EVIDENCE FOR VAN HORN Its Relevancy, However, Is Not as Yet Apparent.

The depositions of Frank Sweeney and Eugene Moyer, two of the newly discovered witnesses for the defense in the Van Horn murder case, were taken Saturday afternoon in the grand jury room by J. M. Schoch, the commissioner appointed for that purpose by Judge Archbald.

Sweeney testified that he was a hostler in 1920, employed at Van Store's livery on Oakford court. This is just to the rear of the Spover building on Franklin avenue, the cellar of which at that time was in course of excavation.

Van Horn was employed in the cellar as a laborer and was well known to the witness. On the day of the murder or possibly the day before, the witness saw Van Horn come out of the cellar and meet a woman at the corner of Linden street and Oakford court.

They talked together for a long time. Again, at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, he saw Van Horn talking with this same woman at the Spruce street intersection of Oakford court.

The witness did not know Mrs. Westcott and therefore could not say it was she whom he saw talking to the murderer.

Moyer, the other witness, testified, simply, that on the evening of the murder a young man whose name he does not recall, came to the old Navy Aug Engine house on Spruce street and told him that George Van Horn was in the new engine house. He went over there but could find no trace of the murderer.

This testimony, together with that of several other witnesses, whose depositions are to be taken later, will be submitted to Judge Archbald as additional grounds for the granting of a new trial.

FOUND DYING ON OLYPHANT FLATS

Pencil Peddler Murdered by Persons as Yet Unknown.

DEAD MAN NOT IDENTIFIED

He is Supposed to Be Patrick Caffrey, of the South Side—Although Not Identified, the Police of That Part of the City Say the Description of the Murdered Man Tallies Exactly with That of Caffrey.

A one-armed man, a pencil peddler, of middle age, was found dying on the east bank of the Lackawanna river, near River street, Oliphant, yesterday morning.

Who he is, or was, has not been fully decided upon, but from the investigation made by the Tribune last night it is believed that the murdered man was Patrick Caffrey, who made his home with a brother on Cherry street, South Scranton.

The descriptions of Caffrey and of the dead man tally to a dot. County Detective Leyshon, who was at work on the case yesterday, had the name as John Roach, also of South Scranton. By this name he was known in Oliphant.

The name of Howley Jordan was also mentioned by persons who saw the body at Sweeney's undertaking place in Oliphant. The man also had his left arm amputated. He lived on the Diamond flats.

The only definite facts about the affair, however, are that the man was murdered. The suspected persons are Thomas Bochinsky and other companions who, it was learned, had been drinking with Caffrey Saturday night.

ALMOST DEAD WHEN FOUND. Caffrey was found not far from Bochinsky's house in what is known as Oliphant flats. Two young men, James Wheeler and Jesse Morris, were passing along River street, Oliphant, yesterday morning, when they came upon the half-lifeless body.

They at first thought the man to be drunk but on closer approach found blood stains on his clothing and gashes in the left temple. The man was breathing faintly.

A carriage was secured and Caffrey taken to the borough council rooms. There he died at 10 o'clock without recovering consciousness. Dr. F. G. Van Sickle was in attendance but could do nothing to prolong his life.

Coroner S. P. Longstreet was notified and went at once to Oliphant. The autopsy showed the vital organs to be in fair condition of health but when the skull cap was removed—under the two external wounds of the left temple blood clot upon the brain were discovered, showing that death was caused from the rupture of blood vessels, the result of concussion. The skull was not fractured. A jury was empaneled to act upon the evidence to be submitted by County Detective Leyshon at a meeting Wednesday night.

When the county detective reached the scene last night it was learned that the dead man had been seen in the company of Thomas Bochinsky at his house. Bochinsky and his companions had been "rushing the growler" repeatedly during the night and Caffrey drank with them. Bochinsky, when interviewed, stated that Caffrey was not in his house. He and two companions were coming home from a ball at 4 o'clock yesterday morning and saw Caffrey lying on the road.

"We went up to him," said Bochinsky, "and tried to make him get up. He was drunk, you know, and he wouldn't get up, but wanted to fight us, so we left him on the road."

COUNTY DETECTIVE'S OPINION. County Detective Leyshon is of the opinion that the murder was committed when Caffrey rebelled against his disturbers. No arrests, however, were made last night.

