is expected, the work at the station warrants an additional outlay the sergeant will be made permanent.
