LINCOLN LODGE ENTERTAINS

Gave an Evening of Great Enjoyment to Its Friends in Osterhout's Hall The Carriage at the Marvine Shaft Went Up Too Far and Did Considerable Damage -- Mr. Church Had a Very Narrow Escape.

A stranger, of neat appearance, presented himself yesterday morning at the residence of Mrs. A. Dunn, 533 East Market street, and after stating to the landlady that he was desirous of securing a place to board and meeting with success in his quest for the same, he told Mrs. Dunn that he had a large trunk. He immediately left and returned with a large bundle. He was ssigned to his room and after arranging his articles, came down stairs, informing Mrs. Dunn that he would be back for dinner.

He again went out, and after waiting considerable length of time and still the absent one failed to return, Mrs Dunn made an investigation and found that the stranger had entered the adjoining rooms and taken with him everthing of any real value. The members of the family reported the matter the police and described the "boarder" as a man of medium height. clean shaven, dark clothes and derby hat, and was apparently 21 years of

NEW TRIAL GRANTED.

Judge Archbald Hands Down Opinion in Webster-Widmayer Case.

The Webster-Widmayer suit, commonly referred to as the stone case which attracted so much attention at the November term of common pleas. is to be tried over again. Judge Archbald yesterday set aside the verdict for the plaintiff and made absolute the rule for a new trial.

The suit grew out of the merging of the Scranton Stone company and the Lackawanna Stone company. M. O. Webster, of La Plume, a stockholder in the former, sued F. J. Widmayer, president, of the latter, for $7,000, which he claimed was promised him for the interests he owned in the Scranton com

When the evidence at the trial had been taken, Judge Archbald directed a verdict for the plaintiff, subject to his decision on a reserved law point as to whether or not Widmayer, who signed the obligation as president of the Lackawanna Stone company, was responsible individually. The jury went out about noon and much to the surprise of the court, would not agree upon the verdict it had directed. All night and all the next day, which was Thanksgiving Day, the jury staid out, answering each periodical inquiry from the court as to whether or not it was ready to report with the same response: "We cannot agree."

When court reconvened after the holiday recess, Judge Archbald called pearance with its tastefully decorated the jury from its room and taking the case from their hands, directed a verdict to enter for the plaintiff, conditional upon the point reserved. Yesterday in a lengthy opinion Judge Archbald decides that the finding was wrong; that Widmayer could not be held personally responsible.