Mike Linchoc was another man who claims he saw Caffrey lying on the road. This was at 7 o'clock Saturday night. He did not disturb him. It was learned that Caffrey had been selling pencils at the pay car at Johnson's colliery yesterday. When the wearing apparel of the dead man was searched no pencils were found. There was 22 cents in money. The man had visited several Oliphant saloons after the pay car left. One was Michael Heavey's, in Hakeley. He was quite well known throughout the region by the name of "Roach." John Murray, an Oliphant man, recognized the body as that of a man who three weeks ago entered his house. When Murray came in afterward he thought it was his father.

When the elder Murray came in afterward he thought the sleeper to be his son. So "Roach" was permitted to sleep undisturbed until morning.

The description of the body, as given by Coroner Longstreet, is as follows: About 40 years of age, short, heavily built, smooth face, light hair, thin with gray, nearly bald, blue eyes; left arm missing three inches from the shoulder. The South Scranton police, when given the description last night, said it tallied exactly with that of Patrick Caffrey. He was well known in that part of the city. The identity of the man, however, will not be certain until he is recognized by relatives.

The coroner's jury consists of Dr. F. G. Van Sickle, John McAndrew, M. W. Cummings, Sr., M. W. Cummings, John Murray and Patrick Cusick. They will meet Wednesday evening at Squire Cummings' office to take testimony.

IS IT JUDGE OR RYAN?

Winner of Next Week's Bout to Be Matched with McKeever.

There is money in sight and an opportunity toward greater pugilistic fame offered the winner of the 20-round boxing contest between Jimmy Judge, of this city, and Tommy Ryan, of Philadelphia, in Music Hall next week Wednesday night.

The winner will be matched for 15 rounds with Charley McKeever, of Philadelphia, the bout to be decided Feb. 21 before the Palace Sporting club of Trenton, N. J.

The Palace club's building seats over 4,000 persons and star bout men get a 50 per cent. division of the gross receipts. It has been Judge's wish to get matches with some of the good ones and now he has the opportunity. If he wins his Scranton contest with Ryan a huge sum awaits him if he can beat McKeever.

Judge and Bobby Dobbs, who have been training together at Nanticoke, are in Trenton today. Tonight at the Palace club Dobbs will box Jack Fox. If Dobbs beats Fox the former will be matched against "Kid" McParland for a guarantee of $1,000, the bout to be decided before the Palace club the last week in February. On Feb. 7 before the same club Tommy White, of Chicago, and Billy Whistler, of Philadelphia, will box 20 rounds.

Judge's friends, no less than the boxer himself, realize that in Ryan is a mighty clever opponent. He is a good two-handed fighter and always has a stiff punch left up to the time he goes out of the game. He has so seldom been thoroughly beaten, however, that if Judge does the trick on Feb. 2 the latter's stock will be way above par.

COAL COMPANIES DIFFER.

Affects the Operation and Employees of the West Ridge Colliery.

The West Ridge coal company, in its dispute with the Delaware and Hudson company, suffers a decrease in its output from the colliery on North Main avenue and Green Ridge street. There is a loss also to many miners and laborers who are employed in the China vein.

MINE LAWS PROVIDE THAT whenever more than twenty men are employed in a vein there shall be two outlets. The West Ridge company has only one outlet of their own, the other belonging to the Delaware and Hudson company. On Friday this opening was closed and eighteen miners and their laborers, several drivers and gate-tenders laid off. It also deprives the hundreds of sixty cars of coal daily and will undoubtedly effect several men employed in the structure.

There is no probability of the abandoned portion resuming work unless the two companies amicably settle their differences. If this fails, the West Ridge company will be compelled to sink a shaft.

SCHOOL TEACHER ASSAULTED.

Footpads Attack and Rob Miss Mary Burke, of Minooka.

Miss Mary Burke, teacher of Lackawanna township Keyser Valley school, lies at her home in Minooka suffering from nervous prostration, the result of a cowardly assault by three ruffian footpads.

Thursday night, at the close of the evening session, while passing along the half-mile stretch of road which separates the school from the end of the Luzerne street car line, she was attacked by three rough-looking men.

One of the closed hand over her mouth to prevent her making an outcry, another pinioned her arms, and the third roughly went through her pockets. After relieving her of her purse and gold watch, they scampered off in the darkness.

Their victim, after recovering from a swoon, into which she sank after she had released her, managed to get to the car line and reach home. She took to her bed immediately upon arriving at the house and has since been prostrated from the fright she experienced.

She says that she recognized one of the assailants. He is a member of a trio that is at present under ball for a similar crime at that place not long ago. No arrests have as yet been made.

SABBATH NOTES.

The service in the South Side branch of the Young Women's Christian association was in the German tongue.

Holy communion was celebrated at 8 o'clock in the morning in the Church of the Epiphany and St. Nicholas, West Scranton.

Rev. A. L. Ramer, Ph. D., pastor of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran church, held his usual service at 10 o'clock at both services. The topic of his morning sermon was "Jesus Cleansing the Leper;" that of the evening, "The Benevolence of God the Father and the Nations."

Rev. L. R. Foster, M. A., pastor of the South Avenue Presbyterian church, preached an eloquent sermon at the evening service at 8 o'clock. His theme was "The Sacraments of Every Soul Under the New Covenant."

MRS. LEONA WILCOX HAS BEEN FORGIVEN

Ate Her Dinner Yesterday with Her Husband and Their Two Children.

WILLIAM ANDREWS MAY GO FREE

He Was Arrested on a Charge of Larceny and If the Case Against Mrs. Wilcox Is Not Picked It Is Likely That Against Her Lover Will Fall—Both Were Brought Back from New York on Saturday.

Mrs. Leona Wilcox, who left her home, husband and two children at Clark's Green several weeks ago and ran away with the hired man, William Andrews, spent part of Saturday night in the police station. The couple were brought back Saturday evening from New York by Detective John Moulton on extradition papers.

Now, it is said, while Andrews, the co-respondent, is trumpeting about in a cell at police headquarters, Mrs. Wilcox is where she ought to be—at home.

It took a lot of trouble for the husband to bring about this happy consummation. He sold three of the best cows on his farm in his effort to locate the runaway—but cows cut no figure in the deal. Wilcox wanted his wife back and it looks as though he has succeeded.

The elopement is well remembered. Mrs. Wilcox left the farm with two horses and a wagon. She met Andrews by appointment and away they went, side by side, in the wagon.

At Hoptown they disposed of the outfit and from this clue Wilcox, the husband, who in the meanwhile had sworn out a warrant charging larceny before Alderman Bailey, of the Thirteenth ward, traced the runaways to New York city. Here they were arrested Friday, Jan. 13, and were held in custody pending the arrival of the necessary papers.

On the way from New York Saturday, Wilcox, the husband, was on the same train and was an unwilling auditor of the griefs and expressions of condolence bestowed upon Andrews by Mrs. Wilcox. She is young and pretty.

Reaching this city the couple were locked in cells at police headquarters. Both were very close-mouthed. Andrews particularly so. At 10 o'clock Mrs. Wilcox furnished bail before Judge Archbald and afterward Mrs. Wilcox and her husband had a meeting.

The result of which, it is said, is that they ate their Sunday dinner at one table with their two children. Wilcox will drop the charge against his wife.

As for Andrews he appears to be out of it also. The charge against him is larceny. It has been proven that Mrs. Wilcox took the outfit and joined Andrews, and Mrs. Wilcox says that one of the horses was her property. With these facts in his favor Andrews it is likely to say—as he has said—that the horse he sold was the one claimed by Mrs. Wilcox. He is still in the police station.

VARIETY OF WEATHER.

Spring, Fall and Winter All in One Day. Yesterday was a perfect day—in point of seasonable variety. In the morning there was a period of sunshine that made one think of green grass and spring flowers, but just before noon came a sudden change and rain and snow showered down upon the good people just as they were leaving their churches.

There were many cases of drenchings and a great many people, safely housed, had the pleasure of offering the shelter of the front porch to victims of the storm.

Despite the severe wind little damage was done. The awning and one of the electric lights in front of the Satter building on Lackawanna avenue were blown down and another awning at the Elceer building on Penn avenue suffered the same fate. Windows were broken in the Turkish bath building on Linden street.

Towards evening the weather again changed and became quite cold.

NO DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

Lackawanna Township Will Feel Strange on Election Day. The Democratic column on the official ballot in Lackawanna township will be a blank in the coming election. Judge Archbald, at the hearing of the claims for the nominees, Saturday morning, preemptorily threw out both sets of nominations, declaring that neither had been regularly selected.
